HOOVER REVEALS FINANCE RELIEF PLAN

A'S WIN, 3 TO 0; TWO HITS MADE OFF EARNSHAW

Martin, Who Makes Both, Spoils No-Hit Performance in Fifth.

FOXX SLAMS JOHNSON FOR HOMER IN SIXTH

Bishop and Simmons Have Hand in Putting Athletics Even in Series.

Today's game between the Athletics and Cardinals will be reproduced on The Post's magnetic scoreboard, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Shibe Park, Oct. 6.—Long George Earnshaw, Philadelphia social registerite, went back to the pitching mound for the Athletics today, and so diligently did he practice the niceties of his art, so effectively did he finesse the ball into the mitt of Mickey Cochrane, that St. Louis' Cardinals found themselves snubbed with two hits and a 3-to-0 defeat in the fourth game of the world series.

Earnshaw today partook of a large slice of the pitching heroics in this series, which now finds the two clubs deadlocked at two games each, after battles that by their brilliance have transferred this annual meeting of league champions into a pitchers' paradise.

For four and a third innings out there this afternoon Earnshaw had a no-hit game in his grasp, and it seemed he would better the two-hit performance of Grimes on Monday as the game wore into the eighth, but here the irrepressible Pepper Martin, dominant hero of this world series, crashed his second hit of the game, a double into left field, to thwart the one-hit bid of the big Philadelphia pitcher. But he stands tonight as the seventh of his calling to permit only two hits in 28 years of world series history.

Martin Solves Slants.

Only Pepper Martin was able to solve the fast-ball delivery of Earnshaw, featured by a hop that saw the Cardinals hitting under the pitches throughout the afternoon. All except Martin. It was the undoubtable center fielder of the Cardinals, who first interrupted Earnshaw's hitless pitching with a single in the fifth inning and then became the only member of the Cardinal cast to cause Earnshaw concern when he larruped his double to left field in the eighth amid the wild plaudits of the 33,000 in the stands who have learned to respect and admire this dashing hero of the world series who has now hit safetly in nine of fifteen times at bat.

The Athletics stirred themselves from their hitting doldrums today against the offerings of Sylvester Johnson, another prize member of Gabby Street's staff and an inning had not passed before his mates had

Posse of 500 Searches For Woman's Assailant

Fowlerville, Mich., Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Five hundred officers and civilians, armed with everything from deer rifles to pitchforks, searched the heavily timbered district around this village tonight for a madman who attacked and perhaps fatally wounded a young farmer's wife, after tearing her baby from her arms.

The victim, Mrs. R. C. Ward, 35, was near death from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Edison, Life Ebbing, Is Visited by Crony

Harvey Firestone Goes to Bedside of Inventor, Near Death.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 6 (U.P.).—A dramatic meeting between Thomas A. Edison and Henry Firestone, whose friendship became traditional in the days when they went on annual camping trips with Henry Ford, took place tonight in the room where the famous inventor is waging a losing fight against a complication of diseases.

For twenty minutes Firestone knelt at the feet of his former summer vacation crony while Edison sat in his favorite chair beside his bed.

"I got down on my knees so he could see my face clearly, and he recognized me and smiled," Firestone said.

Shortly after Firestone had returned to his hotel in New York, Charles Edison, the inventor's son, gave out a bulletin saying that his father seemed gradually to be losing strength.

German Cabinet Fall Looms; Curtius Quits

Resignations of Bruening Ministry May be Submitted Today; Attacks Following Dropping Of Customs Pact Force Foreign Chief Out.

Berlin, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—The German cabinet is scheduled to resign, probably tomorrow, to permit Chancellor Heinrich Bruening to reform a stronger government, without Foreign Minister Julius Curtius.

Dr. Curtius informed the chancellor by letter on Saturday that he desired "to retire from the cabinet regardless of the parliamentary situation," and today he presented his resignation, because of attacks on him after Germany was forced to drop the Austro-German customs union accord.

From a source close to Bruening it was learned that no formal decision to resign had been reached by the cabinet, but that such action was imminent because of the necessity of forming the most powerful coalition possible to oppose the attacks of Adolph Hitler's Fascists and the Communists in the forthcoming session of the Reichstag. Under any conditions, the hardships which Germany expects to face this winter will provide great difficulties for the government.

Three or four new cabinet ministers are expected to be included in the new regime, which will be fortified against a vote of misconfidence scheduled for the opening of the Reichtsag next week.

Bruening told a secret session of the federal council committee that President von Hindenburg's new emergency decree, to be issued tomorrow, would be for the primary purpose of averting immediate dangers due to economic distress and to relieve financial suffering in the German towns.

"However, only international cooperation on the shortest notice can bring real help," he was quoted as saying.

Reports from Washington that conditions probably would be exacted from Germany in return for exten-

COALITION SETS VOTE IN BRITAIN ON OCTOBER 27

National Ministry Seeks Support as Labor Plans Attack.

MACDONALD TO OPEN HIS CAMPAIGN TODAY

Widely Separated Factions Join for Election and Confuse Issues.

London, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Great Britain's 30,000,000 men and women voters will go to the polls in a general election October 27 to decide whether the nation, torn by financial and economic ills, shall continue to be ruled by Ramsay MacDonald's National government.

After days of almost unparalleled political uncertainty, Prime Minister MacDonald today announced the government's program to the House of Commons, which will be dissolved tomorrow by royal proclamation.

Tomorrow evening Mr. MacDonald will appeal over the radio for the nation's support—and the campaign in which much stored-up party bitterness is expected to be unloosed, will be under way.

No Cabinet Resignation.

The whole fight will turn on national confidence in the present cabinet. The Labor party, headed by Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary in the recent Labor government and life-long associate of Mr. MacDonald until their contrary views on the nation's financial crisis parted them, is almost solidly ranged against its old leader.

The prime minister has achieved an initial victory by carrying his whole national cabinet into the campaign without a resignation. But there is little unity beyond the cabinet itself and neutral political observers are chary about predicting the outcome of the voting.

Over the radio tomorrow night the prime minister will state his case in the broadest possible terms and will ask for the continuation in office of the National government to nurse the nation back to health.

To Run as Laborite.

With the terms of Mr. MacDonald's manifesto made public each party

Statement by President On Fiscal Plan He Wants

The President early today issued the following statement:

The prolongation of the depression by the succession of events in Europe, affecting as they have both commodity and security prices, has produced in some localities in the United States an apprehension wholly unjustified in view of the thousandfold resources we have for meeting any demand. Foolish alarm in these sections has been accompanied by wholly unjustifiable withdrawal of currency from the banks. Such action results in limiting the ability of the banks in these localities to extend credit to business men and farmers for the normal conduct of business, but beyond this to be prepared to meet the possibility of unreasoning demands of depositors the banks are compelled to place their assets in liquid form by sales of securities and restriction of credits so as to enable them to meet unnecessary and unjustified drains. This affects the conduct of banking further afield. It is unnecessary to specify the unfortunate sequences of such a situation in the districts affected both in its further effect on national prices of agricultural products, upon securities and upon the normal conduct of business and employment of labor. It is a deflationary factor and a definite impediment to agricultural and business recovery.

There is no justification for any such situation in view of the strength of our banking system, and the strong position of our Federal Reserve System. Our difficulty is a diffusion of resources and the primary need is to mobilize them in such a way as to restore in a number of localities the confidence of the banker in his ability to continue normal business and to dispel any conceivable doubt in the mind of those who do business with him.

In order to deal with this wholly abnormal situation and to bring about an early restoration of confidence, unity of action on the part of our bankers and cooperative action on the part of the Government is essential. Therefore, I propose the following definite program of action, to which I ask our citizens to give their full cooperation:

1. To mobilize the banking resources of the country to meet these conditions, I request the bankers of the

NEW CREDIT BODY, RESERVE BANK AID FOR REDISCOUNTS ARE IN PROPOSAL

President, at Parley With Leaders in Congress, Tells of Private Bankers' Pledge of $150,000,000 to Begin Organization.

BANKS ARE ASKED TO ASSIST THOSE CLOSED AND DISABLED

Statement Says He Will, if Necessary, Urge Creation of Institution Similar to War Finance Corporation; Will Discuss With Laval Possibility of Debt Moratorium Extension.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover at a momentous conference at the White House last night laid before a gathering of Republican and Democratic members of Congress a sweeping program for lifting the United States out of an economic slough.

The program is designed primarily to rescue banks that are now in trouble, to loosen the frozen assets in the country and in general to restore confidence in the Nation's financial stability.

The program, all points of which were approved by the assembled statesmen save one, is as follows:

Creation of a national credit institution with a fund of $500,000,000 to rediscount bank assets that can not now be rediscounted by the Federal Reserve Board because of statutory restrictions.

To the proposed fund the New York Clearing House Association already has subscribed $150,000,000. President Hoover in his statement last night called on other banks throughout the country to subscribe the other $350,000,000 in the "national interest."

Would Ask Assistance of Congress.

If the banks should fail the President in this emergency, he will ask Congress to enact legislation recreating an organization such as the War Finance Corporation.

On September 8, the President's statement revealed, he asked the governors of the Federal Reserve banks to endeavor to secure the cooperation of bankers in their territory to make some advances on the security of closed banks or to take over some of their assets so that the disabled banks could pay some dividends to their depositors.

In his statement last night the President asked the governors of the Federal Reserve banks to appoint committees to work with the New York bankers in raising the emergency fund of $500,000,000.

The President did not ask the 32 members of Congress to approve of the course he proposes to pursue with regard to international debts.

Will Discuss Debts With Laval.

He did tell them, however, that when Premier Laval of France comes here on October 22 he is going to discuss the debt question with him.

"It is my purpose," he said, to discuss with him the question of such further arrangements as are imperative during the period of the depression in respect of intergovernmental debts."

The policy of the American Government in this matter, he said, was set forth in his statement in connection with the one-year moratorium on reparations and debts last June.

However, he added, America's problem now in this respect is one of "such adjustment during the period of depression as will at the same time aid our own and world recovery."

Several Voice Objection.

To some of the statesmen present this sounded like cancellation or revision talk, and several of them objected vigorously to any such discussion between the President and the French premier.

Representative John N. Garner (Democrat), of Texas, the Democratic leader in the House, is reported to have told the President that if he proposed anything in the way of an extension of the moratorium or a revision of the debts, he would do so on his own responsibility. Garner is determined to fight even the one-year moratorium when it comes up in Congress next December.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, also was reported to have protested against any move at this time in connection with the international debts. Under certain conditions, some of them being revision of the Versailles Treaty and the Treaty of St. Germain, he might favor cancellation of debts.

Would Amend Bank Law.

The President said he would ask Congress to amend the law so that the Federal Reserve banks can accept securities which, because of statutory restrictions, they may not now accept.

This, he pointed out, would give greater liquidity to the assets of banks, and thus a greater assurance to the bankers in the granting of loans.

The President announced also that he would recommend to Congress the subscription of further stock by the Government to the Federal Land banks, so that their resources may be strengthened, and so that they may be able to obtain money at lower interest rates and better serve the farmer.

Unanimous Agreement.

So far as these three matters upon which congressional action would be involved are concerned, the assembled statesmen, Democratic as well as Republican, were in unanimous agreement.

Last night's conference, which was arranged after the President had conferred with a group of New York bankers over the week-end, started at 9 o'clock and broke up two minutes before midnight.

The conference, which must go down as one of the most important in the economic history of the country, began in the Lincoln study, on the second floor, wherein the Emancipator used to sit and ponder his troubles in the Civil War. This room, however, was too small for the 36 present, and it was decided to move in the library, which adjoins it.

The conference was attended by 36 men—18 Republicans, 9 senators and the same number of representatives, and 14 Democrats, 7 senators and 7 representatives.

There also were present four members of the executive branch of the

SPAIN'S HEAD QUITS; LATER RECANTS ACT

Alcala Zamora, Resentful of Criticism, Decides to Retain His Post.

Madrid, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—President Don Niceto Alcala Zamora, of the Spanish republic, presented his resignation to the National Assembly late tonight, but withdrew it shortly afterward.

The veteran statesman, who has guided the helm of the new Spanish government since the republic followed the departure of former King Alfonso XIII, presented his resignation to the assembly at a late hour, moved, he said, by criticism of his administration by a deputy who is also a member of the committee on Spain's proposed new constitution.

Speaking from the government bench in the Assembly, President Alcala Zamora said that he was resigning because of criticism directed against him by Deputy Botella, a member of the Assembly's constitutional committee. The deputy, he said, has "made it clear that he was presiding over the cabinet without the approval of his party."

The radical Republican members and the Progressives, Alcala Zamora partisans, gave him a great ovation as he rose from the blue cabinet bench and took an ordinary deputy's

Powers to Be Grilled In Mary Baker Death

A further investigation into the murder of Mary Baker was launched yesterday by police, who dispatched Detective Sergt. John Flaherty to Clarksburg, W. Va., where he will question Harry Powers, "Bluebeard" slayer of two women and three children.

Determined not to neglect any clue, Inspector Frank Burke, chief of detectives, said that Flaherty will question Powers and try to determine the source of tips and letters, received here, which state that Powers was staying in a Washington hotel at the time of the Baker slaying.

ARMY-NAVY ELEVENS BATTLE FOR CHARITY

Tentative Plans Made by Secretaries; Site and Date Undecided.

(Associated Press.)

The thrill of another gridiron clash between West Point and Annapolis, with the unemployed benefiting, will be given American football fans this fall.

Secretary Adams, of the Navy Department, and Acting Secretary Payne, of the War Department, tentatively arranged for the game. Only details of the exact time and place remained last night for settlement.

Several suggestions have been advanced that this year's game be played in a city other than New York, the place of last year's game, which the Army won 6-0. That game netted about $400,000 for the unemployed.

Naval officials favor Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Annapolis' last scheduled game will be there December 5, when the Academy plays the University of Pennsylvania.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, has informally suggested Chicago. Cleveland and other cities also have been suggested.

The probable date of the game is December 12. Considerations of securing as large attendance as possible may make it necessary, naval officers said last night, to play the game at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Since the game will be for charity, both Army and Navy officials are

King Carol Watches Son During Tonsil Operation

Bucharest, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Crown Prince Michael underwent an operation for removal of his tonsils today while his father, King Carol, who had put on a surgeon's aseptic apron, stood by and held his hand.

The operation was performed in Foischor Castle by Prof. Gustave Hofer in the presence of two Rumanian specialists. Afterward King Carol kissed his son and called him "a little hero." The prince's condition was described as normal tonight.

Traffic Snarled as 20,000 Rush to Southeast Explosion

Storage Shack Along Pennsylvania Railrooad Fired by Acetylene Blasts and Debris Hurled High; All Available Police and Firemen Rushed to Scene.

A series of explosions of oxyacetylene gas tanks stored in a burning tool shed on the Pennsylvania Railroad freight tracks near Eleventh street and Virginia avenue southeast, rocked that section of the city and drew 20,000 persons to the scene last night.

That no one was injured was considered miraculous because fragments of steel tanks and beams and tools from the shed showered the populous neighborhood within a radius of 250 yards. The shed was reduced to splinters and the explosion shattered windows and dislodged plastering in nearby homes.

Less than a minute separated men of Engine Company No. 18, from almost certain annihilation. Under Sergt. P. H. Weaver, they were laying hose on the crest of an embankment above the tool shed preparatory to descending to the shed when a second explosion occurred. All sought shelter behind the engine. Flaming clapboards and tools dropped about them.

At least 10,000 automobiles converged in the vicinity, their operators attracted by rumors of a catastrophe. Nearly 100 policemen, drawn from headquarters, the traffic bureau and the precincts, were required to keep the crowds from the danger zone and to direct traffic.

Harry Bond, watchman for Hyman Viener's scrap metal shop at 1115 Virginia avenue, turned in the first fire alarm when he heard the first explosion and saw flames licking the sides of the one-story wooden shanty, which is located about 125 yards south of the entrance to the Pennsylvania railroad freight tunnel.

Fire Sergt. Weaver, in charge of the first engine company which responded, said that the sides of the tracks were littered with bits of flaming rubbish while his men were preparing to lay hose when the second explosion occurred.

There was another minor blast, following which the blaze was got under control. About 20 more acety-

Legend of Buried Gold On Frontier Fulfilled

Paris, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—A centuries-old legend that gold had been buried by priests along the frontier of France and Belgium was reported today to have led to the recovery of a hoard of long-hidden metal. Some newspaper reports said the gold store totaled $4,000,000.

The government fiscal service was informed that archeologists excavating in a tenth century subterranean passage between the French Abbey of Cysoing and the Belgian Abbey of Hertain had discovered the cache beneath a field of sugar beets planted by a Belgian peasant.

Dry Is Nominated By Michigan G.O.P.

Eldred Wins 8th District; Hart, Wet Democrat, Runs Ahead.

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Foss O. Eldred, Republican, who supports prohibition in its present form, and Michael J. Hart, Democrat, who favors modification, apparently were nominated by their respective parties in today's special congressional primary in the Eighth Michigan District.

Unofficial returns from 183 of 190 precincts gave Eldred a commanding lead in a field of 13 candidates. He had 5,681 votes, while Arthur E. Hagen in second place had 3,980. Hagen in his campaign advocated a referendum on prohibition.

Hart, in the Democratic primary, polled 2,355 votes in 183 precincts while his opponent, William B. Mershon, also a modificationist, had 2,062.

The Lindberghs will sail from Shanghai tomorrow on the steamer Shanghai Maru for Kobe, Japan, from there they will proceed by train to Yokohama, Japan, where they will board the liner President Jefferson, October 10. They will reach Seattle October 20.

TARIFF ISSUE DRAWS HEATED PARLEY ROW

Pan-American Delegates to Hold Plenary Session on Question Today.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Dr. Gustavo Gutierez, official delegate of the Cuban government and one of the most brilliant young lawyers of Havana, almost upset the fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference here yesterday by unexpectedly injecting into the discussion his proposal for a two-year moratorium on all tariffs, both for the United States and Latin-America. His proposal completely eclipsed the plan for discussion of silver revalorization, which will be brought out again today.

Only a few minutes before the unexpected Cuban proposal, Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, had lulled the delegates into a state of tariff tranquillity by an exposition of the work of his commission in readjusting protested tariff rates. The Mexican delegate, Daniel Cosio, promptly rose to second the Cuban resolution. Dr. Varela, chairman of the conference, was somewhat taken aback at this move and suggested that the entire matter of tariffs be referred to the committee on resolutions as provided in the conference regulations. Dr. Gutierez looked pained.

He wanted more ample discussion of his proposition than the closed committee of official government delegates could give. The Mexican

Dole Backer Wins Detroit Landslide

Mayor Frank Murphy Leads Nearest Opponent More Than 3 to 1.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A landslide placed Mayor Frank Murphy in nomination for reelection in today's nonpartisan primary election. Harold H. Emmons, former police commissioner, was nominated as his opponent.

Returns from 771 of the city's 895 precincts gave Murphy 101,995 votes, while Emmons had 31,473. Howard A. Starret ran third with 18,473. John C. Nagel, long a councilman, had 13,183.

Mayor Murphy has been in office since September, 1930, when he was elected to serve the unexpired term of Charles Bowles, who was recalled. During Murphy's term of office the city has spent in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 in payment of doles to unemployed. Emmons attacked the dole system as did several other of Murphy's opponents.

JAPANESE WARSHIPS STIR CHINESE FEARS

Removal of Capital Planned as Nippon's Mobilization Adds to Tension.

Shanghai, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A demonstration here today by four newly arrived Japanese warships and orders to the Japanese navy to prepare for mobilization at Kure and Sasebo, Japan, caused great alarm in China. Chinese were panicky in Shanghai and at Nanking, 93 miles up the Yangtze River.

The country already was excited and embittered because of Japan's armed occupation of Southern Manchuria since September 18.

Frightened by Japanese warships steaming up the Yangtze, Chinese officials talked of moving the capital from Nanking to Honanfu, far inland, in Honan Province, where it would be free from menace by Japanese naval vessels.

Four Japanese destroyers moved up the Whangpoo River to Shanghai while thousands of Chinese gazed apprehensively, from river banks. The ships anchored off Hongkew, the Japanese section of Shanghai's international settlement, and a little later Japanese war tanks rumbled through Hongkew streets.

Rumors that the Japanese intended to take possession of the Chinese portion of Shanghai were denied by Japanese officials. They said the warships were present to insure Japanese

3 Killed When Airplane Crashes on Top of Auto

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 6 (U.P.).—An airplane fell on an automobile on Main street today, killing three men. The pilot, Kenneth Magley, 28, was injured, probably fatally. The dead are Melvin Miller, 58, theater owner; Willis Leininger, 53, and Virgil Blumbaugh, 42, uncle of the pilot.

Miller was in the automobile talking with Leininger, who was on the running board, when the plane fell from about 100 feet. Blumbaugh was a passenger in the plane, which had just taken off from the airport near town, when its motor failed.

16 Tons of Gold Taken To Paris by Airplane

Paris, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Airplanes brought sixteen tons of gold into Paris today, increasing the Bank of France reserves with shipments from Amsterdam and London.

Two and one-half tons were sent out by airplane to Amsterdam. Bank of France officials insisted that the fresh impetus to the gold movement including heavy shipments from New York was due to profitable purchases because of the weakening of foreign currencies as compared to the franc.

Baby of 23 Months, Injured By Crack Train, May Live

Wandering from her home at Washington Grove, Md., as she waited for her brother and sister to return from school, a 23-month-old baby was struck and critically injured by a crack Baltimore & Ohio Railroad fast train late yesterday.

The child was Pauline Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Smith, of Washington Grove. She is in the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring with a probable fracture of the skull.

After the accident, the baby was taken to Gaithersburg on the train. Here she was given first-aid by Dr. F. B. Broschart and sent to the hospital in the ambulance of E. C. Gartner, of Gaithersburg.

The child reached the tracks only after she climbed over about two feet of rock ballast along the Baltimore & Ohio line. Pauline often waited anxiously for her brother William, 9, and sister Mabel, 7, neighbors said. The older children were late in returning from school yesterday, and it is believed the baby went to meet them. The father of the child is employed in a grocery store in Chevy Chase.

Trainmen said there is a possibility the child was not struck by the train but was blown from the ballast at the side of the rails by the rush of air from the train as it passed, and then struck her head, causing the injuries. The child's home is about 400 feet from the place where she was struck, which is on a path used by children going to and from school. It was not a public crossing.

STIMSON AND BORAH TALK NAVAL HOLIDAY

Entire U. S. Foreign Policy Up for Discussion at Luncheon Meeting.

(Associated Press).

Discussion of a prospective naval holiday was revived yesterday by a lengthy conference between Secretary Stimson and Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee.

America's entire foreign policy was known to be up for dissection at the luncheon conference on the quiet estate of the Secretary of State. The proposed naval holiday, moreover, is a subject receiving close attention from both of these leaders in foreign affairs.

Senator Borah has gone farther than Italy and recommended a holiday of five years instead of one. The Hoover administration is on record as favoring the universal suspension of battleship building, pending the 1932 disarmament conference, but details have not been arranged.

Talk Covers Entire Range.

Last Friday, Secretary Stimson called into consultation the late Senator Morrow, of New Jersey. The senator was one of the American delegates to London naval conference last year and was regarded as an expert on the international naval situation.

The meeting yesterday was the first between Borah and Stimson in many months, as the senator returned to the city from Idaho only last week.

Impatient of interruptions which inevitably occur at the State Department, the Secretary chose the privacy of Woodley, his home on Cathedral avenue.

As in his conversations with Senator Morrow, who died suddenly Monday, the Secretary spoke frankly of the whole range of current international problems.

On one point the two found themselves in whole-hearted agreement—the advisability of further disarmament as a step toward world economic recovery and peace.

Senator Borah evinced a keen interest in the observations of the Secretary on his trip to Europe last summer. On this tour he had an opportunity, in intimate contact with foreign statesmen, to feel the pulse of Italy, France and Great Britain on this and other questions.

Point to Many Problems.

The Secretary pointed to many European political problems which must be solved before complete disarmament can be effected. He expressed the view that an immediate holiday in arms construction would add to the prospects of success at the general disarmament conference at Geneva in February.

Recognition of Russia by the United States was advanced by Senator Borah as a prerequisite to the complete attainment of the disarmament goal.

The forthcoming visit of Premier Laval of France was seen as an opportunity for important adjustments of Franco-American points of view on disarmament, international debts and reparations and the problem created by the flight of gold to this country and to France.

Secretary Stimson also availed himself of the senator's counsel on the perplexing Manchurian situation, now complicated by a request from the Chinese government for an investigation by representatives of the United States.

Robinson Paints Brighter Arkansas

Senator Says His State Has Food, but Needs Cash for Debts.

(Associated Press).

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who led the drought relief contest last session, returned to the Capital yesterday with a bright picture of conditions in the region stricken a year ago.

"There is an abundance of crops," reported Senator Robinson concerning Arkansas, "and the cupboards are filled with food to last for some time. Unfortunately, prices are low for the 'money' crops, which the farmers depend on for cash. Arkansas would have made the quickest recovery ever known, except for the condition of the general market."

Because of the low prices, the senator said, the farmers were having some difficulty paying their mortgages and debts. That problem is a very actual one, he said, which is receiving immediate attention.

Snowden Reported Ready for Peerage

Appointment Would Enable Him to Continue to Aid Government.

London, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—In circles close to Chancellor Philip Snowden it was said today that Mr. Snowden, who was cancellor of the exchequer in the Labor cabinet, and retained the post in the present coalition government, had decided to accept a peerage.

Reports that he might do so have been current for some time, but always previously it was said that the stanch Socialist would not accept the elevation.

Now, however, since he has announced that he will not seek reelection in the voting at the end of this month, an appointment to the peerage would enable him to continue his assistance to the government from the upper house.

Nation to form a national institution of at least $500,000,000. The purpose of this institution to be the rediscount of banking assets not now eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve Banks in order to assure our banks, being sound, that they may attain liquidity in case of necessity, and thereby enable them to continue their business without the restriction of credits or the sacrifice of their assets. I have submitted my proposal to the leading bankers of New York. I have been advised by them that it will receive their support, and that at my request they will assume the leadership in the formation of such an orgnization. The members of the New York City Clearing House Association have unanimously agreed to contribute their share by pledging $150,000,000, which is 2 per cent of their net demand and time deposits. I have been assured from other large centers, as far as I have been able to reach, of their support also. I consider that it is in the national interest, including the interest of all individual banks and depositors, that all the banks of the country should support this movement to their full responsibility. It is a movement of national assurance and of unity of action in an American way to assist business, employment and agriculture.

2. On September 8 I requested the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks to endeavor to secure the cooperation of the bankers of their territory to make some advances on the security of the assets of closed banks or to take over some of these assets in order that the receivers of those banks may pay some dividends to their depositors in advance of what would otherwise be the case pending liquidation. Such a measure will contribute to free many business activities and to relieve many families from hardship over the forthcoming winter, and in a measure reverse the process of deflation involved in the tying up of deposits. Several of the districts have already made considerable progress to this end, and I request that it should be taken up vigorously as a community responsibility.

3. In order that the above program of unification and solidarity of action may be carried out and that all parts of the country be enlisted, I request the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks in each district to secure the appointment of working committees of bankers for each reserve district to cooperate with the New York group and in carrying out the other activities which I have mentioned.

4. I shall propose to the Congress that the eligibility provisions of the Federal reserve act should be broadened in order to give greater liquidity to the assets of the banks, and thus a greater assurance to the bankers in the granting of credits by enabling them to obtain legitimate accommodation on sound security in times of stress. Such measures are already under consideration by the Senate committee on currency and banking.

5. Furthermore, if necessity requires, I will recommend the creation of a finance corporation similar in character and purpose to the War Finance Corporation, with available funds sufficient for any legitimate call in support of credit.

6. I shall recommend to Congress the subscription of further capital stock by the Government to the Federal Land Banks (as was done at their founding) to strengthen their resources so that on the one hand the farmer may be assured of such accommodation as he may require and on the other hand their credit may be of such high character that they may obtain their funds at low rates of interest.

7. I have submitted the above mentioned proposals which require legislation to the members of Congress whose attendance I was able to secure on short notice at this evening's meeting—being largely the members of committees particularly concerned—and they approve of them in principle.

8. Premier Laval of France is visiting the United States. It is my purpose to discuss with him the question of such further arrangements as are imperative during the period of the depression in respect of intergovernmental debts. The policy of the American Government in this matter is well known and was set out by me in a public statement on June 20 in announcing the American proposal for a year's postponement of debt payments. Our problem in this respect is one of such adjustment during the period of depression as will at the same time aid our own and world recovery. This being a subject first of negotiation with foreign governments was not submitted for determination at this evening's conference.

9. The times call for unity of action on the part of our people. We have met with great difficulties not of our own making. It requires determination to overcome these difficulties and above all to restore and maintain confidence. Our people owe it not only to themselves and in their own interest, but they can by such an example of stability and purpose give hope and confidence in our own country and to the rest of the world.

Tax on Poor Seen In Return of Beer

Antisaloon Group Holds Move Would Play Into Hands of Rich.

Labor leaders proposing legalization and taxation of beer were described last night by the Antisaloon League as "playing into the hands of the millionaire class, who wish to shift the burden of income taxes to the workingman."

The league, in a formal statement quoting from an article in its organ, the American Issue, asserted the "wealthy drink champagne and other costly liquors," while the "greatest proportion of beer would be drunk and the beer tax paid by the workingman and the wage earner." Figures to show persons with incomes of less than $10,000 paid only 3.91 per cent of the income taxes, while those with incomes above $10,000 paid 96.09 per cent were cited by the league.

Proposals for a $12-a-barrel tax on beer were met with the statement: "To yield a billion dollars in revenue at even this high rate, there must be 83,333,333 barrels of beer made and sold annually—over 21 gallons for every man, woman and child in the Nation. * * * No Nation can drink itself rich any more than an individual can do so," the league said.

National Bank Law Cases Are Doubled

Criminal Charges in Last Year Are Reported by Justice Bureau.

(Associated Press.)

Federal criminal prosecutions for national banking law violations nearly doubled in the fiscal year ended June 30. The Justice Department said yesterday "a great variety of cases arose under violations" of the national, Federal Reserve and farm loan acts.

"There was a material increase in the number of criminal national banking cases," the department said, "which increased from 216 in the previous year to 427. Cases arising under the Federal Reserve act totaled 34 with 32 disposed of, and under the Federal farm loan act 14 cases were instituted and 18 terminated."

The Government instituted 178 criminal cases under the bankruptcy act, disposing of 197 with a record of 108 convictions and 87 pleas of guilty.

Use of Senators In Dry Drive Hit

Woman Democrats Attack Authority of National Committee.

Attacking the authority of the Democratic national committee to use wet senators or representatives as spokesmen for the enemies of prohibition, Mrs. Clem Shaver, vice president of the Woman's National Democratic Law Enforcement League, made public here yesterday a letter addressed to Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, in which she pointed out that legalized liquor would be just as harmful to public health as illicit liquor, and challenged the right of the Democratic national headquarters to broadcast the senator's wet propoganda.

The letter said in part:

"In your statement issued from Democratic national headquarters some days ago, speaking as one of our prominent health physicians, you stated that liquor was undermining the public health and asked as a remedy for present conditions the resubmission of the eighteenth amendment. May we not respectfully inquire if legalized liquor is not just as injurious to the public health as illicit liquor?"

Cut in Naval Force Of 3,000 Is Planned

Adams Program Meets Hoover's Demand for Economy.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Adams is prepared to reduce naval personnel by slightly more than 3,000 to meet President Hoover's demand for expenditure cuts. The Marine Corps, under the plan discussed yesterday, would be cut by 600 or 700 men. The President wants 1933 estimates for the Navy sliced from $401,000,000 to $340,000,000.

The personnel reduction would be made through curtailment of fleet activities, under which one-fifth of the vessels would be kept out of commission under a rotation plan.

A consequent curtailment of activities would result at various shore stations. It was said authoritatively at the Navy Department that West Coast naval station cuts of any consequence are not being considered.

Labor Seen Ready To Aid Prosperity

W. R. Ingalls, Economist, Says Workers Accept Changed Times.

Holding that the American labor system has already adapted itself to the changed conditions so that "we might have a revival of business," W. R. Ingalls, economist and engineer, has joined the ranks of those who foresee prosperity for the country.

In a five-page statement, Mr. Ingalls says that there can be no such thing as overproduction of construction, as no present limit is visible. All countries are in need of more building, especially of more houses, he says.

He admits that there may be "temporary overproduction of foodstuffs, but such overproductions are quickly corrected if natural economic laws have their play." These economic laws are sometimes opposed by "bonuses to veterans and governmental relief of unemployment," he continues. He charges that chronic unemployment is due to obstacles that have been put in the way of these laws.

La Follette Advocates Tax Boost on Incomes

(Associated Press.)

Extensive increases in the taxes on large incomes and inheritances was advocated yesterday by Senator LaFollette (Republican), of Wisconsin, upon his return to the Capital. Senator LaFollette is one of the Republican independents holding the balance of power in the new Congress, and is a member of the powerful finance committee which frames revenue legislation.

An enlarged public buildings program was urged by the Wisconsin senator as an aid to employment. He also renewed his demand for Federal aid for the cities in relieving unemployment distress.

Banker in Cleveland Found Dead in Garage

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Phillip T. White, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Co., was found dead today in a garage at the Cleveland Country Club. White apparently had succumbed from carbon monoxide poisoning. He was head of the bank's investment department.

Marshal W. A. Simonson, of Pepper Pike Village, said White drove his own auto in the garage about 9:30 a. m. His body was found several hours later in the drivers seat. The garage was filled with carbon monoxide fumes, although the engine of the auto had stopped running. Doors of the garage were closed.

PRESIDENT, IN CONFERENCE, PROPOSES TO EASE CREDIT

Government—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Walter Newton, secretary to the President.

There will be another conference at the White House today when the President will meet with nationally known bankers and real estate men. It is the purpose of the President to clear away some of the restrictions that have made real estate loans under existing conditions difficult to handle.

Reporters and Cameramen.

The statesmen and officials whom President Hoover had summoned for the nocturnal conference arrived to find the White House portico crowded with reporters and cameramen. There were no less than 75 representatives of the press on the scene. Flashlights boomed intermittingly for half an hour as the procession of senators and representatives crossed the portico and moved into the White House foyer.

No such spectacle had been witnessed at the White House since that night ten years ago when President Warren G. Harding gave his famous dinner for the Senate. Many of those who visited the White House that night—Lodge, of Massachusetts; Brandegee, of Connecticut, and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, to mention a few—have now passed on along with the man who was their host.

King First to Arrive.

After that dinner President Harding appeared at the White House door, called the reporters to him, and told them what had been talked about. However, no such gesture as that was expected of President Hoover last night.

The first to arrive for last night's conference was Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, a member of the finance committee. He drove up in a taxicab at 8:38, 22 minutes before the conference was scheduled to begin.

Upon being told by "Ike" Hoover, major-domo of the White House the last 40 years, that the President was still at dinner, Senator King returned to the portico and talked to the reporters about the silver question, now a burning issue in his part of the country.

Senator Walsh Last.

The last of the statesmen to arrive at the White House was Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Democrat), of Montana. Ordinarily a stickler on such things as punctuality, the Montana senator strolled up to the portico at one minute after 9.

Five minutes behind Senator King came Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican), of Connecticut, the majority leader in the last House, and a candidate for Speaker in the next. Like Senator Walsh, he came on foot.

Then came Senator Claude Swanson (Democrat), of Virginia, a member of the highly important committees on foreign relations and naval affairs. His colleague, Senator Carter Glass, arrived a little later. The expectation was that Mr. Glass would play a prominent role in the conference. He was Secretary of the Treasury in Woodrow Wilson's Cabinet, and is looked upon as the outstanding financial expert on the Democratic side of the Senate.

Senator Walcott Next.

After Senator Swanson came Senator Frederick C. Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut. As he walked across the portico, a White House car bearing the license tag, 106, drove up. Out of it stepped Walter Newton, political secretary to President Hoover, and one of the four nonmembers of Congress to attend the conference.

From 8:50 to 9 o'clock the members were arriving at the rate of more than two a minute. Some wore business suits, others tuxedos; some derbies, others felts of various hues and shapes.

Senator James A. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, the genial majority leader of the Senate, wore his familiar sweeping black felt.

Representative John N. Garner (Democrat) of Texas, the scrappy Democratic leader of the House, and the next Speaker of the House if the Democrats organize that body, swept onto the portico wearing a fawn-colored sombrero.

Pose for Cameramen.

Representative Isaac Bacharach (Republican), of New Jersey, who would like to be Speaker if the Republicans organize the House, exchanged hats with Garner on the portico.

"Hold that!" yelled the cameramen. The two men, close friends personally, however they may fight in the House, posed for the cameramen, each wearing the other's hat. Flashlights boomed.

Those who attended the conference included:

Republican senators: Frederick C. Walcott, of Connecticut; Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut; Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan; James E. Watson, of Indiana; Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming; Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois; John G. Townsend, of Delaware; William E. Borah, of Idaho, and David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania.

Republican Representatives.

Republican representatives: John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut; Frank Crowther, of New York; Bertram H. Snell, of New York; Allen T. Treadway, of Massachusetts; Louis T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania; Richard S. Aldrich, of Rhode Island; Isaac Bacharach, of New Jersey; Robert Luce, of Massachusetts, and Frederick L. Davenport, of New York.

Democratic senators: William H. King, of Utah; Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia; Carter Glass, of Virginia; Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas; Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, and Robert F. Wagner, of New York.

Democratic representatives: John N. Garner, of Texas; Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee; T. Allen Goldsborough, of Maryland; Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia; Charles H. Brand, of Georgia; William F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, and John McDuffie, Alabama.

Officials of the executive branch of the Government attending included: Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury; Eugene Meyer, jr., governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Walter L. Newton, secretary to the President.

Conference Urges Nine More Judges

14 Temporary Judgeships Are Recommended to Become Permanent.

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of nine additional district judges and elevation to permanent status of fourteen temporary district judgeships was recommended by the recent senior circuit judges' conference in a report made public yesterday by Chief Justice Hughes.

The conference urged congressional authorization for two additional district judges for southern New York, two for southern California, and one each for eastern New York, northern Georgia, West Virginia, southern Texas and western Missouri.

The temporary district judgeships recommended to be made permanent were two in Massachusetts, two in the southern district of New York, and one each in the eastern district of New York, in western Pennsylvania, eastern Michigan, eastern Missouri, western Missouri, New Jersey, northern Texas, northern Ohio, southern California and Arizona.

Grain Export Increase Is Reported for Week

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 2,849,000 bushels against 1,677,000 bushels the previous week.

Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before: Wheat, 2,761,000 bushels against 1,377,000 bushels; oats, 72,000 against 138,000; corn 10,000 against 44,000; barley, 6,000 against 118,000. No figures for rye exports are available for either week.

Dual Directorship Barred by I. C. C.

Plan for Consolidation Enters Into Decision of Body.

(Associated Press.)

Directors of a railroad included in one consolidation system will not be permitted under an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling yesterday to hold a directorship in a railroad included in another system.

Rejecting the application of Frank C. Rand, of St. Louis for permission to become a director of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway while holding a directorship in the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway, the commission said:

"We are of the opinion that the public interest will be served in greatest measure if complete independence can be secured between systems, although directly serving different territories. Under our proposed consolidation plan, the Eastern trunk line system will connect and interchange traffic at Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis, with other systems directly serving the Northwest, the West and the Southwest."

Mitchell Weighs Move In Radio Trust Charges

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Mitchell yesterday pondered the Government's next move in antitrust proceedings against the Radio Corporation of America and affiliated companies.

He planned conferences with John Lord O'Brien, Assistant Attorney General in charge of antitrust work, and Judge Warren Olney, special assistant on the radio case. Among other terms for a settlement, the Government has proposed creation of an open pool for all patents held by the radio corporation group.

AGRICULTURE HAILS HOOVER CONFERENCE

"Farm Hands" Lunch Club Sees Possibility of Aid to Bank Assets.

(Associated Press.)

Agriculture is inclined to look with optimism on President Hoover's conference with congressional leaders.

Members of the "Farm Hands" Luncheon Club, a deliberative group of private and official representatives of farm interests in Washington, took the view at their regular weekly meeting that out of the conference might come a coalition movement in Congress to liquify the assets of domestic banks.

Gold of high value but no earning power was described as backing up in American banks—a condition created by present methods of evaluation. The fixed amount of gold in a dollar has increased in direct ratio to the decline in commodity values.

Gray Reviews Situation.

Chester Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the situation "had become one of fundamental economics and not politics," and that it required nonpartisan treatment.

That view, he said, also was held by President Hoover last winter when his organization went to the White House for an expression on the Burtness bill to inflate commodity values by gradually decreasing the number of grains of gold in a dollar until the 1926 relationship between commodities and gold were reestablished.

"This winter," he said, "will find agriculture's 30,000,000 consumers and labor's vast array buying just as little as it is humanly possible to live on unless money gets cheaper."

Possibilities of Conference.

In addition to legislation to stabilize the dollar, agriculture sees in the conference the possibility of Congress hearing some demand for remonitization of silver, inflation of fiat money, Federal guarantee of bank deposits, cooperative banks under Federal charter, branch banking and more power for the Federal Reserve Board in matters of inspection and examination.

The Brookhart bill for cooperative banks would make depositors the owners to whom dividends would be prorated at the end of the fiscal year.

Branch banking, a directly opposite system disliked by agriculture for its inflexibility but respected for its strength, would distribute credit through centrally controlled branch houses.

Akron Is in Air 8 Hours On Her Fifth Trial Trip

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The Navy airship Akron moored at its dock at 7:40 p. m. (Eastern standard time) tonight after a trial flight over northeastern Ohio lasting approximately eight hours.

Today's test flight, the fifth, was for the purpose of checking the ship's water recovery system and its ability to stop by reversing the engines. The cruise, which began at 11:37 a. m., was apparently without incident.

15,000 Textile Workers Now Out at Lawrence

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The number of textile workers unemployed as the result of a strike against a 10 per cent wage cut was swelled to 15,000 today.

The 10,000 workers on strike in three plants of the American Woolen Co. were joined by 3,000 from the Pacific Mills when the worsted division of that plant was closed and by 1,500 who failed to return to work at the Arlington Mills after the noon meal hour.

Doctors and Educators Add to Life's Confusion

—By JOHN J. DALY—

BETWEEN the professors and the physicians, life is being torn to shreds and tatters, turned inside down, set topsy-turvy.

After all whistlers had been branded as morons by the professor of philosophy at New York University, a former chief of the Chicago Health Department advanced the startling view that fresh air is not fit to breathe; that "if more people had more outdoor air, the death rate would be considerably higher."

Extreme pleasure has always been associated with profound pain, supreme joy tinctured with severe sorrow; as evidenced always by the morning after the night before. These are truisms that are just beginning to dawn upon us as scholars issue their statements to the press, for publicity purposes.

"Ipse felicitas," says Seneca, "se nisi temperat premit." "Even happiness, unless it moderate itself, oppresseth."

WELL, it doesn't even have to to moderate itself to become oppressive, for the modern savants find that the most miserable men in the world are the happiest.

Delight gnaws at the human heart, and the only cheerful people are those who give themselves completely to melancholy.

Labor is pleasure and pleasure is labor; for the hardest of all work is the attempt to wreath a long face in smiles.

As the old Greek verse has it, "The gods sell us all the goods they give us;" and all the good they give must be bought at the price of some evil; good, too, that is never pure, for the only perfect specimens are imperfect and the imperfect perfect in imperfection.

Certainly, it is a fine distinction that the men of science and philosophy lay before us, but it is easily seen that ambition and energy never yet accomplished what ease and leisure brought into the world. Newton, sitting under a tree one fine summer's day, with the wintry wind blowing around him, discovered the law of gravity by watching an apple fall to earth.

* * * *

AT least, he thought it fell; but that was his dream. The apple bounded into the heavens. Anyway, a law was discovered to prove that the bottom is the top, the sweetest apples are the tartest, stupidity is intelligence, the brightest people dumb, and the Irish are never happy unless they're unhappy. Ovid said it: "A certain kind of pleasure 'tis to weep."

Confusion, and all is confusion! Sculptors, students of anatomy, know that the same facial muscles are used for laughing and weeping, and that as laughter follows tears the tear ducts are always opened after a hearty spell of merriment.

Wurra, wurra, wurra! The highest virtue is tainted with vice, justice is sprinkled with injustice, the sickest man is he who thinks he is well, and the sick man, nine time out of ten, is hale and hearty.

THE most penetrating light of all is a blinding light, and while the sun's rays are strong and powerful, they are weak beside those of the pallid moon, under whose benign influence lovers pledge their troth.

If anything is veiled or obscure, the chances are that it is very elucidating, as the greatest talkers never say anything and the good listener looks as if he seldom hears a word. Advice is easy to give, which makes it so costly when followed. The night that is filled with music is the most discordant of all nights, the cares that infest the day are not cares at all, but sublime visitations of cherubim and seraphim, who, after a time, fold their tents like the Arabs—who never saw a tent—and silently steal away, thieves of the night who upset all the tranquillity of the world by their noise and potheration.

A topsy-turvy world it is, according to the professors and the physicians—and right they are!

HOOVER FOREGOES MORROW FUNERAL

Business Prevents Attendance; Curtis to Represent Him at Obsequies Today.

Englewood, N. J., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Unpretentious dignity will characterize the funeral services tomorrow for Senator Dwight W. Morrow in the First Presbyterian Church, where the family has worshipped for 28 years.

President Hoover will be unable to leave Washington to pay tribute to his friend and adviser, but will be represented by Vice President Curtis at the head of a congressional delegation.

The Rev. Carl R. Elmore, pastor of the church of which the senator was a member, will officiate. In line with the family's wishes for a simple service, there will be no honorary pallbearers.

Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, Senator Morrow's daughter, and her husband, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who are in China, sent a message of condolence, the contents of which were not revealed.

Coolidge Sends Message.

Their cablegram was one of hundreds of messages of sympathy. Former President Calvin Coolidge, a college chum, and Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain were among those expressing sorrow.

A decision to bury Senator Morrow in Brookside Cemetery in Englewood completed funeral arrangements.

A steady procession of automobile and vanloads of flowers, moved steadily up to the Morrow home today. Only the closest friends were permitted to enter. Three young women were occupied answering telephone calls from all parts of the country and tabulating the cards and floral wreaths.

Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., year-old son of the flying colonel, who was left at the Morrow summer home in Maine when Senator and Mrs. Morrow returned to Englewood a few days ago, will not be brought here for the funeral, it was learned.

Friends of the Morrows said last night the baby was left in Maine to avoid risk of infantile paralysis prevalent in the metropolitan area at that time.

Chance for Democrats Seen.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—An interpretation placed on New Jersey's election law today by its author, D. Frederick Burnett, of Newark, offered an opportunity to Democrats to seek Dwight Morrow's Senate seat next winter. It had been assumed Gov. Morgan F. Larson, a Republican, would name a member of his party to fill the vacancy until the 1932 general election.

Burnett maintained, however, that Larson's successor, who takes office in January, could call a special election within 30 days to fill the vacancy. In such a case, Larson's appointee would serve only for a part of the congressional session.

Observers saw the possibility of a special election only in case A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate, should win the governorship. Senator Morrow's death leaves 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite in the Senate.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 67

THE above scene would no doubt have engendered many pleasant memories in the minds of long resident Washingtonians who suffered and sweltered in the torrid grip of the blistering heat which pervaded Washington this past summer.

The above picture, taken at Fifth and L streets northwest, depicts a scene from the famous blizzard of February 12-14, 1898, when Washington was buried under a blanket of more than 4 feet of snow. As the mercury dropped to 16 degrees below zero all outside activities for the majority of Washingtonians promptly ceased. Roaring open fires and hot toddies were very much in demand. All of the main thoroughfares of the city were impassable on account of the height of the drifts. Indeed from all outward aspects Washington presented the appearance of an abandoned city.

The brick building at the right is the old National Guard Armory which was built by Stilson Hutchins, the founder of The Washington Post. Beside it on the right was the K Street Market which is now the site of the new Center Market. The white frame building in the background was Louis Lowman's saloon which was the favorite oasis of the market folk after a busy day at their stalls. To the right of the armory on New York avenue was the site of the Abbott School, where many successful Washingtonians first learned their "Three R's."

Although the cold was very intense, there was said to be little or no suffering among the poor and homeless of the city, due to the charitable efforts of many public spirited citizens.

HOOVER'S MESSAGE GREETS CATHOLICS

Welcomes Women's Council to Capital; Addresses Other Features.

Receipt of a message of greeting from President Hoover was the feature of yesterday's session of the eleventh annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women being held at Mayflower Hotel.

The communication, addressed to Miss Mary G. Hawks, of Newark, president of the organization, read as follows:

"I shall be greatly obliged to you if you will present my cordial greetings to the delegates of the annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women in session here.

"The National Capital delights to welcome the representatives of a Nation-wide organization whose activities mean so much to the cause of good citizenship, the preservation of family life, the care of the unfortunate and the enrichment of the spiritual life and the ideals of our people.

"I trust that your meeting may advance the sound objectives for which your organization so nobly stands."

Received With Enthusiasm.

The message, read at the morning session, was received with enthusiasm.

Mass for the living and deceased members of the Council at St. Matthew's Church opened the day's activities.

SEVEN PHILADELPHIA BANKS FAIL TO OPEN

Two Others in Pennsylvania, Three in Texas, One in Virginia Closed.

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The State banking department today took over the Franklin Trust Co., at Fifteenth and Chestnut streets, and its four branches. Notice that the bank would not open today was in the hands of Secretary of Banking William Gordon and was posted shortly after midnight.

The bank's board of directors in special session last night voted to relinquish control, but offered no explanation of the move.

Yesterday the United Security Trust Co. at Seventh and Chestnut streets, with three branches, and the Willow Grove Trust Co. closed their doors and were taken over by the State banking officers.

The Franklin Trust Co. had capital of $3,000,000, surplus and undivided profits of $7,574,000 and deposits of $22,990,000 on October 3, the last statement filed with the Clearing House Association showed.

The Central Trust & Savings Co. at Fourth and Market streets, with one branch, also closed its doors today. It had deposits of about $5,000,000, according to its last published statement.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The State banking department today announced that it had taken over the Shrewsbury (Pa.) Savings Institution and the Jordan State Bank, of Allentown.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Three Texas banks closed their doors today.

The Commonwealth Bank & Trust Co., of San Antonio, was the largest. It had a capital stock of $300,000 and deposits aggregating $2,954,000.

The other two were the First National Bank of Fort Stockton, Tex., with deposits approximating $400,000, and the Citizens National Bank, of Brownwood.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The Bank of Scottsburg, Inc., at Scottsburg, Halifax County, failed to open today, and the State Corporation Commission authorized M. E. Bristow, State commissioner of banking, to name a receiver for the institution which had total deposits of $63,738.01 and resources aggregating $79,075.96 at the last examination.

Commissioner Bristow said the bank had "suspended business and the conditions are such that it cannot be permitted to reopen."

The institution was capitalized at $10,000. The bank had been closed Monday due to the death of L. D. Bailey, cashier, from a heart attack. A receiver was to be appointed tomorrow or Thursday.

By NELSON B. BELL.

A protagonist of the better things of the stage since the days of his executive direction of the producing firm of Liebler & Co., George C. Tyler through a long and honorable career, has done much to strengthen and perpetuate the highest ideals and noblest traditions of the American theater, but never anything more shrewdly contrived or more adeptly timed to capture the interest and arouse the enthusiasm of discriminating playgoers than his revival of Sir James M. Barrie's sterling drama of "The Admirable Crichton," which last evening inaugurated a five-day engagement in the National Theater.

Victorian in concept and treatment though it be, there is a substantial and permanent worth, a whimsically satirical humor and a captivating charm about this deft piece of dramaturgy that glorify it as a solitary and refreshing oasis in a desert of present-day claptrap, dedicated to the murkier aspects of cloudy thinking and profane living.

There is a richness of character, a scrupulous attention to the minutiae of scene and action and a deliberate and painstaking building of situation in "The Admirable Crichton" that make for a meaty and satisfying evening in the theater.

Aimed at the strict caste system that is the British social scheme, the play opens in the home of a Peer of the upper house, who entertains strange ideas of equality as among the members of his family and his vast staff of servants. It moves then to a tropical isle where the Earl of Loam, his three daughters, a friend of the family, a clergyman, a butler —one William Crichton—and a kitchen slavey are marooned for two years, during which the admirable Crichton, ablest of the lot, by sheer force of superior wisdom and ability becomes absolute dictator and is gladly accepted as prospective groom of the Earl's eldest daughter. The last act reverts to the ancestral home of the Earl of Loam, where the old order has been restored—with certain modifications in the matter of social equality.

At the turn of the century when the play was written and first produced, it was sufficiently revolutionary in viewpoint and frankness to be classified as almost Shavian. The passing of the years has in no degree shorn it of its romantic flavor or powers to entertain.

The present cast adds luster to the reputation of Mr. Tyler as one with a penchant for assembling acting groups of superlative individual and collective capabilities. Walter Hampden, as Crichton, and Fay Bainter, as Lady Mary Lasenby, daughter of the Earl of Loam, bring the artistry of great natural endowments and long experience to the pivotal roles of the play. Mr. Hampden is restrained tersely authoritative and a figure of latent power, on occasion reduced to the obsequious mien of an humble domestic servitor. It is a tribute to the perfection of his art that he is able to fulfill the requirements of both roles with no discernible recourse to the doubtful expedient of "acting." He IS Crichton. Called upon to span a much wider range of moods and emotions, Miss Bainter brings to her exacting task a lightness of touch, an iciness and a warmth of feeling, by turns, and a resourcefulness that are wholly and disarmingly delightful.

Sydney Greenstreet, in the role of the pompously incompetent Earl of Loam; Esther Mitchell, as "Tweeny," the scullery maid into whose life the two years on the island brought much that was distressing; Maurice Wells, in the fruitful part of Hon. Ernest Woolley, who was "not young enough to know everything," but only missed by an eyelash; J. P. Wilson, as Lord Brocklehurst, and Effie Shannon, as Lady Brocklehurst, are foremost among a long list of uniformly capable players that also includes Alfreda Sill, Henriette Amiard, J. Colvil Dunn and Vivian MacGill.

Five resounding curtain calls at the conclusion of the fourth act bore ample testimony last night that there is still a huge and hungry army of theatergoers to whom an older era in the theater is still very dear, indeed.

Suit Filed to Test Murray Oil Clamp

U. S. Court Order Is Asked to End Shutdown by Martial Law.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Foes of Gov. William H. Murray's martial oil field clamp sought today to remove it through the Federal court. An injunction against enforcement of the order which shut down Oklahoma gushers more than two months ago was sought by attorneys for Frank Russell, of the Russell Petroleum Corporation here. Violation of both Federal and State constitutions was charged.

The suit pointed toward a possible contest on the governor's contention that "inferior Federal courts" abuse their powers in placing corporations above "sovereign States."

Murray was on a train tonight en route to Oklahoma City from Nebraska, where he has been on a speaking tour. Before he went North he promised a delegation of oil men he would try to solve problems arising from the shutdown on his return.

Washing Machine Magnate Dies.

Newton, Iowa, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—T. H. Maytag, 67, washing machine manufacturer, died today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Grinnell September 10. Unsuccessful attempts to save his life had been made by blood transfusions.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB IN FRENZY OF BUYING

Upheaval of Values Drives Shorts Out; 4,300,000 Share Turnover.

New York, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—A wave of hysterical buying swept over the New York Stock Exchange today, skyrocketing prices and bringing an upheaval of values that rejoiced everybody except the shorts.

Today's Humpty-Dumpty market, completely reversing its gloomy abandonment of financial hope yesterday, found traders rushing in with orders to buy anything and everything. It was like a bargain day, and when it ended, more than 4,000,000 shares had changed hands and prices were perched from 1 to 15 points up the ladder from Monday.

It was one of the most sweeping advances ever witnessed on the exchange. Tickers sputtered out new—and higher—prices with more amazing rapidity than they did in the memorable rebound of October, 1929. In many ways this market was like that of the optimistic day following President Hoover's moratorium proposal last summer.

Shorts Cover Cautiously.

The shorts, who have continued to operate nervously, with one eye on Washington and the other on the stock exchange management, were nervous. Many of them cautiously covered their commitments at the opening, and this, in effect, provided the runway from which they prepared to take off on the day's flight.

Meanwhile, to the further annoyance of the shorts, the stock exchange managers imposed new restrictions on short sales and professional pessimists were disgusted.

After the upswing had developed sufficient strength to show that it was a genuine movement, an avalanche of orders began pouring in from all over the world. This, in turn, spelled panic to the shorts, and frantic speculators began bidding for shares "at the market."

Sales and prices jumped, margin clerks, whose office windows have lighted the Wall street district night after night and far into the morning, during the past week, began to see a little sleep ahead, and no bears so much as dared to enter the market to check the tide.

All Groups Participate.

Every group participated in the upswing. The enthusiasm even spilled over into the commodity markets where large gains were reported in wheat, cotton, oats, coffee, sugar, rubber and cotton oil.

Steel hopped up 8¾ points. American Telephone & Telegraph rose 11½. Other notable gains were Western Union, 10½; Auburn, 14½; Union Pacific, 11¾; Atchison, 12½; Peoples Gas, 10, and North American, 8½. Turnover was the heaviest seen in weeks, approximating 4,300,000 shares, against 3,200,000 shares yesterday. Tickers ran at full speed throughout the session because of the swollen buying operations, falling several minutes behind trading on the floor on several occasions.

sion of President Hoover's one-year debt and reparations moratorium plan, aroused keenest interest in government circles. One official said it was believed Germany would be ready to accept conditions if suitably formulated, but he emphasized that if the Nationalists, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg or the Hitler forces came into power, any German concessions on the Polish corridor question or the cessation of pocket battleship construction would be out of the question.

Turkish Party Ends Athens Visit.

Athens, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Premier Ismet Pasha of Turkey and his party left for Budapest today after a good-will visit which was signalized by the ratification of the Greco-Turkish treaty. They plan to see Premier Mussolini at Venice before returning home.

"Fireworks" Seen Over Philippines

Hurley, at Yokohama, Makes Prediction in Congress on Independence.

Yokohama, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A prediction that Congress would witness "fireworks" when the question of Philippine independence is brought up this winter, was made here today by Patrick J. Hurley, United States Secretary of War, who is en route home from an inspection trip to the islands.

Secretary Hurley said he was still gathering material on the independence question and had reached no conclusions.

"Both sides are giving more thought to the subject of independence and thinking more intelligently than heretofore if I may say so myself," he said. "I believe my trip has done some good to say the least."

INTERNATIONAL BANK ALLIANCE POSSIBLE

Federal Reserve May Help Five South American Republics in Crisis.

Santiago, Chile, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Private sources here said today that the central banks of five west coast republics were expected to meet at Lima, Peru, late in October to discuss financial problems and credits with experts of the United States Federal Reserve System.

They indicated that an alliance of the five banks—those of Chile, Peru, Colombia, Ecuador and Bolivia—with the Federal Reserve System was regarded as possible, perhaps by the formation of a cooperative organization to work with it.

It was reported privately that dollars credits to the five countries were expected to be discussed and that these credits might total $50,000,000.

New York, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—While official comment was withheld, it was said in sources close to the Federal Reserve Bank today that an announcement regarding a proposed meeting of South American bankers in Lima shortly might be made within a week.

A report from Santiago, Chile, that a meeting of delegates of the central banks of Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and Colombia would be held soon, and might be attended by experts from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and of the Reserve Board in Washington, was received with considerable interest in Wall street.

It was unofficially reported some time ago that reserve experts might make a trip to South America to assist in developing measures for relieving the economic tension in some of the South American republics. Reserve officials had no comment to make today.

2 Robbers Force Victim To Continue With Drive

Two bandits, so confident of themselves that they made their victim drive them to their destination after the holdup, robbed Milton Davis, taxicab driver, of $8.65 last night. He reported both were young and well dressed. One wielded a pistol while the other emptied the cabman's pockets.

Davis said he picked up the pair at North Capitol street and Massachusetts avenue and was ordered to go to Second and Webster streets northwest. Taking a short cut through the Soldiers Home grounds, the driver suddenly was ordered to stop and was robbed. His fares then commanded him to go to Tenth and S streets, where they got out after ordering him to look straight ahead for five minutes under pain of being shot. Davis lives at 1665 Lamont street northwest.

Prof. Frederick F. Blachly, of the Brookings Institute and of American University, will also speak. The meeting will be a luncheon.

CHINA IS ALARMED BY NIPPON'S SHIPS

safety from possible attacks by Chinese mobs.

Confronted by the demonstrations of Japan's naval power, Chinese government officials were pressed for action against Japan.

Nanking students and other agitators railed against their government's failure to take stronger action against Japan for its continued occupation of southern Manchuria.

In addition, Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang of Manchuria, fearful of losing his territory, urged Nanking to negotiate directly for its return before het rich region with 30,000,000 population is lost irretrievably.

Meanwhile the Chinese boycott against Japanese goods became more effective as hostility spread.

So intense was the feeling in Nanking between Chinese and Japanese that American Consul General Peck and British Consul General Moss conferred with the Japanese consul general concerning safety of their various countrymen should serious trouble take place.

The Japanese consular official said if necessary Japan would evacuate all Japanese, including its consular staff, from Nanking to avoid a clash between Chinese and Japanese.

Hottest October 6 Since 1884 Here

88 Degrees Recorded; End Expected Tomorrow, With Rain.

High marks of 88 degrees was hit by the thermometer at the Weather Bureau at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for the first time on October 6 since 1884. This temperature has never been exceeded on this date in the history of the local weather bureau, it was announced.

The warmest October day in the history of the local bureau was October 1, 1927, when a temperature of 93 degrees was registered. The kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue struck a high mark of 91 degrees yesterday while the crowd in front of The Post Building was receiving the world series score.

Warm weather will continue today but relief is looked for in the form of a cool wave by tomorrow. Officials at the Weather Bureau said that this cool wave is now centered over western Montana and that if no unusual disturbance intervenes should arrive here, preceded by rain, tomorrow evening.

ACCIDENT POSSIBLE IN STEVENS DEATH

Man Believed Murdered May Have Been Victim of Friend's Gun.

The fatal shooting of Melvin Stevens Monday night, which at first was seen as a clear case of murder, became involved in a maze of complications yesterday with the admission of Fairfax County authorities that the 28-year-old well digger may have been slain accidentally by one of his own friends.

Stevens, a husband and father of three small children, was killed near his home on Dunn Loring road, two miles from Vienna, as he, his two brothers, a county policeman and several neighbors were scouring the surrounding terrain for the person or persons who had been firing shots at the home of Stevens and Arthur J. Shugar, his next-door neighbor.

An inquest which was held early yesterday, only a few hours after the Virginian had been pronounced dead on arrival at Georgetown Hospital, only served to heighten the mystery, Coroner C. A. Ransom wihtholding a verdict pending the acquisition of more evidence.

Make Separate Investigations.

Separate investigations are being conducted by Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby and Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, the latter assisted by Henry Magarity, deputy sheriff.

The murder theory is supported by the fact that Stevens had complained to the sheriff that, starting three weeks ago and continuing intermittently until Monday night, rifle or pistol bullets had been fired at his home and that of his neighbor, Shugar.

Both men testified against Logan Brent, colored, who was convicted last spring of contributing to the delinquency of a white girl. He is now at liberty, awaiting the outcome of his appeal to the Circuit Court. Brent received a year sentence and $1,000 fine. Authorities are believed to be seeking him for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Accident Held Possible.

With his two brothers, John and David, walking ahead of him and Policeman Ben Runyon and a neighbor marching in the rear, Stevens dropped suddenly, part of his head torn away by a shotgun charge, when a volley of shots is said to have come out of the darkness from one side of the road. Only a few moments before, the searching party had been the target of a fusillade poured from the opposite side of the road.

The theory of accidental death is based on the premise that one of Melvin Stevens' party, unnerved by the sporadic duel, swung abruptly at a slight noise and his gun—all of those in the group were armed with single or double barrelled shotguns—was accidentally discharged.

Funeral services for the victim will be held tomorrow morning. He is survived by his widow, Ruth; three children, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens, of Clarendon, three sisters and four brothers.

PROF. KANE INDICTED IN WIFE'S DROWNING

Grand Jury Charges He Held Mate Under Water; Trial Date Is Not Set.

Hampton, Va., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Elisha Kent Kane 3d, professor of romance languages at the University of Tennessee, today was indicted for murder by a grand jury investigating the drowing of his wife.

The true bill charged that Kane "with malice aforethought" held his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, under the water at Grand View Beach until she was dead.

Trial for Kane, who is now at liberty under $15,000 bond, is expected to be set by Judge C. Vernon Spratley tomorrow.

Eleven witnesses were heard by the grand jury. W. H. Graham, brother of Mrs. Kane, was heard although Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham, parents of the dead woman, were not asked to testify after being summoned.

Mrs. Kane was drowned at a lonely spot on Chesapeake Bay September 11 and Prof. Kane was arrested after the funeral two days later.

Coroner George K. Vanderslice returned a verdict of premeditated murder after an inquest. He made public letters to Kane from Mrs. Betty H. Dahl, of Mount Kelly, N. J., which he said were an important factor in his verdict.

Mrs. Dahl has not appeared in the case. At the preliminary hearing for Kane, when he was bound over to the grand jury, the defense offered no witnesses.

W. C. Graham later revealed that the letters were known to the Graham family and to Mrs. Kane. He said they had caused Mrs. Kane "great unhappiness."

Mrs. Graham broke down on the stand at the preliminary hearing and was withdrawn after a few questions. Before retiring she said, between sobs, that her daughter seemed to dread the swimming party from which she never returned. Mr. Graham also testified to this effect.

Kane contends his wife was drowned and that he made efforts to save her and to resuscitate her after bringing her ashore.

GRANDI AGAIN ASKS WORLD ARMS TRUCE

Viscount Cecil Joins Him in Blaming Armaments for Business Ills.

Rome, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Dino Grandi, Fascist minister of foreign affairs, once more demanded today a world armament truce as the solution to the economic crisis.

Viscount Cecil, Great Britain's ardent peace worker and representative at the League of Nations, joined Grandi in blaming huge military expenditures for business ills.

"A revival of general prosperity can be obtained only by revival of confidence and renunciation of the threat of armaments," Grandi said in addressing a luncheon of Roman Rotarians who had invited Lord Cecil as guest of honor. "In other words, the problem of the crisis is a financial problem and the financial problem is a problem of pacification; it is the problem of disaramament.

"Italy will not refuse to consider any proposal, any method or any system likely to lead to attainment or at least an approach to the desired end."

Grandi recalled Italy's offer to abolish capital ships, then submarines and finally disarm to the lowest level to which other nations would agree.

"The world armament truce which I proposed at Geneva must be considered a first step toward solution of the problem," he said. "It is a first step which, besides its intrinsic importance, would have a moral significance perhaps even more decisive in reviving international confidence. Without that confidence we will never emerge from the economic crisis.

"Let us hope that on November 1 (when the league's request for nations to indicate willingness to join the truce expires) we shall register another step toward disarmament and toward general revival of confidence."

Lord Cecil said the economic situation arose because "men have used credit for worthless objects, economically speaking."

"It is possible to allay unrest and fear and end useless and unproductive armament expenditure, we will do much to restore credit and confidence," he said. "As long as France and other countries are afraid Germany means to renew war, so long will they insist on maintenance of the present disparity of armaments. The amount spent on arms now is fantastic."

Added Data Sought In 3-Cent Fare Case

Justice Bailey Studies Plea by Roberts and Keech.

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday took under advisement the plea of the Public Utilities Commission, asking that more definite and certain information be provided by the local transportation companies in the 3-cent fare case now pending in the District Supreme Court.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, and People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech appeared in behalf of the motion. They will also prepare another pleading after a decision is made on the first request.

People's Counsel Keech yesterday also obtained permission from Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat to intervene in the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s suit to invalidate the new sliding scale of the Public Utilities Commission. He and Mr. Roberts will cooperate in preparing an answer to the motion within the next ten days.

New Traffic Light Starts Tomorrow

Triple-Action Signal Is at Massachusetts and Wisconsin Avenues.

Washington's first triple-action traffic light, at Massachusetts and Wisconsin avenues northwest, will be officially given the "juice" at 10 o'clock tomorrow by Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, in charge of police and traffic affairs.

Three distinct features differentiate the new device from traffic signals in use here. A magnetic detector actuates the lights in order to handle the greatest volume of traffic; a system of lighted arrows indicate when left turns may be made, and a push-button is provided for pedestrians who wish to cross the street.

Success of the light is believed to hinge upon the gradual education of motorists to keep in the proper lanes indicated for various types of turns or through passage.

150 Steel Workers Back on Job.

Monessen, Pa., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A hundred and fifty men returned to work today at the Monessen mill of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. following the blowing in of a blast furnace after four months idleness. Mill officials said four months' work was assured.

JURORS ARE SWORN TO TRY AL CAPONE

Chicago's Gang Chief Faces Charges of Tax Frauds Involving $215,000.

Chicago, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Twelve men, who swore they had formed no opinions or prejudices despite what they had read and heard about Alphonse Capone, took oath as jurors today and the income tax trial of the scar-faced gang lord was well on its way.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, prompted by attorneys on both sides, needed but one day to qualify the men who will have the task of deciding whether to send Chicago's premier "public enemy" to prison. Capone has had a few court hearings before; he has been adjudged guilty and sentenced twice, but never before has he elected to stand trial before a jury.

Aside from the unusual court setting, the big room devoid of spectators, but overrun by press tables, there was little to let the jurors know that the case before them was the Government's greatest effort, the climax of a two-year drive on gangland.

They were told that it was merely a case in which Mr. Capone was charged with making about $1,000,000 in six years and failing to pay the Government some $215,000 taxes on it. "Nothing is to be decided," the court told them, "except whether this man evaded and attempted to defeat these taxes."

If the jurors could have been on the street, in the corridors, in the courtroom before the session opened, they would have known that it was not just "a Mr. Capone" being tried. The big gangster was guarded by police squads, rushed through mobs of curious bystanders and interviewed at length by the press.

The questions answered by the veniremen were mostly routine—Did they know anyone conected with the trial? Had they had any difficulties with the Government? Had they any prejudices against Capone, or against his nationality?

Having read about the case, even having discussed it did not disqualify one. Judge Wilkerson went on the assumption that everyone had read of Capone and his troubles with the Federal Government; he tried merely to find men whose opinion had not been fixed by that reading.

4 SHOT AS RED MOB AND POLICE BATTLE

Communists Incite Crowds to Halt House Eviction at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio Oct. 8 (A.P.).—A police lieutenant and three Negroes were shot and wounded here late tonight as a police cruising squad clashed with a mob of 300 communists gathered to halt a landlord's eviction in the East Side Negro district.

Several blocks from the scene of the riot police discovered the body of a Negro, shot through the head. It could not be tetermined if he met his death in the course of the gun battle.

Police squads, equipped with tear gas bombs, were rushed to the neighborhood and dispelled the mob without difficulty.

The affair had its inception at the regular Tuesday night communist meeting on a street corner near the scene of the disturbance.

Mob Sweeps Over Police.

Harangued by its leaders, the crowd moved on the place where a Negro family was being evicted and commenced carrying the furniture back into the house.

A watchman, placed to guard the house and its effects, had not been accounted for.

Police Lieut. Owen E. McAdams, in charge of a cruising squad, halted to investigate the proceedings. Two patrolmen were immediately attacked by the mob and the lieutenant was swept off his feet as he attempted to go to their rescue.

The angry mob surged over the lieutenant and his two officers, trampling and beating them. The patrolmen regained their feet and fired several shots in the air to frighten off their assailants. A woman, the officers reported, screamed "Let's get them."

Assailant Likely to Die.

This was apparently the signal for one of the members of the mob to open fire, and Lieut. McAdams was shot in the arm and leg.

Drawing his gun, the police officer managed to exchange shots with his assailant and John Grayford, 54, fell probably mortally wounded. At the hospital it was reported he had little chance for recovery, being shot through the abdomen and above the heart.

An emergency call was placed for police and when riot squads arrived the mob had been swelled to more than 1,000 persons.

The Communist gathering was one of the regular biweekly meetings held on the corner of East Forty-sixth street and Woodland avenue, and from first information received by police it was apparently prepared to move on the scene of the eviction.

seat. His opponents jeered him from across the chamber.

Party leaders immediately requested the president to reverse his decision and he agreed to continue in his post until the work of the Assembly on the new constitution is farther advanced.

"I wish to resign," he said, his face white and himself visibly shaken, "but the difficulty of forming a new government now makes it imperative for me to continue indefinitely. However, the hour has arrived when you gentlemen must begin to think of my successor."

The Assembly adjourned immediately afterward.

The general opinion following the stormy session of the Assembly tonight was that the government is facing this week the most severe test of its existence. The Assembly is much divided and what is perhaps the most difficult of the problems presented by the proposed new constitution, the religious clauses, are slated for consideration during the remainder of the week.

Jobless Veterans To Hear Babcock

lene tanks, which were in the shanty, remained intact.

Fears that there had been an earthquake were inspired by the crash of window glass in many homes nearby and falling plaster. The plate glass window in the B. B. Earnshaw wholesale grocery house at Twelfth and M streets was only one of the many shattered by the blasts.

Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, chief of personnel in the Police Department, was in his home at 1210 Potomac avenue, which is only a short distance from the railroad tracks, when he heard the first blast and immediately notified headquarters.

He was on his way to the scene when the second explosion fairly rocked the neighborhood. Capt. Edwards recommunicated with the central bureau and recommended that every available police radio car, ambulance and rescue squad be dispatched to the spot. A general order was broadcast, bringing almost 100 policemen, two rescue squad ambulances, four engine companies and two truck companies.

There were reports that a watchman had been seen in or near the storehouse shortly before the blasts, but a minute search failed to disclose any evidence of a casualty.

Preliminary investigation conducted by the fire marshal's office indicated that sparks from a passing freight train set the storehouse afire and spread to the tanks.

The fact that the flames did not spread or carry to the two giant gas holders in the eastern plant of the Washington Gas Light Co., only 175 yards away, averted a catastrophe.

Dozens of policemen rerouted traffic away from the scene, closing the Eleventh street bridge and rerouting traffic over the Pennsylvania avenue bridge.

Red Cross in Arlington Names Region Delegates

The Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, last night at Clarendon, completed plans to send delegates to the regional conference at Tappahannock tomorrow. Those to attend are Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman; Mrs. Edna Butterfield, Mrs. N. R. Davies and George A. Collier. Gov. John Garland Pollard will speak at the luncheon preceding the business session. Mrs. Kelly announced that headquarters in the Rucker Building, Clarendon, will be open each Tuesday during the fall and winter.

Barristers Club Chooses Officers

David A. Pine President; Law Committee to Continue Work.

The Barristers Club at its annual meeting at the Cosmos Club elected officers for the ensuing year. David A. Pine was elected president; Jerome F. Barnard, vice president; Thomas E. Lodge, secretary, and Francis C. Brooke, treasurer. Lucian H. Vandoren, Richard B. Keech and Richard H. Wilmer were elected members of the executive committee.

A full report of the activities of the law committee for the past year was submitted and adopted. The purpose of this committee is to receive and recommend changes in both law and procedure for the better administration of justice in the local courts. It was voted that this committee be continued to receive suggestions from barristers and other members of the bar and assist in having remedial legislation and court rules adopted to correct existing defects in the administration of justice.

Among recommendations adopted were those to require all persons and corporations doing business in the District of Columbia to appoint a statutory agent for the acceptance of service of summons and to permit one omnibus suit to be brought in case of personal injuries to a wife or an infant, and thus prevent the husband or parent from being required to institute separate suits for medical expenses usually in different courts.

Welsh Part in Fete Outlined at Meeting

Plans for a contribution by Wales to the George Washington Bicentennial were launched by the St. David's Society of Washington at the initial fall meeting last night at the Wilson Normal School. Fred L. Harries, president, presided.

The Welsh demonstration, according to tentative plans, will take place March 1 in the form of a large singing program in which Welsh from all parts of the country will be asked to take part. Mr. Harries said that it was the hope of the society to have an Eisteddfod, but doubts if there will be time to carry out such an ambitious project.

Mr. Cook was welcomed by Francis Williams, master of Parker Lodge and Irving G. Gray, master of Milans Lodge. Tomorrow night the grand master will visit Potomac Lodge, No. 6, and George C. Whiting Lodge, No. 22, meeting jointly in the Masonic Hall at 1210 Wisconsin avenue.

RESOURCES UNIMPAIRED.

The real wealth of the United States is no less than it was during the prosperous years of 1928-1929. Stock market values, which soared to such unprecedented heights at that time and since have crashed to extreme lows, have actually been unrelated to the resources of the country.

Frequently the opinion is expressed that the Nation has been ruined by the fall in security prices. Stocks were bought for three, four, in some cases more than ten times their present value. Great fortunes have been lost. These attract notice, but little attention is given to the fortunes that were made or to the foundations that have been laid recently for the building of new fortunes.

Stock certificates which are bought and sold represent the business and wealth of the Nation; they are not, in themselves, goods. Though their price has gone down, American resources are unaltered. People still require the necessities of life as they did before, and still crave the luxuries of prosperous years. America still has the resources to produce these goods, but she has slackened her pace. The result is privation, unemployment and business distress. Hard times will continue until Americans realize that their country is just as rich as it ever was—until the people throw off fear that the country has been ruined and proceed with the normal activities of production and consumption.

The boom years led to overexpansion and waste in many industries as the actual effect of unreasonable speculation, but the profit and loss in securities offset one another and can not be counted as a change in themselves. The complementary effect is now seen in the depression. Overanxious economy has led to curtailment of production beyond the point of practicability. With the return of confidence will come the reexpansion of industry, increased work and purchasing power and a return to a more reasonable balance.

Caution has reached such a point that it is blinding investors to actual conditions. According to financial experts, there are at this moment corporations whose stocks are quoted at a lower figure than the actual amount of cash and marketable securities they possess. It is inevitable that these stocks will rise, accompanied by the lamentations of those who wished they had taken advantage of the low prices of this year.

REHABILITATING CRIMINALS.

The laws should be changed so that judges will not have to guess at how long it will take to reform a criminal, according to Dr. Walter M. Thayer, commissioner of correction of New York. It is Dr. Thayer's opinion that offenders should be committed for an indefinite period. They should then be studied in the light of their ancestry, early life habits, physical and mental condition, etc., to determine the cure for their anti-social disease. Those guilty of violent crimes, such as murder and arson, should be excluded from the experiment, but in all other cases the punishment would be prescribed to fit the criminal and not the crime.

Dr. Thayer had retired from the State service, but when the riots broke out over a year ago at Auburn and Dannemora prisons Gov. Roosevelt recalled him. Dr. Thayer entered the State service in 1897 as prison physician at Dannemora. He gained a wide reputation there for the psychiatric clinics he established and for his work in planning the segregation of healthy prisoners from the sick, and the mentally weak from the mentally sound. After his retirement he was called to Maryland to remodel the State's prison policy. He spent a year revising the methods in force there.

Under the present system of law, the criminal is a blank; the crime alone is considered. The practice of putting first offenders in the same class with hardened criminals usually results in the novice adopting the standards and psychology of the veteran. For this reason virtually every man who is sentenced to prison is hopelessly lost to society. Dr. Thayer believes that first offenders, excepting those guilty of major crimes of violence, should be given a minimum sentence of two years with no maximum. The State could then treat prisoners on the basis of their possibilities. Inmates would be released according to their fitness to return to society. Prisoners on being released would be observed, and if they reverted to crime they would not be returned for another short sentence, but possibly for life.

Some mistakes would probably be made, but the program outlined by Dr. Thayer has much to commend it. Similar methods have been employed at Napanoch, the first school for mentally delinquent and subnormal offenders. This institution uses the indeterminate sentence, and inmates are discharged only when the authorities are satisfied that they are mentally, morally and physically able to keep out of trouble. Of the 602 inmates who have been sent to Napanoch since its establishment, 520 are on parole.

BRITAIN'S ELECTION.

Americans trying to untangle the complicated chain of events in Great Britain in recent weeks are likely to entangle themselves in confusion. But it is by no means certain that the British people who are going to the polls to elect a new Parliament on October 27 have a clear understanding of the new political alignment. About all that can be said is that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is going to lead whoever will follow him in a plea for complete authority to deal with Britain's grave financial and industrial situation.

When the cabinet first decided to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the electorate efforts were made to evolve a formula under which the Conservatives, the Liberals and a few straggling members of the Labor party could rally to the support of Mr. MacDonald. Apparently that attempt has failed. The Conservatives are determined to give Britain the benefits of a protective tariff. One faction of the Liberal party under leadership of Sir John Simon seems to be willing to support that view. But it is inconceivable that David Lloyd George will allow the main body of the Liberal party to run on a platform that sanctions a tariff.

The coalition must either go before the electorate without a definite program or alienate the antitariff members of the Liberal and independent groups. There are many other problems besides the tariff that must occupy the attention of British politicians. Indications are that the customs issue will be pushed into the background, and that the people will go to the polls without any assurance that their votes for the coalition would mean the adoption of protection for British industry. Such a course would probably mean the early enactment of a tariff, however, because the dominant Conservatives place a tariff foremost on their program of rehabilitation.

If the tariff issue can not be kept out of the campaigns it will probably split the Liberal party and leave Lloyd George with only a handful of followers to wield the balance of power between the coalition and the defiant Labor party. Britain has not had such a political shake-up for years. Important new party alignments are almost certain to develop from the jugglery that has been resorted to to meet the financial crisis.

The strangest feature of the entire picture is the leadership of the Conservative coalition by Ramsay MacDonald, the Socialist. Although he has been deserted by his party and repudiated by his constituents Mr. MacDonald will stand for election as a Laborite, asking the people to give him a "doctor's mandate" to prescribe any remedies that he finds necessary for Britain's ailments. The reaction of the electorate to this plea may furnish an interesting key to the immediate future of Great Britain.

THAT DEMOCRATIC DEFICIT.

A movement for the financial rehabilitation of the Democratic party is under way at last. John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, is quite willing to step out of the role of chief Democratic "angel." At a dinner in New York next week he will start a drive to liquidate the financial obligations of the party through an appeal to members.

In view of the unbalanced conditions in the economic world, Mr. Raskob does not intend to ask for more than $6,000,000. He wants $1,500,000 to wipe out the deficit hanging over from Al Smith's campaign and to start the ball rolling in 1932. Apparently he calculates that it will take an additional $4,500,000 to elect the Democratic candidate for President after the convention is over. At any rate, good Democrats with $50,000 or more for the cause are asked to step forward. Lesser fry will be expected to pay for their faith in the party according to their means.

Democrats throughout the country are happy over the depression because they think it gives them the best chance to win they have had in years. But the depression does not help them wipe out this deficit. Party leaders boast of their excellent chances to put a Democrat in the White House, but they certainly haven't risked any money on those prospects. Instead, the party's indebtedness to Mr. Raskob was increased by $30,000 during the summer. If Democrats are so certain that the people will trust them with the reins of Government in 1932, why don't they come forth and wipe out this debt of $748,150?

It is difficult at any time to raise funds to pay for a dead horse. Attempting such a feat in the midst of the depression, Mr. Raskob has a tough job on his hands. His task is complicated by the fact that contributors at this time do not know what horse they are betting on for 1932. But Mr. Raskob is determined that the party shall prove its solvency, even though the enthusiasm of Democratic politicians has not reached a stage where they feel justified in spending money on the strength of it. The progress of Mr Raskob toward a balancing of the Democratic budget will be watched with intense interest.

LATIN-AMERICAN CREDITS.

Delegates from the 20 Latin-American countries are in session here to consider many questions of international importance, particularly relations with their biggest customer and largest foreign provider, the United States. It is timely to consider the financial plight of many of these Latin-American neighbors.

The heavy decline in commodity prices has hit the raw material exports of the southern countries particularly hard. Latin-America, as a producer of basic materials and crude foodstuffs, has felt not only the effect of lower prices, but the lowered demand as a result of the depression in other lands. Changing prices for coffee, cacao, sugar, hides, wool, rubber, nitrate and copper cause quick reactions throughout the Caribbean and South American republics.

Present low prices is making it hard for many of these countries to meet the charges on their public debts. Coupled with political troubles, falling prices have caused Peru, Bolivia and Chile to default temporarily. In a world filled with talk of moratoriums Latin America has been feeling the need of similar consideration. The public debts there, however, are not intergovernment obligations and can not be suspended by political agreement.

It must be a matter of gratification to representatives of Latin-American countries to find American bankers fair-minded in consideration of this financial situation. Brazil has just recently completed negotiations for a postponement of charges due, and Argentina has compromised the payment of half of her $50,000,000 obligation, renewing the balance. While the American Government has no actual control over private loans made to nations, it is interested in any steps that can be taken for easing the financial strain of Latin-American countries. Plans for that purpose are being considered in conferences that include representatives of Government departments as well as the Federal Reserve Board and New York banking and large industrial interests.

The United States is the world's largest investor in Latin America. Its loans and investments exceed $5,000,000,000. It appears necessary and inevitable that an international credit organization be perfected to handle national credits and consider present needs for relief. While governments are not compelled to accept loans against their will, the high pressure salesmanship of New York investment brokers did make it remarkably easy for national, state and municipal governments in Latin America to secure large loans. That many of the loans are excessive is more easily appreciated now than in the boom years of 1928-29.

Several months ago The Post suggested that a syndicate of American bankers should be formed to handle these loans in a systematic manner to consider refunding operations and further advances to meet interest payments where necessary and justified. Latin-American indebtedness is in many instances just as pressing today as though it were of intergovernmental character, and the nationalization of financial relations with the southern republics is something that calls for action without further delay.

Al Capone's knee wobbled when he went before the court on a charge of income tax evasion. He must have been worried over leaving his business for so long.

Restoration of prosperity would be such a relief if for no other reason than the effects it might have upon Senator La Follette's wail for a dole.

CLARIFYING HISTORY

From the Kansas City Star.

Monarchy in England has reached the point where history can deal with it a little more intelligently than it was once able to. King George writes a letter to Ramsay MacDonald and it will go into the archives for the guidance of future historians who may be trying to trace the relationship of the crown to the government in the kingship of the house of Windsor.

The Plantagenets, for example, supplied no such records, and history has had to do the best it could without them. If Henry II had written a letter to the slayers of Thomas, of Canterbury, we should not now have Lytton Strachey assailing David Hume for assuming that Henry talked in the style in which Hume himself wrote. Mr. Strachey has looked into the matter and finds there isn't much in Henry's talk on this occasion to go on. He undoubtedly burst out with something about "an upstart clerk." He said something about "vengeance" and something about "a set of fools and cowards." That's all he is known to have said, and Strachey supposes him to have said it "in some uncouth dialect of French or English." This meager record, Hume, writing his account of the murder of Becket, translates as follows: "The king himself being vehemently agitated, burst forth with an exclamation against his servants whose want of zeal, he said, had so long left him exposed to the enterprises of that ungrateful and imperious prelate."

Such is history when it has to grope in the dark. Its conclusions are pretty much those of the particular historian who mixes his own colors as he goes along. Strachey thinks Hume's phrases applied to a transaction of the Middle Ages are comic. They do not present a picture of what happened. But nobody knows what happened in an age when public affairs were conducted with every precaution against exposure to the gaze of the multitude. History has the alternatives of clothing such transactions in the language of a Hume or dramatizing them in the language of a G. B. Shaw. Macaulay has given us examples of the two processes. "The prime minister communicated his decisions to the king, who thereupon sent for the duke." That is the historical method. The memoir writer (writing as though he had been hidden under the bed) relates it thus: "It's no use, your majesty, I just can't carry on." "Oh, well, in that case there's nothing for me to do except let the duke try his hand."

There is no unanimity of opinion respecting these methods, but it is probable contemporary taste prefers the dramatic one. Historians of the dramatic school have used the widest latitude in dealing with those ages which have left no complete records—they may be said to be pupils of Froissart, who was among the earliest and certainly was one of the most picturesque of the hearsay historians. But future chroniclers of the present age will have to use some restraints. They won't be free to guess what George V said to his prime minister as Hume was about Henry II's utterances. Except for the written record of today, future historians might raise a warm controversy as to what circumstances led the Commons to cut King George's civil list. Ordinarily there would be reason enough for such controversy, as heretofore kings have been more in the habit of demanding larger civil lists, and the Commons have been more in the habit of granting smaller ones.

King George writing to Ramsay MacDonald has put a crimp in the style of any future Froissart who might otherwise see in the present circumstance another battle for prerogative between the English King and his Parliament.

POST HASTE.

The Spirit of St. Louis is again flying high.

This country is now long on everything but confidence and is taking stock of that.

Chairman Raskob launches a campaign to raise $1,500,000, of which 50 per cent will go to the '28 dead horse fund, the other half to be placed on next year's race. Call your bets.

One of the surprises that will come to some of the Pan-American delegates who have never been in the United States before will be to find that only a comparatively small part of the population is sitting up nights trying to figure out how Uncle Sam can grab some Latin-American territory.

This is fire prevention week. It will please the National Board of Fire Underwriters if incendiary plans are deferred until after the tenth.

Times are so hard that the world series receipts probably will not greatly exceed the average income of a million dollars.

The up-to-date figures of the United States Department of Commerce not only uncover a multitude of sins against the facts, but they prevent a lot.

With all the luxuries this country indulges, each costing more than $1,000,000,000 a year, such as fires, baseball, bandits, bad liquor and automobile wrecks, it is a wonder we get along with $5,000,000,000 in circulating medium, and it is a great testimonial to credit.

As Army bombers were too cocksure about what they could do to the old Mount Shasta, Navy fliers are having a private session in Chesapeake Bay with the ancient cruiser Pittsburgh, and whatever the outcome they will not be the target for Army gibes.

Discarding long-suit stocks from fright in this market is just about as sensible as similar action in a bridge game.

No wonder Chancellor Bruening can't leave Germany to visit Washington just now. With the Reichstag meeting next week and the government's margin of safety on a "knife edge," securing a vote of confidence and packing the legislators off home again will be a full-time job.

It must be admitted that the English idea of an election campaign only 20 days long has its advantages.

President Hoover amply demonstrates his courage by tackling another bipartisan conference.

WOMEN'S INVENTIONS.

The man who vows he never saw a woman put hammer to nail without smashing her thumb will tell you that all labor-saving devices for household work were invented by men, says the New York Times. But disproof will be found at this year's Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries, to be opened September 30 at the Hotel Astor. A section will be devoted to models of patented devices of women, many of them with an eye to lightening "woman's work."

Among them is an electric iron with rounded edges and corners and a swinging handle, designed to do tricks difficult for an ordinary iron—pressing, as it does, tied bows, shoulder seams and beaded or embroidered fabrics. A woman who hated to darn and wanted to save on hosiery bills invented pads for the heels of shoes to save wear on stockings. A typewriter ribbon with which five copies can be made without using carbon paper was devised by a woman who had already invented 42 other things, including a collapsible umbrella, an ice cream freezer and an electric fan shield.

In its investigation of patents taken out by women, the exposition staff discovered that domestic problems are not the only ones which feminine inventive genius attacks. More than three-fourths of their 15,000 patents are in the fields of industrial arts, transportation and agriculture. The Coston flare, a marine signal light used all over the world, was invented by a woman.

If King Is Above the Law, Will He Observe Rules That Annoy Him?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE faults peculiar to modern youth are the faults of princes.

Prosperity and parental folly have combined to destroy the humility that is the foundation of sound character.

Few men of nations can survive good fortune without injury. They grow hard in adversity and soft in prosperity. And in prosperity they attribute to themselves the importance they formerly attributed to great possessions.

Vanity invariably chooses as a measure of excellence the standard that will flatter it most. Thus the son of a nobleman thinks birth of greater importance than achievement; the winner of a championship thinks achievement the proof of excellence; the man of wealth regards money as the sign and symbol of superiority.

When good fortune comes, and with it the envy of the world, a man begins to regard himself as a person of consequence. Flattery ruins his sense of value. It is his money that is important, but he thinks it is himself. He discovers that he is in many instances above the law. And this discovery soon tricks him into the belief that he is also above the law of good manners, the law of morality, the law of fair play and the law of God.

There are notable exceptions, of course, but success ruins more men than failure for the simple reason that virtue needs the moral support of a threatening lash. Few men or nations, denied the threat of punishment, have sufficient innate decency to walk unaided in paths of justice and righteousness.

If this is true of men and nations, how much more must it be true of inexperienced youth.

A boy given money, a car, social prestige and leisure he has not earned must inevitably develop an exaggerated conception of his own importance. Since he is above toil and above punishment, what is more natural than the assumption that he is above the law? If he robs a bank or shoots a policeman, no one should be surprised. He was trained for it.

Only the boy who must earn every advantage—money, respect, liberty and leisure—can develop a proper sense of values and a proper sense of obligation.

The prince must be a prince in spirit to play the game without taking advantage of his rank.

Democratic Convention Worries.

New York Herald Tribune.

The question as to whether the State delegations in the next Democratic national convention are to be made up in accordance with the new or the old Congress apportionment contains the elements of a serious controversy. It will come before the national committee in December or January. Whatever the committee's decision the fight is likely to be carried to the floor of the convention. Who will be the Presidential nominee and what degree of wetness the platform will have may well depend upon which basis of representation prevails.

It is customary for the national convention before adjournment each four years to fix the basis of representation for the following convention. In accordance with that custom the Houston convention passed a resolution giving the national committee power to select the time and place of the next convention and declaring that "the number of delegates for each State shall be twice the number of senators and representatives in the Congress, and the number of alternates shall equal the number of delegates."

The question revolves around the interpretation of the phrase "the Congress." Does it mean "the Congress" existing at the time the delegates are selected (the one convening next December for the first time and elected under the old apportionment) or "the Congress" as it will be elected in November, 1932, under the new reapportionment?

Hoover's Leadership.

Topeka Capital.

Probably President Hoover feels that he has better things to do than go around making speeches, yet it might help. In war days people listened to Hoover and followed him. They got used to doing what he suggested. He had a real and a great following. That he has not lost his faculty of getting people to think as he does appeared the other day when he swung a Legion convention against its own desires.

The Gold Standard.

Minneapolis Journal.

President Hoover lets it be known flatly that he sees no reason for tampering with America's gold standard. He also lets it be known that he finds no considerable demand for bimetallism, except in the silver-producing States of the Far West.

The fact that Great Britain and some other European countries have gone temporarily off the gold standard affects in no way the situation in the United States. They did not turn to bimetallism. They merely suspended the gold basis because, for the time being, they found themselves unable to maintain it. Continued specie payments would have drained their treasuries of remaining gold. These European nations, then, halted the redemption of their paper currencies in gold, not because they had ceased to prize the yellow metal as a permanent standard of values, but because they continued to prize it as such.

Barriers at Our Borders.

Boston Transcript.

Senator Capper would prohibit all immigration for the next two years, for the indisputable reason that each immigrant either adds to the number of the unemployed or displaces an American citizen in industry.

The Hoover administration, according to Senator Capper, has done one good thing in tightening up on immigration and another in sending back so many aliens that the excess of aliens entering this country is now only 30,000 over the number departing from us. The matchless generosity of the United States, in its traditional policy of providing refuge for foreigners dissatisfied with conditions at home, has been carried too far.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Fires Take Heavy Toll From Forests Each Year—Firebugs and Careless Smokers Are Blamed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The President has designated the week of October 5 as fire prevention week. It would be well to have fire prevention every day.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion that cigarettes are responsible for a great many fires. The country would be better off in every way if the only cigarettes in existence were a few preserved in museums to show future generations one of the miserable vices of their ancestors.

Cigarettes are alleged to have been the cause of many of the disastrous forest fires that burned over 50,000,000 acres this summer. A number of these fires were of incendiary origin. It is hard to conceive of a wretch so inhuman and so vile that he would deliberately set fire to a noble forest, sacrifice millions of dollars' worth of property, destroy myriads of game birds and animals, choke the streams and destroy game fish, and run the risk of burning human beings to death.

Complaints have been made that the Federal authorities have not adopted the right methods of preventing forest fires. Experienced foresters say that there have been more destructive fires since the Government took charge of the forests than there were when the Indians owned them.

One way to prevent incendiary fires—started by wretches who want work fighting the fires they themselves have started—would be to have all forest fire fighters in the Government service. This might be expensive, but not so expensive as losing our forests.

CHARLES HOOPER.

Suggests Dividing Up Government Jobs Among More Workers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: America is a rich country. We have a balance of gold in the Treasury, but we have a deficit of $1,000,000,000 in our operating expenditures, which should be forthcoming from the revenues of the country, principally from taxation. If people are unemployed they can not pay taxes; therefore it is beneficial for the Government to see that every individual is gainfully employed. Unemployment is undermining the Government finances of every town in the country. It is calling for excess expenditures, and impoverishing the city governments. Collecting money for charity for the unemployed is a useless waste, as it is impossible to collect enough to give each man one dollar a day for expenses. Some other way must be found.

Every workingman should take care of the unemployed by dividing up the work. It is better for all to work half time than for some to have all the work and others none. Take letter carriers, for example. Why should they monopolize all Government work all the time? Is it not better to divide the Government work by allowing letter carriers and other Government employes to work half time, and put two men on every route, one to work in the morning and the other in the afternoon? The Government pay roll would not be increased, but the saving to our municipal governments would be immense, and all Government money would revert to industry, farm products and Government taxes, and not to the banks.

As we use Government money to assist when national calamities devastate the country, so we ought to use Government work and divide up when unemployment becomes a national calamity. ALICE PAYLER.

Subscriber Seconds Post's Suggestion That Receipts of World Series Game Be Given to Unemployed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That was a splendid gesture you made in calling upon the American and National Leagues to devote the receipts of one of their games to the relief of the unemployed. THE PROBLEM.

When the fire has burned the building
And the stock it held is gone
And there's nothing left but ruin for the eye to look upon,
Though the loss is hard, my brother, there is nothing left to do
But to start that very minute to begin to build anew.

Every day presents a problem man must solve the best he can.
Do we need a morning sunny, rain may force a change of plan.
Each must face life as he finds it, not as he would have it be.
Of his hopes and dreams and labors
there can be no guarantee.

When the ship goes down, my brother, and you're clinging to a spar,
There's no time to wail your losses till again on land you are.
Looking backward then is folly, you must fight as ne'er before
For the problem of the moment is to get yourself ashore.

Now a changing world we're facing, things our hopes were built upon
Have come tumbling down in tumult till the last of them is gone.
And our problem of the moment is that suddenly we've come Out of valleys gay with pleasure unto mountains towering glum.

All our days of ease are ended. Now the road grows rough and steep
And we find our burdens heavy and the pathway hard to keep.
We have had our hours of laughter, comes today a sterner time.
Mountains grim loom up before us which with courage we must climb.

GUARDS' SHOTS FELL 3 CONVICTS IN BREAK

Four Escape as Gun Duel Rages; Cornered by Posse Near Staunton, Va.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—One convict was seriously wounded, two others were hurt, and four made their escape from the State lime grinding plant near here today, after a gun battle between two guards aided by two trusties and six prisoners.

Possemen tonight were searching the woods several miles east of the plant and believed they had the quartet cornered. They took every precaution, surrounding the area to prevent the prisoners from leaving the woods under cover of darkness.

Those who escaped were: Everett Wilhoit, 27, convicted for forgery, in Henry County, January 10, 1931, and sentenced to serve 12 years; John Price, 18, convicted for robbery in Washington County, November 2, 1928, and sentenced to serve 36 years; Sam Harrison, 27, Negro, convicted for car breaking, and housebreaking in Henry County, July 13, 1928 and sentenced to serve 23 years, and Ted Calvert, 25, convicted for forgery in Stafford County, May 18, 1929, and sentenced to serve 5 years.

The injured convicts are: Rufus Devoe, Negro, 26, convicted for robbery in Norfolk, December 1929, and sentenced to serve 20 years; Henry Bush, Negro, 40, convicted for housebreaking and grand larceny, in Richmond, April 4, 1921 and sentenced to serve 13 years, and Gordon Booth, 23, convicted for housebreaking in Roanoke, May 30, 1930, and sentenced to serve 19 years.

The convicts went to work in the quarries as usual, and an hour later made the break. Plant Superintendent J. H. Bowles said he believed the prisoners' friends "planted two and probably three pistols in the quarry last night." Armed with these, the men made their break for freedom, returning the fire of Guards C. H. Freed and Howard Freed.

The guards said Devoe fired first, shooting at Howard Freed. One or two of the others fired, returning the rifle and shotgun fire laid down by the Freeds, they said. The Freeds said that Booth attempted to shoot Howard Freed, sticking a pistol in the guard's side, but the shell did not explode. Freed beat off Booth, striking him over the head and arm with a shotgun butt.

Physicians said Devoe, who was shot in the abdomen, is likely to die. He is in the camp infirmary under special guard.

While the two Freeds, Booth and Devoe were fighting at close range, four other convicts took flight. Guards armed Thomas Smith, negro, and Steve Wilson with a pistol and rifle and the trusties fought side by side with the guards in an effort to stop the fleeing quartet.

Smith had served half of an 18-year term for murder, and Wilson, who was sent from Lee County for murder, had completed six of his 15-year term.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Maj. R. M. Youell, superintendent of the State Penitentiary, left here tonight for Staunton to investigate the battle between prisoners and guards at the State Lime Grinding Plant.

Maj. Youell was making the trip by automobile. Assistant Superintendent A. G. Fitzgerald, said all of the escaped convicts were still at large early tonight.

Hoover Approves Veterans' Parley

Conference to Expedite Aid and Secure Economy Begins October 26.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday approved plans for a seven-day conference of Veterans' Administration officials here designed to secure economy and expedite "direct relief to the veterans of all wars." The conference will begin October 26.

Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said after a conference at the White House that Mr. Hoover approved of the move which was designed also to devise "ways and means to simplify the procedure of the combined activities represented in the Veterans' Administration."

The American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the disabled American Veterans of the World War, Hines said, will be invited to the conference along with managers of the Veterans' Administration's field activities.

Model Town Is Rising On Boulder Dam Desert

(Associated Press.)

Prospective citizens of Boulder City, the Government's model town, must not be misled into believing surface appearances of vast confusion. Instead, the Interior Department says, order is just about ready to emerge "from the chaos that comes in putting a town together where nothing existed before."

Just a year ago, the department remarks, the Nevada site of the Hoover dam metropolis "was a desert solitude which looked unblinkingly at the sun," while 2,000 persons live there now. Water, electricity, sewer, street and sidewalk systems remain to be completed, but the department promises these details and others such as completing the city hall, the jail, public auditorium and a few dozen odd dwellings will be all attended to by January 1.

ELECTION IN BRITAIN CALLED FOR OCT. 27

leader will issue a call to his rank and file. How the widely divergent views of the Liberals and Conservatives can be harmonized, for instance, on the tariff question is one of the big problems the prime minister will face if he achieves victory at the polls.

David Lloyd George today continued to be bitterly opposed to the whole election plan, declaring that the Liberal leaders who are teaming with Mr. MacDonald, are betraying their trust to the nation and the party. The Liberals are split wide open and other parties are not much better off. The Conservatives appear the most solidly united.

Mr. MacDonald will run as a Labor candidate. He announced that he would seek reelection in the Seaham Harbor district, Durham, despite the fact that the local party leaders there have demanded his resignation as their representative in Commons and have declared their intention of naming another candidate.

Labor Accepts Challenge.

Scarborough, England, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Organized labor, assembled in Scarborough for the annual party conference, today accepted Prime Minister MacDonald's challenge to a general election fight in a mood of confident defiance.

News that Parliament will be dissolved tomorrow and the election held October 27 was received with wild enthusiasm.

Arthur Henderson, leader of the party in place of the repudiated MacDonald, attempted to speak, but the audience drowned him with "The Red Flag," the war song of British Socialism.

"The country is to be forced to face an election which it doesn't want," Mr. Henderson said later. "The holding of it can not but seriously prejudice both national and international interests.

Bank Control Is Asked.

"The Labor movement is not responsible for this position, but we shall accept the challenge with keen determination. We are ready to take the field."

"The Red Flag" is sung to the tune familiar in America as "Maryland, My Maryland," and George Bernard Shaw once described it as "the funeral march of fried eel." The description scarcely seemed fitting today when the song rang through the room of the conference hall.

Continuing the process of platform building, the Labor delegates passed resolutions demanding public control of England's banking and credit system, condemning the imposition of any form of tariffs and protesting against the government's resort to cuts in the dole.

JOBLESS IN LONDON BATTLE WITH POLICE

Mob Dispersed After Clash in Heart of City; Given Food After Retreat.

London, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A crowd of the unemployed using sticks, stones and firecrackers, battled with mounted police in front of the British Museum in the heart of London today.

Unable to resist the relentless charging of the horses at a gallop and clubbings by police batons, the crowd, screaming and cursing, finally marched to Hyde Park, where it was served a free meal and went home.

The disorder began when the constabulary appeared and ordered the crowd, which had been marching down Drury lane, gathering new recruits constantly and singing "The Red Flag," to disperse.

Some tossed firecrackers into the police ranks, stampeding the horses. Others gathered bricks and pieces of mortar and threw them at the police, while still others charged the officers with building scantlings used like spears.

At the evidence of hostility the police drew back and charged.

Women screamed and the pedestrians ran to nearby houses for safety but after a few minutes the crowd was scattered and the police arrested the ringleaders.

As they were taken to the police station, traffic was stopped by large crowds which shouted protests against the arrests. Some of those taken into custody were bruised and bleeding from having been struck by the mob's own missiles and the police batons and horses.

The rest of the crowd, singing "The Red Flag," marched to Hyde Park where an "International Workers' relief food wagon" was parked. A red-headed girl with an American accent stuck her head out of the wagon and called:

"For once in your life you are going to be waited upon."

Everybody then sat down on the grass and had a free meal while other mounted police hovered in the background.

Velvet

...smart choice of smart women— for a season of great elegance...

Incomparably important in any vogue of elegance . . . and doubly important today, with every Paris House, not only the dressmakers but the milliners, creating along velvet lines. The Velvet gown becomes all but imperative to the smart woman's wardrobe if one would be foreground rather than background in any gathering of the fashionables.

Woodward & Lothrop's collection, as smart Washingtonians have learned to take for granted, is representative of everything important in The Velvet Mode. ¶The simple daytime dress. ¶Lovely creations for that new hour of the wardrobe, 5 o'clock. ¶The gracious tea gown expressing the moment exquisitely. ¶The velvet gown for dinner, newly covering the shoulders. ¶Little velvet hats. ¶Velvet for evening, "trained" in the grand manner. ¶Velvet wraps, their richness enhanced by luxurious furs. All very devastating, except in this matter of price. In this, you may thank Woodward & Lothrop for taking velvet fashions out of the luxury class—

Velvet Gowns for women and misses begin at $16.50
Walnut Room Velvet Gowns begin at $39.50

SEATTLE TO HONOR 80 FLIERS TOMORROW

Stories of Pacific Hop Tell of Feat by Pangborn on Ice-Covered Wings.

Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., found out today there isn't much rest for air heroes.

The young men who landed their big red monoplane here yesterday, 41 hours and 13 minutes after leaving Samyshiro Beach, Japan, to be the first to cross the Pacific Ocean nonstop by plane, were kept busy discussing future plans, receiving acclaim and relating their experiences on the historic flight.

W. W. Connor, Washington representative of the National Aeronautic Association, announced they had definitely decided to go to Seattle Thursday for a celebration there.

Although the fliers have been declared ineligible to receive a $28,000 prize posted for a nonstop flight from Tokyo to Seattle, a movement was on foot to have the rules waived and pay the money to Pangborn and Herndon, who already have been given $25,000 by the Tokyo newspaper Asahi.

New Landing Gear on Way.

New landing gear to replace that cast off on leaving Japan, and other parts to repair the plane, which was damaged slightly in coming to earth without wheels, were on the way by air from the East today. The ship will be restored as quickly as possible.

Pangborn and Herndon slept until 9:30 a. m., after remaining up until midnight, relating their experiences before a talkie newsreel camera.

"Crossing the Atlantic was child's play compared with crossing the Pacific," Herndon said.

The new heroes of aviation today still were bubbling with stories of their flight of nearly 4,600 miles. Herndon related how Pangborn climbed out on the ice-covered wings of the ship when over the Gulf of Alaska.

"When we let our landing gear drop into the ocean shortly after leaving the coast of Japan," Herndon said, "two steel struts were left hanging under the plane. Over the Gulf of Alaska, when the ice began to weight us down, we suddenly realized if a forced landing were necessary the struts might jam up through the plane.

Pangborn Dares Wing Ice.

"Pangborn took a rope and crawled out over the glazed ice on the wings, first on one side and then on the other, and pulled up the dangling ends of the rods and tied them to the ship."

The aviators were guests today at a meeting of the north central Washington chambers of commerce at Cashmere, 12 miles from here, and tonight were to be guests of honor at a community banquet.

(Associated Press.)

Congratulations on the transpacific flight of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon were conveyed to Secretary Stimson yesterday by Kijuro Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister.

"Now that the ocean between us has been bridged by one continuous flight," said the message forwarded through the American Embassy at Tokyo, "accept my warm congratulations on the event and on the intrepidity, skill and patience which have enabled Messrs. Pangborn and Herndon to achieve this memorable result which will always remain a landmark in the history of aviation."

Russia's Imports From U. S. Rising

China Also Buying More From America; Business Not Reciprocated.

(Associated Press.)

One difference between Russia and many other nations is that the Soviet's purchases from America are on the increase. China, too, is buying more in the United States than heretofore.

A study of the latest Commerce Department statistics yesterday that Russian imports from the United States were $2,966,169 greater during June, July and August than they were in the corresponding period of 1930. The Chinese increase was $2,538,457.

Shipments to Russia totaled $25,498,985 against $22,442,816 a year ago. China's shipments were $20,874,594 against $18,336,119.

While shipments to Russia and China increased during the summer months, American imports from those countries dropped off heavily. Our purchases from Russia during the period were $3,262,321 compared with $6,976,108 last year. From China they were $17,955,816 against $27,908,438.

2 Florida Youths Killed In Alleged Bootleg Feud

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—A fusillade of shots, regarded by police as the outgrowth of a bootleggers' feud, brought death to two youths in a Jacksonville suburb today.

The bodies of Leslie Stratton, 24, at liberty under bond pending trial on a liquor charge, and Enoch Wells, 19, were found slumped down in two automobiles parked close together near a shack in which they lived on the outskirts of Jacksonville Heights. David and Marion Stratton, uncles of Leslie Stratton, came upon them and reported to police. They were held for questioning.

DINNER FUND DRIVE DENIED BY RASKOB

Admits Session, but Says Men Will Only Work Out Plan of Procedure.

New York, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, characterized as erroneous today reports that he had invited 50 prominent Democrats to dinner next Tuesday night to find a way to pay off the party's $1,500,000 deficit and raise $6,000,000 for the 1932 campaign.

He said he had invited a few friends to dinner to discuss the best method of procedure in working details of a plan already adopted by the national committee.

"The John Price Jones Corporation made a preliminary survey of ways and means of raising funds for the party," he explained in a statement issued at the New York office of the Democratic national committee.

"This survey was submitted to and approved by the Democratic national committee at its meeting last March. Much time is required to work out the details involved in perfecting the plans contemplated in the survey, and we are proceeding most carefully with this work.

"I have asked a few of my friends to dine with me next Tuesday for the purpose of assisting us in evolving the best method of procedure.

"No date has been set for starting the campaign. As soon as our plans are perfected, official announcement will be made."

It is to be a private dinner, and Mr. Raskob withheld the guest list.

Mrs. Hoover was present yesterday at the marriage of Miss Eleanor Hard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, to Mr. Gerard Kirsopp Lake, which took place at noon in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral. Arriving shortly before the beginning of the ceremony, she wore a green silk suit, to which a note of contrast was added by a small, brown hat and matching accessories. Completing the costume was a scarf of dark brown fox fur. Mr. Hard, noted political writer, has maintained a close friendship with the President since the beginning of the administration, and Mr. and Mrs. Hard have been guests at the presidential camp at Rapidan, Va.

The Rev. James Henderson, of the faculty of the Cathedral School for Boys, officiated at the ceremony in the presence of a small company, including relatives and close friends of both families. Mr. Lake is a son of the Rev. Dr. Kirsopp Lake, professor of ecclesiastical history at Harvard University. Following the ceremony, a breakfast was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hard in Georgetown.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, made on princess lines, with close fitting sleeves and a long train. It was trimmed with lace used by her great-grandmother on her wedding dress. A tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and held with a band of pearls across the front and orange blossoms at the back and she carried a cluster of white roses. Countess Felicia Gizycka, the only attendant, wore a frock of brown net made over burnt orange silk and a brown hat trimmed with an orange feather. She carried chrysanthemums in fall shades. Mr. Abraham Hewitt, of New York, was best man.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF October 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:35 a.m. to noon, from 3:15 p. m. to 5:45 p. m., and from 9:10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 7:30 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., and from 6:05 p. m. to 8:20 p. m.

More conspicuous for domestic changes and events than changes in the business or professional sphere, October 7 promises, astrologically, much in the way of achievement along steady and progressive lines. The benefits, although postponed in productivity, will be none the less sure and abiding. Marriages celebrated on this date will be crowned with success.

Children born on this October 7 will be tactful, ingenious and clever. They will be "romancers," especially where their individual activities are concerned. Events, in which they have taken part, will be exaggerated. While no outstanding success is foretold, they will not be failures. Their natures will be optimistic and cheerful.

You, if born on October 7, would rather be a big frog in a little pond, than a little frog in a big pond. Unless you are the hub of things—no matter how trivial they may be—you feel down-hearted and dispirited. You, of course, would like to be a big frog in a big pond, but very wisely realize that this is beyond your limitations. You are more the small village, than the large city, type, and will act wisely if you keep within your own natural confines.

You are not equipped for a prolonged and stiff struggle. You may eventualise as a fairly good amateur, but you will never become a professional. You are shrewd, fairly intelligent, honest and industrious. You are a "sticker," and not disposed to grasp opportunity, unless it is handed to you on a silver platter. You are also a "stickler," and enthusiastically subscribe to orthodoxy and convention. You are imitative, but never original.

If a woman, it will be rather hard for you, at any time, to break the fetters of "Main Street." You should make an effort, however, to rise superior to the impulse to gossip, and to remain silent when speech would hurt. Both October 7 men and women are destined to marry early, and their lives will be full of little happenings and much monotony.

Successful people born on October 7:

Gen. Christian De Wet, Boer general.
Bronson Howard, dramatist.
Kate J. Bateman, actress.
William S. Johnson, president of Columbia.
Martha McCheaney Berry, philanthropist.
Caesar Rodney, statesman.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

FALL PLANTING OF SHRUBBERY.

IF YOU were too busy to plant the shrubs you wanted in the spring, do not wait until another spring rolls around to do so. You can, with perfect safety, plan shrubs at any time up until freezing weather. So try to get them into the ground in the fall, so that when spring comes they will be well established bushes.

If planted in the fall, they will have developed sufficient strength to withstand the heat and drought of their first summer, which is frequently fatal to newly planted shrubs. And as a last argument in favor of fall planting, we usually have more time and a better opportunty to see the open gaps in our garden than when things are dormant.

Think what it will mean when spring comes to see the bushes begin to unfold their beautiful coloring before the last snow pile has melted. It will mean flowers the first year, instead of the second.

When planting any shrub make the hole of sufficient size to allow the roots to follow their own inclination. Never make it so small that the roots are bent or twisted. When filling in soil, firm it carefully, so that there are no air pockets. The rootlets must come in direct contact with the soil. For this reason, when planting it is a good plan when the shrub is in position and the hole half filled, to pour some water into it to wash the soil close to the roots. When it is entirely filled with soil, more water must be used.

Certain shrubs are difficult to transplant. For this reason the nurserymen ship them "balled and burlapped," meaning that the large ball of soil about their roots is wrapped in burlap.

If the plants are long in transit the ball of earth will become very dry. It is, therefore, wise to wet them before the plant is set. Often burlapped stock dies because the water did not penetrate to the center of the ball.

It is well when planting shrubs, especially evergreens, to set the plant an inch below the nursery mark. It is the usual practice to remove the burlap and set the plant into position without disturbing the ball of soil. There is no definite rule about this. If the earth composing the ball is good loam the ball should not be disturbed; on the other hand, if it is stiff clay and slightly dry, it must be thoroughly soaked before planting and the ball loosened up. If this is not done, the clay soil will cake, in which case the wee rootlets will be unable to push their way through and because of their stunted condition the plant will likely die.

Jane Interprets the MODE

White Chiffon, plain and beaded, and a great taffeta bustle-bow of sapphire blue in a distinctive evening gown. (Courtesy of Philippe et Gaston, Paris.)

EUGENIE hats are out, my deahs—but even so, new hats are as trying as they are lovely, and have to be worn with a very definite "face" if they would be most effective!

"But what about us—our faces are stuck to us forever, new hats or no, for better or for worse—" moans La Chic secretary, swatto voice!

Well, you see, my deahs, even though your face is your own, and maybe because your face is your own, there are lots of things you can do to it, by the way of make-up and coiffure, that will make it the kind of a face to perfectly complement and enhance the latest tricks in millinery, whatever they may be! Half of the millinery world at this moment, for instance, is very enthused about pancake hats that tie on at one side, and the other half is acclaiming higher and higher hats. But whichever side wins out, we'll still be left with much of our hair and lots of face exposed!

Hair must be waved, of course, and kept in glossy and well-brushed condition. The smartest, coiffures are parted on the side, with the hair combed softly back, leaving the lobe of the ear exposed, and with a general cool, clean appearance. Then, at the forehead, the hair is either arranged in small, neat scallops, or in ringlets, depending on your age and type.

Now about that face of yours—applying rouge carefully and high on the cheek bones is a big help, but do treat your face to enough facials to keep it fresh and clear and dewy. Rouge alone won't work any more wonders today than it did in the past. And for the woman who "buys" her facials there comes the splendid news right at this time that nearly all the large beauty establishments have lowered their charge for facials, so there's no excuse left for neglecting to have them.

• • • •

'N' here's the way the fashionable woman of Autumn, 1931, takes unto herself the Second Empire bustle idea—only the idea you see, my deahs, not the actual bustle! But the evening gown I have sketched today is such a splendid illustration of the point that adaptations of an ancient mode may be smart and beautiful that I couldn't resist showing it to you. The gown itself is from Philippe et Gaston, of white chiffon, plain as to skirt, and beaded with tiny crystals on the bodice and hip yoke. And the bustle-bow, of stiff, sapphire blue taffeta forms a narrow girdle about the waist and a wide train that falls just to the ground behind!

So there you are! You, too, may go romantic if you do it with as much charm and restraint as today's lady—and if you yourself are tall enough and slender enough to get away with bustle-things and puffs!

• • • •

The decolletage is important these days, too—and especially chic when it's matched with a little bag, like the strass and crystal ensemble I have sketched today! See how the beading that outlines the decolletage matches the bag?

• • • •

A Lovely Lady's house is as charming as she is—yeah, each and every part of it! And the bathroom, perhaps because of its very intimacy and usual artistic neglect, is the most telltale part of her house, I think. So-o-o-o-o-o, the lovely lady can send a stamped, self addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for a leaflet that will tell her how to make, with her ten clever fingers, a gadjet in which to hang all her necessary but unsightly rubber goods. Handy to use, yet keeps such things quite, quite, out of sight. Besides, this gadget is decorative, quite a piece of furniture, really—yet one that can be made in half an hour. Send for the leaflet and see.

Au revoir!

Philatelic Society Holds Election of Officers

The Philatelic Society of the John Quincy Adams School, the only elementary school organization of its kind in the local public school system held its first meeting of the year yesterday.

The following officers were elected: Luis Rivera, president; Rosa Ellis, vice president; James Kirsch, treasurer, and Franklin Witt, sergeant at arms. Mr. Rivera has served as president once before for a semester. The society was organized at the beginning of the last school year. The collection of stamps is said to be one of the best in school circles.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE USE OF PRE-EMPTIVE BIDS.

PRACTICALLY all hands at Contract secure better results when the Approach principle is used in the bidding. The Approach principle, however does not apply to hands of extremely freakish distribution containing long and powerful suits. Such hands have a minimum of defensive strength. They are best played, as a rule, with the long suit as trump, at which their attack value will be most in evidence.

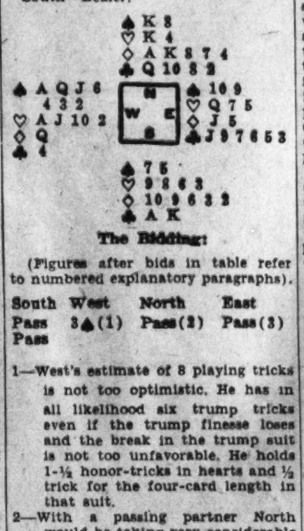
This is the principle behind the use of the Pre-emptive game bid at Contract in the Approach-Forcing System. Partner can make no response that will change the fact that the hand is predominantly one-suited. Thus it has been found in actual practice that on bids of this type overbidding pays because if the outstanding strength in other suits is held by the opponents, your high bid in a suit has made it extremely difficult for them to reach their best declaration.

To some extent, bids of three in a major suit or four in a minor partake of this characteristic of the game bids. However, these bids of one below game do give promise of some defensive strength. I have placed the requirements for a major suit bid of three at a minimum of 8 playing-tricks, including 1-½ or more honor tricks in other suits. Thus used, such bids are game winners and point winners but as sometimes used they simply prevent partner from disclosing his hand and this reaching the best declaration for the combined hands.

Thus, the Pre-emptive game bids and the semi-Pre-emptive bids of one under game have great strategic value. Such bids, it is true, preclude the free exchange of information, but they make it doubly difficult for opponents to disclose their holdings.

Neither side vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

South	West	North	East
Pass	3♠(1)	Pass(2)	Pass(3)
Pass

1—West's estimate of 8 playing tricks is not too optimistic. He has in all likelihood six trump tricks even if the trump finesse loses and the break in the trump suit is not too unfavorable. He holds 1-½ honor-tricks in hearts and ½ trick for the four-card length in that suit.

2—With a passing partner North would be taking very considerable chances to put in a bid of four diamonds. His hand is reasonably strong from the defensive standpoint.

3—East requires at least 1 trick plus to raise a major bid of three to game. This his hand does not contain, so he rightly passes.

Played at spades West made the contract, scoring 90 below the line. The hand was played in Duplicate and at other tables where West opened with a bid of one spade, North and South, through the opportunity thus afforded for the free exchange of information, reached a contract of five diamonds which, of course, was made, the only losing tricks being one spade and one heart.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In estimating the real meaning of any bid or play made by partner or the actual effects of bids conveyed to him the composite picture of three psychological factors must always be kept in the background:

1—Partner's degree of Technical knowledge.
2—Partner's level of natural intelligence.
3—Partner's temperament and morale.

All bids and plays will be largely influenced by these three factors and each factor in turn plays a greater or lesser role according to the individual.

THE WORLD TO PLAY AT CONTRACT.

China, Australia, England, Germany, Hungary, the Philippines, the Argentine, Denmark, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Cuba, Canada and Mexico are organizing for the Olympic game of the world of Bridge, the Million Player World Championship Tournament of the National Bridge Association. At these far-off points at one minute past 8 o'clock (New York time) on January 20, 1932, Contract Bridge players will sit down and start the play of sixteen expertly prepared duplicate hands. Then will be fought out a world championship, hundreds of thousands of players in the United States and in other countries competing; a championship battle as real and thrilling as though the players were in the pit of a gigantic amphitheater.

That the National Bridge Association has struck a popular note in the world of Bridge with the plan for a gigantic world-wide test of skill at the Bridge table is evidenced by the interest already aroused.

The methods to be used in playing, scoring and the keeping of records, will be so simplified that little, if any, difficulty is expected to arise on these points. Therefore it is that those who are interested in stimulating the largest possible participation in the game will no doubt find it possible to arrange several local events, either as a part of a city or district tournament or merely as a part of the international competition.

No player, no matter what degree of skill he possesses, whether expert, average or below average, can fail to get a stimulating thrill from this contest. Out of the thousands of players participating there will emerge one world champion pair for North and South and one champion East and West pair, but even the below-average player will be able, when the hands are analyzed, to see where his bidding or play failed to measure up to the expert standard.

The rules governing play will be the Contract Bridge laws promulgated by the Whist Club, New York, with such additions as may be necessary owing to the peculiar nature of the event. Strict regulations are being prepared to safeguard the secrecy of the hands and pars before play and the play of the hands, the passage of the hands between the tables and the submission of scores and records to the International Tournament Committee by Game Captains.

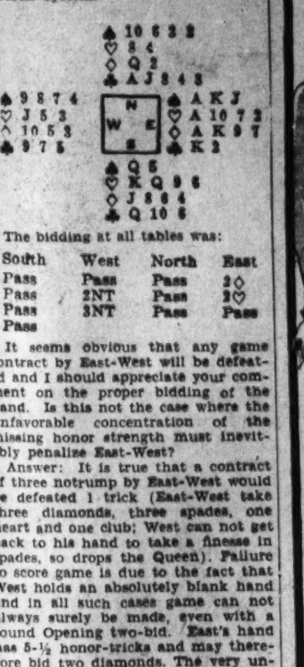
While the unit of competition will be a game of 16 hands at 16 tables of 64 players, multiples of four tables in addition may be organized under one management but an additional set of hands will be required for each game unit.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Optional Two Notrumps.

Question: The following hand was bid and played at Duplicate Contract in a team-of-four match at our local Bridge club.

North-South vulnerable. South deals, no score. Both sides use Culbertson System.



The bidding at all tables was:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	2◇
Pass	2NT	Pass	2♡
Pass	3NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

It seems obvious that any game contract by East-West will be defeated and I should appreciate your comment on the proper bidding of the hand. Is this not the case where the unfavorable concentration of the missing honor strength must inevitably penalize East-West?

Answer: It is true that a contract of three notrump by East-West would be defeated 1 trick (East-West take three diamonds, three spades, one heart and one club; West can not get back to his hand to take a finesse in spades, so drops the Queen). Failure to score game is due to the fact that West holds an absolutely blank hand and in all such cases game can not always surely be made, even with a sound Opening two-bid. East's hand has 5-½ honor-tricks and may therefore bid two diamonds. The very unfavorable distribution of his hand, however, (4-4-3-2), together with the lack of a strong suit, makes a bid of two notrump (instead of two diamonds) optional.

C. F. M.

Preferring Defense to Attack.

Question: Please give correct bid of Second Hand. Dealer bids one heart. Second Hand holds and passes:

♠ A x
♡ K J 10 x x
◇ Q x x
♣ x x x

First Hand insists proper bid was notrump; Second Hand insists a defeat is in sight and if partner takes out notrump on clubs or spades, Second Hand has no rescue bid. Would you please settle?

Answer: Second Hand's only proper bid is a pass. He has splendid defense against hearts and is unprepared for any forced Takeout by his partner. While his hand is too weak to overcall with a notrump (almost all his strength being bunched in hearts), he has very fair prospects of defeating an adverse three notrump contract.

N. A. B.
Santa Barbara, Calif.

Finesse or Drop?

Question: Will you kindly give me your opinion of how the following should be played at Contract Bridge?

The only question involved is the play of the trumps. South bids two hearts. West passes, North bids three hearts, East bids three spades; South gets the bid. South gets in and leads the trumps. South holds in trumps A J 10 6 4. North, partner, holds K 7 5 3. The only question is how would you play the trumps, South leading?

Answer: Upon examining the Dummy and the lead, it may be possible to determine that East holds six spades (which is probable in any event). Should you read him for five spades, only attempt to determine whether he may hold high cards in diamonds or clubs. In a decided majority of cases on bidding of this kind it will be advisable to lead the heart Ace and then the Knave, finessing against West if he plays a low card to the second trick. Your proper procedure in the hand submitted by you would be doubtful only if you should have reason to suppose that East has only five spades and few, if any, high cards in diamonds or clubs.

Modern Bible Translation Soon to Come From Press

Volume, in Simple, Vigorous English, to be in Narrative Form, Printed Like Regular Books; Proverbs Written as Present-day Epigrams.

Chicago, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—A modern American Bible, written in simple, vigorous and easy-to-read English, is in the making.

Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed is responsible for the New Testament and Dr. J. M. Powis Smith for the Old. The book will be off the University of Chicago presses early next month, the first complete translation of its kind.

The narrative runs along smoothly, almost as though it were an exquisitely written modern novel. The birth of Jesus, Luke 2:8-14, thus is described:

"There were some shepherds in that neighborhood keeping watch through the night over their flocks in the open fields, and an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terribly frightened. The angel said to them:

"'Do not be frightened, for I bring you good news of a great joy that is to be felt by all the people, for today, in the town of David, a Savior for you has been born, who is your Messiah and Lord. And this will prove it to you: you will find a baby wrapped up and lying in a manger.'

"Suddenly there appeared with the angel a throng of the heavenly army, praising God, saying:

"'Glory to God in heaven and earth; peace to the men He favors!'"

The proverbs, too, are simplified, until they sound like the most modern of epigrams. For instance:

"All the ways of a man are pure in his own eyes; but the Lord weighs the motives."

"A knavish man's thoughts are ice-cold; but the words on his lips are like a scorching fire."

"He who shuts his eyes is hatching some crooked scheme; he who tightens his lips concocts some mischief."

The authors found that a more complete knowledge of Hebrew than was possible in earlier centuries brought about a thorough change in meaning in some passages. An example is Isaiah 1:18. The King James version has it thus:

"Come now and let us reason together, said the Lord, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they shall be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

The modern version of the same passage says:

"'Come now and let us reason together,' said the Lord. 'If your sins be like scarlet, can they become white as snow? If they be red like crimson, can they become like wool?'"

Physically, too, the new Bible will be unlike the old. It will be printed like a modern book, with open pages and full use of quotation marks. There will be no double columns, summaries, headings, cross-references or notes. As Dr. Goodspeed commented:

"It will be the Bible itself."

"Recently discovered ancient Greek manuscripts," he added, "clearly indicate that the Greek in which the New Testament was written was not classical, but was the popular, colloquial Greek of the day.

"We seek consequently to create on the modern reader the same impression the Bible made in the first century."

COUNTY CANDIDATES SPEAK IN BARCROFT

Arlington Democratic Group Expound Platforms in Talks to Voters.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking last night to an audience that overflowed the community hall at Barcroft, causing the meeting to be held in the open, Sheriff Howard B. Fields, who seeks his third term as sheriff of Arlington County at the hands of the voters on Tuesday, November 3, said, "I am not here tonight to sling any mud."

"I say here in public that I consider that I have the finest police force of any section of the United States of the same size as Arlington County."

"There is nothing about the office of sheriff that I do not know how to do or am afraid to do," he stated. "Next year with the bicentennial celebration on there will be thousands of people coming through Arlington County and it is important that we have a man in the office of sheriff that knows the county and has an efficient police force. I am making no promises other than that I will continue as I have, and enforce the law."

Duncan Seeks Votes.

Edward Duncan, the next speaker, declared that there has been no police officer at the school building along Mount Vernon avenue, where thousands of persons pass every day, despite the fact that Sheriff Fields says he has men placed at the schools.

"If he needs more men he can appoint another officer, as one has resigned and none has been appointed. No, he will not do it until after election day," he said.

"If I am elected, I expect to have a real police force, one that works eight hours all over the county." This remark brought forth laughter.

A. C. Clements declared that he was the one who organized the police force when elected in 1919 and served four years.

Regardless of who is elected he will have nothing to do with the appointment of the police. The county manager, under the new form of government, will appoint all police.

Other candidates speaking for the office of sheriff were Z. O. Kines and Carl A. Schultze.

Hosmer Denies Rumors.

Emery N. Hosmer, candidate for the office of Commonwealth attorney, declared that the rumors that are going the rounds of the county to the effect that "I am making this race in the interest of another candidate" are absolutely false and groundless. I am making this race on my qualifications and if elected Emery N. Hosmer will be Commonwealth attorney.

C. R. Ahalt, who last week detailed the methods of filing tax suits, declared that he has failed to find one person, despite the fact that 1,100 suits were filed, that was notified.

"I consider that it is nothing but common courtesy to let a person know that a suit will be filed even though it has been said that it is not necessary to notify him," he said.

William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney, who seeks his third term, said "none of my opponents have said a word about the more than 1,500 criminal indictments that have been returned during the past eight years, nor do they tell you that we have not had one grand jury dismissed due to having been improperly drawn. They have not said anything about the many papers that I have prepared for the many bond issues, all of which have been found correct.

Hits Tax Delinquents.

"I only wish I had the time to talk to you on the question of taxes. It has not been the people within the hearing of my voice that have failed to pay their taxes. They are the ones who are paying to operate our government. It is the person or persons owning large tracts of land, who are holding them until prices advance that they may make a huge profit, that have failed to pay their taxes."

Other speakers were Lawrence Douglas and Amos C. Crounse.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Barcroft School and Civic League. Another meeting will be held next week, the speakers to be announced later.

Taxi Driver's $19 Taken By Passenger With Gun

William H. Coursen, 629 Allison street northwest, a taxi driver, reported to Montgomery County police at Silver Spring, Md., yesterday that he had been held up by a passenger at the point of a pistol and robbed of $19.

The man was picked up in Washington and gave the driver an address on Sligo avenue, halting the cab near Georgia avenue on that street, where he produced a pistol and directed the driver to turn over his pocketbook.

Maryland Reports 86 Cases of Hog Cholera

The report of 86 cases of hog cholera in Maryland during September surpassed the number listed during the past eight months, according to the University of Maryland. Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties had five cases each; Dorchester had 20 cases, and Worcester, 14.

Most of the cases occurred where only a few of the animals were kept, and not on farms raising a large number. In many cases the disease was traced to feeding of infected scraps.

919 Hunters' Licenses Given in Prince Georges

Summerfield D. Hall, clerk of the Prince Georges County Circuit Court, issued 919 hunter's licenses during September, with fees from this source totaling $1,950.30, his monthly report shows.

Of this number, 717 were issued to persons within the county, 28 to nonresidents; 714 State-wide permits were given.

Rosslyn Political Meetings Planned.

Plans for political meetings at which candidates for county offices will be the speakers were discussed at a meeting of the Rosslyn Precinct Civic Association held last night at the Woodrow Wilson School. Fort Myer Heights. Homer R. Thomas and R. H. Brown were named to arrange for the meetings.

PACT WILL PROVIDE 2 ROCKVILLE ROADS

Sale of Present Jail Site Is Part of Deal Drawn Up by Commission.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

An agreement has been reached between the Montgomery County Commissioners and heirs of the late Judge Edward C. Peter and the late John T. Vinson whereby the present jail site will be sold to the heirs when the new courthouse and jail is opened. Through this transaction two new traffic arteries will be provided for Rockville, Md.

The agreement provides that the commissioners will sell the jail property to the heirs at a price of $2,000. In return the Peter heirs will dedicate a 40-foot right of way, from the Perry street extension at the Rockville Fire Department building to the Rockville High School, which will provide a right of way for a drainage pipe for the new courthouse and at the same time open a new street, to be paved by the town of Rockville with cinders.

The heirs also agreed to dedicate a 80-foot right of way for an extension of Perry street from the Fire Department building at Jefferson street to Maryland avenue, which at present connects with the Great Falls-Potomac road. The county commissioners plan to improve this street, probably within two years. This will provide a new routing of traffic from the western section of the county, to avoid congestion at the traffic light on the Frederick road.

Edward Peter and Vinson Peter represented the heirs at the negotiations, while Mayor J. Roger Spates, of Rockville, represented the county. If the agreement is carried out, the Peter heirs will dedicate 23,440 feet of land and the Vinson heirs 8,100 feet.

The commissioners also reached an agreement with the Potomac Electric Power Co. for street lighting around the courthouse square and authorized installation of a police call box at Gaithersburg. The commissioners approved a recommendation of Delos H. Smith, courthouse architect, that an additional $2,300 be expended for improvements in the courthouse building.

Judge Charles W. Woodward reported that fines and costs totaling $1,486.50 were collected in criminal cases and costs of $66 in civil cases were collected in September by the county police court.

2 Marshals Added By Edmonston, Md.

Hodges and Smith Chosen; 20-Mile Speed Limit Will Be Fixed.

Two new marshals have been appointed by the town council of Edmonston, Md., bringing the town's number of policemen to four. They are Wilbur Hodges and Samuel Smith.

The force was increased so that one policeman would be available at all times. A speed limit of 20 miles per hour will be established within the corporate limits as soon as approved by the county commissioners.

The council also has made plans for improvement of Wells avenue and the bridge connecting Taylor avenue in Riverdale and River road in Edmonston. About $1,100 is available for the street improvement. A new ordinance prohibiting fires whose smoke or odor is a nuisance also was adopted. Hereafter council meetings will be held on the first and third Saturdays of each month, it was decided.

Citizens Ask Change In Mount Rainier Zone

Asking that the lot near Twenty-eighth and Valley streets in Mount Rainier, now occupied by a foundry, be zoned as residential, a delegation of citizens yesterday appeared before the Prince Georges County commissioners to request the change.

Their request was referred to the Park and Planning Commission.

PENNSYLVANIA SIGNS ELECTRIC CONTRACT

Power to Supply Line From Havre de Grace Will Begin in 1933.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Oct. 6.—Negotiation of a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad to supply all the power for electrification of the line between Havre de Grace and Washington was announced today by officials of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co. of this city.

The contract covers a period of twenty years and, according to the announcement of the gas company officials, the supply is scheduled to begin early in 1933.

As the electrification program develops in its entirety, it was asserted, the agreement will represent one of the largest sales of power ever covered in a single contract.

The power will be supplied by the gas company and two affiliated concerns—the Pennsylvania Water and Power Co. and the Safe Harbor Water Power Corporation.

Officials of the gas company said consummation of the contract was particularly gratifying to them, insofar as it justifies the company's position in going ahead with the $30,000,000 Safe Harbor development, a project predicated largely on the Pennsylvania's electrification plan.

The amount of power expected to be consumed by the Pennsylvania, the rate scale at which it will be furnished and other details of the contract were withheld.

Bail in Traffic Cases Raised in Alexandria

Police Capt. John S. Arnold has announced that in future violators of traffic regulations in Alexandria will be required to post collateral of $10 for passing stop signs or red lights; $50 for charges of reckless driving; $10 for failure to give hand signals, and $1,000 collateral will be required for all felonies.

Police have been posted at intersections where there are stop signs, as well as intersections governed by traffic lights, to pay particular attention to drivers failing to heed these signals. Formerly $2 collateral was required for violation of the stop regulation.

D., Assistant Bishop of Virginia, will celebrate its seventy-first anniversary today under the leadership of the Rev. Herbert W. van Counhoven, beginning with morning prayer at 8:45 o'clock, followed immediately by Communion.

Evensong will be sung at 8 p. m., the sermon being preached by Charles Smith, of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia.

ALEXANDRIA FAVORS ROAD WIDENING PLAN

Chamber Delegates to Attend Quantico Session to Develop Program.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU. 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 323.

A committee from the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, consisting of Dan S. Hollenga, business manager, and Fred C. Goodnow, will attend a meeting in Quantico tomorrow night, at which plans will be completed for requesting the State Highway Commission to widen the Washington-Richmond highway between Alexandria and Fredericksburg, designated as U. S. Route No. 1, a distance of approximately 46 miles, and straighten some of the more dangerous curves.

This matter has been under consideration for some time, and it will be represented to the highway commission that this is the main highway from the East to the South; that it bears the heaviest traffic in Virginia, and that, with the constantly increasing traffic, the comparatively narrow roadway, with its sharp curves and heavy grades, constitutes a menace which should be improved. Several sections of the highway south of Fredericksburg have already been widened by the highway commission.

The Chamber of Commerce will give a banquet at the George Mason Hotel on the evening of October 30 to celebrate the silver jubilee of James T. Preston who, for 25 consecutive years, has served as secretary of the trade body. J. William May has been appointed chairman of the banquet committee.

Seminole Tribe No. 35, Red Men, of Alexandria, will celebrate its twenty-third anniversary with Past Sachems' Night and Ladies' Night tomorrow evening. The committee in charge, consisting of Norman Roberts, Roger C. Sullivan, E. A. Huntington, Frank Smith and S. F. Gill, has arranged a musical program and social hour.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence left Alexandria last night for Louisville, Ky., to attend the annual convention of the International City Managers Association, which opens today and will continue through Saturday. Mr. Wallace will return Sunday.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, accompanied by Richard M. Green, jr., will leave tomorrow for Havana, Cuba, where he will attend the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, which will be held October 14 to 17.

Chevy Chase Seeks New School Bids

New Plans Will Include Features in Former Ones Rejected.

Bids on revised plans for the second unit of the Chevy Chase Elementary School, which have been approved by the building committee of the Chevy Chase Parent-Teacher Association, will be advertised for at once, Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome announced yesterday at Rockville, Md.

The new plans will provide all of the features of the older plans which exceeded the appropriation, but will utilize low ground at the school site. The principal change is in location of the gymnasium under the ground floor.

The first unit of the school is expected to be ready for occupancy at the end of this month. The three units of the school building will represent an investment of about $206,000 when completed. The second unit should be completed by the end of this school year.

Beltsville Woman Wins Car-Crash Claim of $70

Mrs. Cora A. Martin, Beltsville, was awarded $70 yesterday by a Prince Georges County jury for damages which her car received in a collision with another automobile driven by John Forney on the Riggs road. She was represented by Attorneys Ryon and Hassell.

Another jury was called upon to settle ownership of furniture which had been bought by Harry L. Kimball, Colmar Manor, on the installment plan. Benjamin Miller, grocer of that town, levied on the household effects for an unpaid bill. The jury decided the articles belonged to the original owner, a furniture company.

STOCK GAINS BREAK RECORDS SINCE 1929

General Recovery of Market Replaces Recent Losses; Turnover Heavy.

New York, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The stocks that nobody wanted yesterday had plenty of friends today.

Between Monday's close and this morning's opening there popped up one of those amazingly rapid changes in market psychology and quotations swooped dizzily upward in the largest general advance since November 14, 1929. Based on the Standard Statistics-Associated Press averages, the gain amounted to 8.7 points, much larger than any of the June rallies. Sales totaled 4,301,464 shares.

President Hoover's plans to effect "national unity in the setting up of constructive forces in place of destructive forces now working in the depression" were veiled in considerable secrecy while the market was in session, but Wall street took the White House announcement to mean that definite measures were being worked out to ease frozen credits and restore confidence, doubtless through the cooperation of bankers and the National Government.

Washington News Aids.

However much the street was in the dark concerning what has been or is to be accomplished, there was no mistaking the effect of the Washington advices on the security and commodity markets. Bonds could not do as well as stocks, but many issues were in good demand. Wheat advanced more than 2 cents a bushel, corn about a cent and a half and cotton $1.55 to $1.75 a bale.

Strongly encouraged by the overnight announcement of President Hoover's meeting with the congressional leaders this evening, shares got further support from another stock exchange edict on sales, requiring members to ascertain whether a selling order was for short or long account before executing it. Then came the declaration of Atchison's regular dividend—a cut had been predicted in many quarters—and President Hoover's announcement concerning tomorrow's conference of real estate men and bankers, presumably for a discussion of plans to relieve what is admittedly a most difficult situation. Long deprived of favorable news, the market jumped to its feast, and final prices, except in the rail group, were virtually at the top.

Steel Makes Advance.

United States Steel closed at 71⅛, up 8⅞, American Telephone at 132⅝, up 11⅛; American Can 79¼, up 7¼; General Electric 28⅜, up 3⅝; Westinghouse 47⅜, up 8¼; Consolidated Gas 69, up 7¾; North American 35, up 8½; Western Union, 97¾, up 10¼; General Motors 25, up 2½; Woolworth 49⅜, up 6.

New York Central's net gain was 7½. Atchison, which had been up 16 points to 113½, finished at 110, or 12½ higher. Norfolk & Western and Union Pacific retained 10 to 11¾ points, respectively, of somewhat larger extreme advances.

The sensational advances indicated to may observers that the short interest was larger than had been assumed, and there was a natural desire to await developments before permitting expressions of unqualified optimism. Nevertheless, the turn was a tonic administered to a very sick patient and Wall street was too much relieved to be very critical.

Loans Off $15,000,000.

This week's statement of reporting Federal Reserve member banks reflected the fright that had influenced the dumping of stocks. Despite the heavy shrinkage of quoted values, loans on securities were off only $15,000,000, which meant much of the selling came from nonbank sources. The statement furthermore revealed that banking institutions had added rather substantially to their investment portfolios, the inference being that demands for currency had lightened.

The freight-loading statement for the week ended September 26, coming after the close, was not so cheerful, for there was a drop of 4,599 cars, or against the seasonal trend. Another steel review said there had been virtually no change in operations. The wage reductions, it reported, had had no effect on prices and was expected to have none.

Foreign exchanges strengthened. Sterling climbed back toward $4, closing at $3.94, or 10½ cents higher, while most continental rates improved.

BOND PRICES CHANGE LOSSES FOR UPTURN

Conferences in Capital Aid Market in Reversing Downward Trend.

New York, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The bond market proved today that it could reverse itself. During the forenoon prices continued to recede on moderate activity. About midsession, however, firmer prices appeared and activity increased sharply.

The average price of 60 corporate bonds, consisting of equal numbers of rail, public utility and industrial issues, was 80.7, a net gain for the day of seven-tenths of a point. The Monday average constituted the lowest price in several years. Sales aggregated $18,610,000 on the stock exchange, an increase of more than $3,000,000 over Monday. This buoyancy was ascribed generally to the conferences initiated by the Hoover administration.

The most impressive advances were scored by railroad obligations. Net gains of 2 to 5 points were made by such active issues as Baltimore & Ohio refunding 6s of 1995, Atchison general 4s, Alleghany 5s of 1944 and of 1950, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio series A 4½s, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4½s, Rock Island refunding 4s of 1934, Erie 5s of 1975, several issues of Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central new 4½s, Northern Pacific series B 6s, and Pennsylvania 6½s of 1936.

Individual gains were not so large among the public utility and industrial groups, possibly because many of them were not traded when the upward movement was under way.

United States Government issues were one of the most active groups and aggregate sales of them exceeded $2,300,000. Most of them closed higher.

Foreign issues closed irregularly higher. In this group particularly many of the bonds to close lower did not sell when the advance was in full swing. Japanese 5½s and 6½s, Paris Lyons Mediterranean 6s, and German 5½s and 7s made notable advances.

PROPOSAL TO LABOR ASKS LIQUOR ACTION

Repeal of 18th Amendment Urged, Likewise Extra Session for Relief.

Vancouver, British Columbia, Oct 6 (A. P.).—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, a special session of Congress to appropriate money for unemployment relief, exclusion of Filipino laborers, and regulation of Mexican immigration were urged in resolutions presented to the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

The Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Beverage Dispensers International Alliance sponsored the resolution proposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment while the Central Labor Council of Tacoma, Wash., favored repeal of the Volstead act.

Fifty-four resolutions were presented and referred to committees without discussion.

In Regulated Liquor Systems.

In urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment the resolution said, in part:

"We favor the installation by the States of a method of controlled and restricted distribution which will prevent the exploitation of the liquor traffic for unconscionable profits and not only do away with prevailing speakeasies and secret drinking, but prevent the reappearance of an unregulated system and the political iniquities which accompany it."

The executive council of the federation in its annual report, which was divided up among committees for consideration yesterday, urged modification of the Volstead act to legalize 2.75 per cent beer, and President William Green, of the federation, expressed the opinion the convention would content itself with that stand.

Other Proposals Urged.

Other resolutions urged participation of the United States in a general disarmament conference at Geneva in 1932; construction and repair work on naval vessels be done in Government navy yards; favored legislation restricting competition of enlisted men in the Navy with civilian workers in repair and overhaul work; favored a Federal licensing law for business firms and corporations; proposed investigation into the labor policy of firms seeking higher protective tariffs; demanded enforcement of civil liberties in accordance with constitutional guarantees; proposed creation of a labor and industrial board by President Hoover; proposed unemployment insurance "inaugurated and controlled by the States and subsidized by the Federal Government"; proposed heavier income taxes on progressively larger incomes, and favored calling of a national conference for the relief of unemployment.

Among communications read to the convention was an invitation from Atlantic City, N. J., to the federation to hold its 1932 convention in that city.

Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, called upon Americans today to quit "cheese-nibbling" methods of relieving unemployment and organize to provide work for all. He expressed opposition to the dole system.

The former Secretary of Labor, speaking before the conventtion, said fear was the factor that was keeping the American dollar the laziest instrument in the country. A forward step, he said, would be "elimination of wildcat financing and stock juggling."

Pistol and Cartridges Are Found in Taxicab

Second Precinct police are holding a brief case, containing among other things a foreign make pistol and cartridges and a letter to its owner from the Bulgarian Legation, which was left behind in a taxicab yesterday. The absent-minded owner is thought to be a student at George Washington University as these words were written in a notebook which was found in the bag.

It was turned over to police by the manager of a taxicab company, who declared he found it on his desk and did not know which driver found it. The letter was written in Bulgarian and there was no English writing among the notes and memoranda to indicate who the possessor is.

Grant Tells of Capital Civic Growth at Detroit

Speaking at annual meeting of the American Civic Association at Detroit, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and parks, last night gave an illustrated address on progress in development of Washington and its environs.

The convention opened Monday and will close today. A regional planning meeting will be held tomorrow after the convention has closed. Frederick A. Delano, president of the association, was unable to attend because of injuries received when a horse fell at his estate near Newburgh, N. Y.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE process of revamping the Myron C. Fagan comedy, "Peter Flies High," with which Leonard Bergman opened the season at the National Theater, with Glenn Hunter in the name part, has proved a more arduous road task than was at first anticipated.

The play will be temporarily closed in Cleveland on Saturday night, partially recast, again put in rehearsal and reopened at a later date, still preparatory to a probable run on Broadway in the Criterion, or some other available theater.

During the fortnight's engagement of "Peter Flies High" in Philadelphia, Frank Craven, the celebrated actor-author-director, who had been called in in the capacity of consulting specialist, largely rewrote the script—rewrote it so completely in some scenes, as a matter of fact, that it was a well-nigh impossible chore for the players to forget the original version and inject the new while the play was on.

Hence the order to take the piece off until the job can be done right.

A few weeks ago when the piquant and vivacious Miss Irene Bordoni was guest artist on a popular Sabbath evening radio hour, she went at some length into descriptions of the gowns she had brought back from Paris with which to costume her new play. The new play was "The Improper Duchess," current at the Belasco, and the new gowns, precisely as Miss Bordoni prophesied, constitute one of its most striking elements of appeal—especially to the feminine members of the audience.

None of them, however, quite synchronizes with the Bordoni bathing suit worn when that gorgeous coat of tan was accumulated this past summer!

And imagine my surprise, upon returning from a brief excursion to the composing-room, to find a stunning 11 by 14 autographed photograph of Senorita Raquel Torres, appearing in person at the Fox, reposing on my desk. Well, well, well—not to mention many thanks!

Reverting momentarily to "The Improper Duchess," undergoing its premiere week at the Belasco, a discriminating devotee of the theater who had found the first two acts of the Fagan comedy just a little soporific reviewed them tersely but comprehensively when asked what he thought of the play. Without a moment's hesitation he replied:

"Well, I certainly envied the Duchess when she went to bed just now!"

Radio and vaudeville audiences can thank the saxophone for one of the most popular teams of vocal harmonizers now before the public.

It seems that the Boswell Sisters, headlining the stage portion of this week's entertainment at the Earle, began their musical career as an instrumental trio, executing standard compositions and the classics of chamber music on the piano, violin and 'cello. For seven years they pursued the classic muse—or until 1923, when each was presented with a saxophone. This effectually disrupted the budding string trio and launched their career as lively interpreters of modern syncopated rhythms.

Ann Harding is rapidly climbing into the top rank of big money stars at the Washington box offices. In her present engagement in "Devotion," the attraction at the RKO-Keith Theater, the blonde star of "Holiday" and "East Lynn" is running neck and neck with the house record set by Constance Bennett in "The Common Law."

What you thought was a magnificent autumn sunset was merely Mr. Meakin's smile looming up over Fifteenth street.

William Fields, the peripatetic publicist here a month ago in the interests of "Peter Flies High," was a welcome caller yesterday in the role of harbinger of Joe Cook and his production of "Fine and Dandy," headed for the National. And what a briefcaseful of girls!

I. H. Herk, president of the Columbia Burlesque Association, has issued a call for 200 chorus girls for the ten companies now being assembled for his circuit to supplement the 25 organizations now traveling the "wheel."

With the principal players, the stage crews and executive staffs required for each company, the expanded circuit will add 400 persons to 1,200 already employed and on tour with the Columbia shows.

Estelle Taylor, to be seen in person at the Fox beginning Friday, plays opposite Ronald Colman in "Unholy Garden," by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, and is pointed for a vacation in New York, following strenuous work in that film, "Street Scene," and on the road. It is expected that her tour will take her to New York about the twenty-fourth of the current month and that she will remain there several weeks. Not that it matters.

Kate Smith, smashing all long-run records at the Palace Theater, in New York, will be found smiling at you from a full-page "thank you" ad in the last issue of Variety, out yesterday.

And how are you betting on the series by now—if any?

HEATED PARLEY ROW BREAKS OVER TARIFF

Pan-American Delegates to Hold Plenary Session on Problem Today.

delegation took issue with the chairman and supported their Cuban colleagues. Dr. Varela forgot his impartiality as chairman for a moment and argued the point of procedure with the delegates on the floor. The result of the discussion was the calling of a special plenary session today for disposition of the resolution.

Behind yesterday's incident, it became known, was the secret meeting of eight of the principal Latin-American countries on Sunday night before the opening of the conference. No delegate from the State Department was present. A score of the more important official delegates met to consider the various problems which would come up before the conference. At this meeting Dr. Gutierez first broached the subject of tariffs. Immediately he found prompt response. Several of the countries represented at the conference promised him their support, although the Mexican delegates were not among those at the meeting. The Brazilian delegation, through its chairman, Sebastian Sampaio, supported the Cuban delegation in principle, but wanted the same idea expressed without the use of the word "tariffs."

Compromise Is Proposed.

Dr. Gutierez proposed a compromise resolution which was accepted by a majority of the delegates at the secret meeting, although some countries, like Chile, refused to ratify the Cuban proposition.

The extraordinary meeting of the delegates today will determine the fate of the Cuban proposal.

Other reactions are expected today when the delegates discuss the address of Prof. Kemmerer, who yesterday urged the maintenance of a gold standard for all banking operations throughout the Americas. The Princeton professor, who was recently summoned to Peru for a consultation on her ailing finances, urged the maintenance of the gold exchange standard as the one "best adapted to present-day Latin-American conditions."

Other delegations will dispute this assertion. Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, dropped in yesterday afternoon after the Kemmerer address and conferred with several of the delegations who are planning to oppose the gold standard speech of the economic expert. He did not address the conference, however.

Will Urge Silver Conference.

The delegation from El Salvador, under the leadership of its chairman, Dr. Viera Altamirano, has served notice it will urge the summoning of an international conference on silver "at which the world powers shall bind themselves to the rehabilitation of silver."

Senator King, while making no definite proposal for relieving the present world crisis through the revalorization of silver, nevertheless has given his support to those countries of Latin America who will in the present conference endeavor to voice the aims of the ever-increasing silver bloc. This proposition will find especial favor in those countries like Peru, Bolivia and Colombia, whose mineral resources will find common cause with the silver-producing States in the United States.

TARIFF ISSUE DRAWS HEATED PARLEY ROW

Pan-American Delegates to Hold Plenary Session to Decide Action.

(Associated Press.)

An unmistakable determination to make an issue of high tariffs was expressed yesterday by delegates to the fourth Pan-American commercial conference.

A Cuban proposal that import duties remain unchanged for two years, pending a study by a special committee, was formally introduced. A disagreement on its disposition followed.

Finally, the delegates consented to hold an unscheduled plenary session today to decide whether the proposition should go first to the resolutions committee or be submitted to open debate tomorrow.

Under the Cuban plan, the conference would formally recommend the tariff truce to the twenty Latin-American republics represented and to the United States. The special committee would study methods of tariff readjustment.

The tariff storm broke after Chairman Fletcher of the tariff commission had defended the system of the United States. He explained and recommended to the delegates the flexible provision which, he said, already has permitted studies of several Latin-American products with a view to revision of rates. He pointed out that two-thirds of those products entered the United States duty-free.

A ruling by Chairman Varela, Minister of Uruguay, that the Cuban plan go to the resolutions committee apparently was interpreted by leaders of the high tariff opposition as holding the possibility of shelving the issue. They immediately entered a heated protest, holding it should be considered in open session.

Technical questions of customs uniformity and like topics were forgotten in the argument, principally between the Mexican delegation and the Chair, as to how the tariff question best could be presented.

Naval Inquiry Is Made In Officer's Auto Death

A naval board of inquiry, which was formed by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy, is investigating the death of Lieut. Comdr. Hamilton Harlow, who was killed in an auto accident near Annapolis, Monday. A verdict of accidental death will be returned, it is believed.

Funeral services for the officer, who was senior member of Capt. Russell Train's naval staff at the White House, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Arlington National Cemetery. Commander Harlow was the son of Commander Charles A. Harlow, U. S. N., retired, of San Francisco, and was prominent in Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh society.

Accident Increase Follows New Turn

September Crash and Car Death Totals Show Decline.

Traffic statistics issued yesterday at police headquarters for September showed a slight decrease in deaths and minor injuries in comparison with the previous month. Minor injuries resulting from automobile accidents from September 15 forward, when the new left turn regulation went into effect, showed an increase in comparison with the first half of the month.

Only two deaths were recorded in comparison with six for August. In September, 1930, there were four fatalities.

From the 1st of September to the 15th 119 minor injuries were tabulated, while from the 15th to the end of the month 163 were recorded.

During September 725 automobile accidents were recorded, while the total for the previous month was slightly lower.

Dugout, 130 Years Old, Given District Office

A dugout canoe believed more than 130 years old has been acquired by the office of public buildings and public parks. According to tradition, it was built by a Negro slave and used to make trips to Washington via the locks of George Washington's canal near Great Falls. The utility of this historic waterway ceased with construction of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal.

The ancient craft was presented by William T. Partridge, consulting architect of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, who said he secured it from a family in Romney, W. Va., which had it more than 130 years.

ATHLETICS DEFEAT CARDINALS, 3-0, TO DEADLOCK SERIES;

EARNSHAW'S HOPES OF NO-HIT GAME THWARTED BY MARTIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—Pepper Martin's career of base thievery in this world series is destined to end in his theft of Mickey Cochrane's glove, and mayhap his breast protector, if steps are not taken to curb the enthusiasm of the Cardinals' center fielder on the bases.

Nine stolen bases constitute the record for one team in a world series, and Martin has already made away with four in his own right by the very daring of his gallops and the native speed in his hoofs.

With the series four games old, Martin has demonstrated that the prerequisite of any base stealer is getting on base and he has achieved that distinction nine times in this series, all by medium of safe hits to the outfield. Not one of his safeties bears the taint of a scratch hit. All have been solid wallops, and it has been his ability to get on base that has set the stage for his bold gallops down the paths.

Grove's shut-out performance for eight innings in the first game, Hallahan's three-hit shut-out in the second game, Grimes' two-hit effort in the third and Earshaw's two-hit shut-out this afternoon ordinarily would give the series the aspect of a pitchers' series, but Martin would have it otherwise.

In the face of the plus-perfect pitching that has been going on for almost a week, Martin has stolen the thunder in this series with his work at the bat and on the bases. He has been the dominant hero of this autumn's interleague engagements—the answer to the fans prayers for real, old-fashioned baseball. And he has filled their cup to overflowing.

The bane of Mickey Cochrane ever since the series got under way, Martin is now operating under the handicap of the guardness of the entire Philadelphia infield. The Athletic's pitchers have shortened their wind-ups when he is on base. Cochrane has been set to head him off every pitch. Either Bishop or Williams has covered the bag for the expected throw on every occasion. And today, full in the face of this defense, Martin swiped second with a headfirst dive that beat Cochrane's throw by a yard.

The annual staging of the world series in Philadelphia for the past three seasons has had its effect on this sleepy city.

A la New York, Philadelphia fans take their time about filling Shibe Park for the world series. Ten minutes before game time today the empty seats numbered fully 10,000, and five minutes before play was called there were still thousands of unoccupied space. But at game time Shibe Park presented its capacity appearance.

Three years ago, when the Athletics won the pennant after a fifteen-year lapse, Shibe Park was at capacity a full hour before game time as Philadelphia fans showed their eagerness to gaze upon this strange spectacle. In Washington, too, in 1924 and 1925, the contending clubs took their pregame practice before virtually capacity crowds, who were watching world series games on native heath for the first or second time. But the recurrent staging of the annual games here has caused the populace to go New York to a marked degree. It was always a source of wonder, the apathy of Gotham crowds toward world series spectacles as game time neared, when Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds were half empty a few minutes before play was to be called. But they were all there when the game got under way.

Philadelphia is rivaling New York, too, in the nonpartisanship of its fans. Followers of the major sporting events agree that the Manhattan metropolis is quicker to cheer an invading host than the fans of any other city.

In this world series sentiment has swung toward the Cardinals on two notable occasions. Yesterday, when Burleigh Grimes appeared headed toward a no-hit performance, the groans drowned the cheers when Bing Miller slapped out the first hit off the Cardinal spit-baller in the eighth inning.

Today George Earnshaw also had a no-hit performance in his grasp for 4 1-3 innings. Then Pepper Martin larruped a single to left. In their adulation of Martin, the Philadelphia crowd forgot the performance of Earnshaw and cheered Martin's hit to a resounding echo despite the fact that he placed the potential tying run on base. This town is growing up.

anxious that the largest number of seats possible be available for sale to the public.

Secretaries Hurley and Adams both attended last year and probably will attend this year.

Rear Admiral William C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy, discussed the prospective game with West Point authorities here yesterday.

A request for a game this year was made by Lieut. Col. Edward Underwood of the Salvation Army, which sponsored last year's game.

The question of eligibility rules, which has prevented the two academies from playing scheduled games for four years will not enter into the arrangement.

Special to the Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 6.—The announcement of the Army-Navy game struck a particularly popular chord among gridders and the regiment of 2,000 midshipmen, and there is no doubt but that it extended to a majority of officer personnel, regardless of the fact that Navy has steadfastly claimed that Army should adopt the three-year eligibility clause. It is pointed out among other things that the interservice struggle has for several years been the most colorful and spectacular clashes of the gridiron, and serves as an incentive to middies and cadets, alike, in their early-season preparations.

Aside from the official announcement, none of the administration or athletic authorities of the naval school would make further comment.

Admiral Hart's formal statement reads:

"The superintendents of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., realizing the acute distress existing throughout the Nation as a result of unemployment and desiring to cooperate with the President's organization on unemployment relief, have agreed to play a postseason game of football for charity in New York City on December 12, 1931. The net proceeds of the game will be divided equally between the two academies and will be distributed by the respective superintendents to unemployment and relief funds."

That the prospect of the game will excite the keenest interest among the ancient rivals as past games have goes without saying, and from a football standpoint it should furnish a splendidd climax to the 1931 season, for Army has already demonstrated that it again has a powerful team, while Navy, working under the Notre Dame style of play, likewise has shown that it has a squad that should rise to great heights, at least by the time it is put to the supreme test.

K. O. VICTORY OF LEONARD BOOED

Silvers Is Waved to Corner After Getting on Feet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, once king of the lightweights, started the long, rough comeback trail tonight with a somewhat questionable knockout victory over the little-known Pal Silvers, of New York.

Fifteen thousand fans, all that could pack their way into the Queensboro Stadium, saw Silvers go down under a flurry of blows in the second round.

Referee Arthur Donovan tolled off the count and at ten Silvers got to his feet, but Donovan waved him to his corner and lifted Leonard's arm in token of victory as the crowd booed and cheered—mostly the former.

Leonard, with a roll of flesh about his waist, appeared to be only a shadow of the fighter who retired seven years ago as the undefeated lightweight titleholder.

He occasionally shot that once famous left to Silver's body in the first round, but it clearly was not the Leonard of old.

Two minutes of the second round had passed, the crowd was yelling for action, when Leonard let loose with a flurry of what appeared to be only feather blows and Silvers went to the mat. The timekeeper began the count but Silvers made no move to get to his feet until the count of nine.

The decision will go down in the records as a knockout for Leonard but the crowd was far from satisfied with the result and even Silvers was ready to carry on but Referee Donovan said "no." It was several minutes before the crowd was content to settle down and watch the eighth round smiwindup, which ended almost as quickly, Mateo Oss, of Spain, getting a technical knockout over Jim Darcy, of Milwaukee, when the referee stopped the fight after 52 seconds of fighting in the first round.

Leonard entered the ring weighing 152 pounds, 5 pounds less than Silvers.

Silvers landed the only real blow, connecting with a right to Leonard's nose in the opening minute of the first round. Thereafter it was just a slow, drab affair.

Jockey Fronk Rides Steer; Skull Fractured

Chicago, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Jockey Willie Fronk's determination to ride a wild steer as he watched a rodeo cost him a fractured skull tonight when the animal threw him on his head.

Fronk, a resident of Louisville and a nationally known turf figure, expressed a wish to ride one of the broncbos earlier in the evening but was dissuaded. Later he said he was determined to ride one of the wild steers. He was given boots, a hat and placed astride a steer. The animal ran out of a chute, took two leaps and tossed Fronk over its head.

St. Louis Attack Limited To Single and Double Off Bat of Series Sensation

Managers Silent on Mound Selections for Today.

Mack, Street Agree That George Hurled Brilliant Game.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Connie Mack was a happy man tonight. Halted en route to his private cubicle high in the tower of Shibe Park for his regular after-game siesta, the diamond patriarch wore an expansive smile. He laughed.

"You'll excuse me, gentlemen, if I say I had a great ball club out there today. There were two great clubs, but mine was a little the better this time.

"There's nothing much to talk about but pitching, is there? Earnshaw pitched a wonderful game. He's a pretty tough nut when he gets started. Only two hits off him, and both of them by that Pepper Martin. How are we going to stop that boy? I don't know whether Martin has just come into his own in time for this series, or merely is having a 'tea party' at our expense.

Foxx's Homer Duplicate of Ruth's Best.

"And wasn't that a great home run Jimmy Foxx hit? I have seen them go as far as that during the regular season, but it was the longest drive ever made by an Athletic in a world series. I doubt if any one but Babe Ruth ever hit one farther.

"All of our boys were hitting hard today, and that's all we needed. You know, when a player isn't connecting with the ball he lets it prey on his mind and it affects his entire play. We're over that now and you'll see a different ball club from here on."

In contrast to his rival's cheery mood, Manager Gabby Street, of the Cardinals, looked like he was carrying the weight of the world on his shoulders as he trailed his thoroughly beaten athletes into the dressing room.

"How are you going to win when you can't score?" There wasn't an answer for that one, so he went right on:

"You can't. My boys couldn't hit Earnshaw today and that was the whole story. All three of my pitchers—Johnson, Lindsey and Derringer—did well enough to suit me, but there weren't any runs behind them.

Earnshaw's Hurling Equal to Grimes, Says Street.

"Earnshaw pitched one of the finest games I ever saw. I wouldn't say it was any better than the one Burleigh Grimes pitched yesterday, but it was just as good. What a battle that would have been if they had hooked up!"

Asked what he thought about Pepper Martin, the Card pilot only could grope for the proper adjectives.

"He is a wonder, a marvel, one of the greatest young players the game ever saw. That's about all you can say about him. He's in there fighting every minute and is as cool as a veteran. All my men are playing good ball, as far as that's concerned. They didn't look so good at bat today, but that doesn't mean a thing. They'll be in there slugging the hide off that American League ball tomorrow.

"The edge we had after winning yesterday's game is wiped out, but we've still got as good a chance as they have. It's a series between two great ball teams, like I said all along, and nobody can say which will win."

As they dressed, mostly in gloomy silence, the Cardinals took turns sympathizing with Bruce Flowers, reserve third baseman, who was hit in the face by a batted ball in batting practice. Flowers' nose and mouth were badly swollen and it was doubtful he would get back in the series.

Neither manager would name a starting pitcher for tomorrow, but both expressed complete confidence in their mound staffs.

"I'm satisfied with my pitchers," said Mack, "and when I'm satisfied nobody else need worry. Your guess is as good as mine on who I'll pitch tomorrow."

Macks Emerge From Batting Slump in Fourth Game.

Pitching Performance of Grimes Matched by Earnshaw.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The big guns boomed again today. Big George Earnshaw cracked the whip lash of his fast ball. The Athletics won the fourth of the world series games, 3 to 0, and it's a deadlock, at two games each, in one of the most spectacular battles of all time for the baseball championship.

Earnshaw held the Cardinals to a pair of hits, both made by the irrepressible "Pepper" Martin, sensational rookie outfielder, and was invincible with a fireball that had most of the other Red Birds in a daze.

It was Martin who almost single-handed "stole" the second game of the series from Earnshaw with his spectacular base running but the big right-hander permitted no Cardinal foot to reach third base this afternoon as he bore down with blinding speed on the three occasions he was threatened.

Meanwhile the big sluggers of the "A's" emerged from their two-day coma to knock Sylvester Johnson out of the box in the sixth inning with an attack featured by Jimmy Foxx's terrific home run over the left field stands. The world champions collected ten hits off the combined offerings of Johnson and Jim Lindsey, twice as many as they gained off Hallahan and Grimes in two previous contests.

St. Louis Trip Assured.

They looked every inch the part of world champions in squaring the series, thereby making it certain that the warring forces will return to St. Louis to decide the issue after playing the fifth game here tomorrow.

There was no presidentiti atmosphere to add excitement to today's game, but another capacity crowd of 32,295 fans yelled itself hoarse as Earnshaw twirled the second two-hit game of the series. It was more effective, though perhaps not quite so thrilling and dramatic as Burleigh Grimes' two-hit victory of the day before, which was marred by Al Simmons' ninth-inning home run.

Coming on top of Bill Hallahan's three-hit shutout and Grimes' great performance, however, Earnshaw's feat added to one of the greatest exhibitions of pitching in world series history. It was a masterpiece of fast-ball effectiveness, control and confidence, comparable to the brilliant work the big former collegian exhibited against the Cardinals a year ago.

It's necessary to go back exactly 25 years to the 1906 series between the White Sox and Cubs, to find a parallel to the remarkable succession of twirling performances in this intersectional battle. That year two famous right-handers, Ed Walsh, of the Sox, and Mordecai (Three-fingered) Brown, of the Cubs, pitched two-hit games on successive days.

Pitching for Series Good.

Of the four games played so far only the first was below standard in mound work, with both Grove and Derringer hit hard. Hallahan, hero of the second game triumph of the Cards, will be back on the firing line tomorrow, opposed probably by George (Rube) Walberg, giant southpaw of the A's, who has yet to be seen in action.

As it turned out, one run was enough for Earnshaw today, but the

Breadon Laughs With Tears in His Eyes; Cards' Defeat Sends Series to St. Louis

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—And now, because the Athletics won the fourth game of the world series from the Cardinals this afternoon, the whole show will have to be loaded back into the cars and hauled out to St. Louis again for the show-down. The clubs are tied at two apiece, four games are needed to win the set and match, and the schedule provides that after Wednesday's game the thing is to be carried on to a decision in St. Louis if it takes all winter.

I would not doubt that both contending groups of magnates are very anxious to win and full of what the college cheer leaders call the old fight, fight, fight, but nevertheless today's defeat must have been a sweet sorrow to Mr. Sam Breadon, who owns the Cardinals. Mr. Breadon is not in the baseball business to win a college letter and, beginning with Wednesday's receipts the athletes on both sides will be counted out of the division, giving the proprietors a chance to make a little.

The magnates have often said that they needed at least five games to earn an honest dollar, and when the Cardinals lost today's game, 3 to 0, their employers were assured one more pot.

The railroads, the telegraph companies and the St. Louis hotel proprietors doubtless will be pleased by the outcome of the fourth game, for the world series seems to be one of th necessities of life and the traffic in all subsidiary departments has been well maintained this year.

George Earnshaw, the suburban society bloke, pitched a two-hit game to beat the Cardinals today and the only other person on the field for either side who filled the eye was Pepper Martin, the Cardinals' new outfielder, who made both hits and personally thwarted Earnshaw of a no-hit, no-run game. The two young men are much unlike. Mr. Earnshaw is collegiate. He is also neat and clean and somewhere, "way back in his ancestry" there was an Earnshaw who was quite a bit of a somebody in the socially refined set in Philadelphia. The socially refined set are great bookkeepers, and if a party can prove that he had an ancestor who was a somebody ten or twelve generations ago, that makes him a somebody, himself, ten or a dozen times removed.

Earnshaw has pitched two great games in this world series, and Martin has been his chief annoyance in both cases. Martin beat him in the second game of the program in St. Louis with his hitting and his dashing display on the bases, but today the Oklahoma teamster had no assistance from his side and the worst he could do to Earnshaw was to muss up a pitching record that might have been perfect and unique in world series history.

Like Burleigh Grimes of the Cardinals in Monday's game, Earnshaw didn't let a man reach first in the first three innings and put the first one there himself, with a base on balls to Frisch in the fourth. Frisch then stole second in one of his headlong slides and Earnshaw struck out Jim Bottomley to allay the mild menace of the situation.

Again in the fifth, when Martin had singled and stolen second, the society toff personally checked the challenge, this time striking out two men, Wilson and Gelbert. And for a third time, in the eighth, when a runner was on, the same being Martin again, Earnshaw fanned a hitter for the third out. He seemed always to have something held in reserve.

X-Ray Shows No Break In Grimes' Hurt Finger

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis Cardinals' spitball king, had the middle finger of his right hand X-rayed at a hospital today and learned to his satisfaction that it had been merely put out of joint during the game yesterday with the Athletics.

The joint was somewhat swollen and a trifle sore today, but Dr. John Hyland, the club physician, expects it to be in normal condition so that Grimes may play again later in the series.

Players' Pool Smallest in 9 Years; Nats Have $16,015.17 to Divide

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (A.P.).—The 1931 World Series player pool, derived from a major portion of the gate receipts of the first four games, amounts to $320,303.46. This is the smallest in nine years and nearly $100,000 below the record pool of $419,736.60, split by the Yankees, Cardinals and other first division clubs in 1928.

Of the total pool, 70 per cent, or $224,212.42 goes to the Athletics and Cardinals, divided on a basis of 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers. The winners' end amounts to $134,527.45 and losers' total $89,684.95.

The Cardinals have already decided to split their end into 30 full shares. If they capture the series, this will mean $4,484.24 per share. On the same basis a losing share would amount to $2,989.49.

The A's have not yet decided into how many shares they will split their end of the money.

Cut down to a basis of 25 shares, the winners' split would amount to $5,381.09 per share and the losers' $3,587.39.

The A's and Cards, therefore, in addition to the tussle for the title, will fight it out for a difference of somewhere between $1,500 and $1,800 per man.

The second, third and fourth place clubs in each league split an aggregate of $66,091.03. It will be apportioned as follows: $24,022.75 to each of the second place outfits, New York Giants and New York Yankees; $16,015.17 to each third place team, Chicago Cubs and Washington Senators; $8,007.58 to each fourth place club, Brooklyn Robins and Cleveland Indians.

Mackmen Triumph Over Martin; Pepper Needs Help to Win Series

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 6.—The world series being played this year between the Philadelphia Athletics and "Pepper" Martin, of Temple, Okla., resulted in a victory for the Athletics today, 3 to 0. "Pepper" was again a major disturbance at all times, but it is now apparent that he can't win the 1931 series without help.

Mr. Martin got two hits, one of them a two-bagger, set the fans on their ears with his base stealing, and was out there waiting to score at two opportune moments. But with Wilson and Gelbert at the bat he would have a better chance waiting for Old Mother Hubbard and "Ma" Ferguson to bring him in.

In the third Martin got a hit with one out, but Messrs. Wilson and Gelbert were as futile as a couple of Campfire girls at a longshoreman's riot.

In the eighth, "Pepper" led off with a blazing two-base hit and you would have thought this would have inspired those two teammates to give him a little cooperation, but it was just pathetic to watch them fail in the pinch.

Mr. Martin was out there on the bases often enough, but he looked as lonesome as a squirrel out on a raft. Of course, "Moose" Earnshaw was pretty hot in the pitcher's box all afternoon, as is shown by the fact that no other Cardinal got a hit. But it did seem that some of those visiting firemen, especially Jabez Bottomley, might have done something except stand there and swing like near-

MR. SPONGE SETS TRACK RECORD IN FEATURE AT LAUREL

Widener Ace Wins $5,600 In Sprint

Balko Second With Flagstone Third in Capital.

Garner Rides 7-to-1 Shot; Mouthpiece Takes Fourth.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 6.—Two of the greatest sprinters in the country met here today in the Capital Handicap, at 6 furlongs, and made some turf history, finishing one, two, and setting a new track record.

Joseph E. Widener's Mr. Sponge, took first honors, and the Sagamore Stable's Balko, the flashing black steed that has won many races, was second. The Linton Farm's Flagstone was third. Mr. Sponge and Balko carried 128 pounds; Flagstone, 97.

Balko Forces Fillies To Quit.

Balko, Bejshak up, was first away from the gate and carried his early competition, Con Amore and The Beasel, so fast that the two fillies quit. Mack Garner, the Widener contract jockey, who had ridden Mouthpiece to victory in the previous race, came upon the leaders, except Balko, at the head of the stretch, and his run through the stretch to overhaul and vanquish Balko, will not soon be forgotten by turf followers.

Reluctantly the black warrior yielded and Mr. Sponge rushed past him at the sixteenth pole to win by a length and a quarter. The winner paid $16.20. The value of the stake to the winner was $5,600.

A large crowd was out for a class of sport far surpassing that of the opening day.

The Greentree Stable scored in the sixth race with the filly Measure and she paid $10.10. She had no time to lose at the finish for Prince Pest, with a great rush on the outside, lacked only a nose getting up. Pari Mutuel was third. Allez Vite, the

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Laurel Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 6.—Laurel is without a feature race tomorrow, but the largest purse goes with the steeplechase, of $2,000 value, and ten jumpers have been named for the contest, which bids fair to be an even battle, for any of two or three of the leaders may get home first.

HUFFY is getting in form, and was second to Toreador II last week in New York. TAOS, a recent winner, may be dangerous, and is conceding weight to HUFFY. NAT CLYMAN, which is coupled with MAUREEN as the Rigan McKinney entry, also will have substantial backing. He has top weight of 149 pounds.

The rearranged steeplechase course here seems to keep the horses very busy, with four jumps covering the same space as two on the front field. This arrangement seems to slow up the horses on the home stretch.

FIRST RACE — HAGERSTOWN should win. He should have won Monday when Spring Steel piled up with the leaders, foremost of which was HAGERSTOWN, beaten by a nose. He should have an easier journey in this race. He gets away fast, and appears able to go a route, and this is 6 furlongs. TRICYCLE may be the contender, having turned in a fast workout Monday. BUSTED is a good workhorse and has a chance to get in the money.

THIRD RACE—PUTTER, which won his last race at Havre De Grace, can beat a better field than he whipped there, and should repeat. OUR SIS can go a route, and on her last race should be the contender. OVERLOOK and DR. RANKIN will have a battle for the short end of the purse.

FOURTH RACE — The Trainer Hirsch entry of BRIGHT KNOT and BARCELONA PETE should be best. BRIGHT KNOT'S last race was a good effort, and the form of BARCELONA PETE, while well concealed, in racing, is impressive in work. MAKING BUBBLES has promise and FLOOR WALKER also is about ready for brackets. This race should be the most interesting on the card.

FIFTH RACE—REPENTANCE is selected to win. This is a big undertaking, for the recent performances of BLACK MAJESTY, scratched on opening day for this engagement, and RIP VAN WINKLE, which ran a powerful race to be beaten by Her Grace at Havre de Grace, will have the major portions of the support in the mutuels. REPENTANCE worked very fast the other morning and has the best of the weights.

SIXTH RACE—JODPHUR is selected to beat BIG SPRING. The former is fit and the latter won at Havre de Grace. DADDY NELSON should hold his own with these, and at least be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE — STRONGHEART is ready and should win. He will have JORICO, a recent Havre winner, to beat. The mile and a quarter will suit STRONGHEART.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RABBIT SKIN, $3.70, $2.70, $2.30; BOSCOBEL, $3.20, $2.50; BIRD NEST, $2.80.

RABBIT SKIN, outpaced for the first half mile, finished resolutely through the final quarter mile and took command nearing the finish. BOSCOBEL, away quickly and showing good speed, was unable to keep the pace the home stretch and was wearing the two leaders down slowly. BIRD NEST, hurried into a forward position, saved a lot of ground entering the home stretch and was wearing the first two down slowly.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOUTHPIECE, $10.20, $3.30, $2.70; NEGOPOLI, $2.70, $2.20; NOSTAW, $3.00.

MOUTHPIECE assumed a slight lead when straightened into the back stretch, was rated along under mild restraint, saved ground and had to be urged stoutly approaching the finish to withstand NEGOPOLI. Latter lacked early speed and dropped far out of contention, settled in full stride and closed with a belated rush. NOSTAW, reserved early, moved up fast rounding the far turn and held on gamely. MINE SWEEPER crowded ALDERSHOT into the fence at the first turn, forced a good pace, but was not good enough when the real issue came. ALDERSHOT had little chance after suffering severe interference.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Capital Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 4:00½. Winner, J. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MR. SPONGE, $16.20, $6.20, $5.10; BALKO (Sagamore Stable entry), $5.40, $3.80; FLAGSTONE, $11.70.

MR. SPONGE, saving ground early while in near attendance of the leaders, secured racing room next the inner rail to reach the pacemakers and wore BALKO down in the final sixteenth mile. BALKO, away in motion, displayed high early speed, shook off CON AMORE, but could not stall off the winner. FLAGSTONE came through on the inside during the stretch run and outfinished CON AMORE. Latter, a keen factor from the start, lost ground entering the home stretch, but came again right at the end. FOLLOW ON could not improve his position. SURF BOARD was forced wide all the way. THE BEASEL tired after racing well up early. HELIANTHUS broke slow and was outrun.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEASURE, $10.10, $5.40, $3.40; PRINCE PEST, $20.10, $6.70; PARI MUTUEL, $3.20.

MEASURE, rated in a contending position, moved up stoutly to displace ALLEZ VITE when entering the home stretch, was placed to punishment inside the final furlong and just lasted to stall off PRINCE PEST. Latter, reserved early, moved up fast nearing the home stretch, was forced wide, but closed full of run and was wearing the winner down rapidly. PARI MUTUEL saved ground all the way, slipped up on the inside of the leaders when moving into the home stretch and continued gamely. ALLEZ VITE, steadied in front, weakened when challenged. CAPLIN had no excuses. BOUNDLESS DEEP lost ground at the first turn.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57. Winner, Mrs. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KADIAK, $8.90, $6.10, $4.00; LION HEARTED, $10.40, $4.60; MAKE BELIEVE, $3.80.

KADIAK, taken in hand for the first six furlongs, moved up stoutly when released from restraint, shook off FOURTH WARD and had enough left to stall off LION HEARTED. LION HEARTED went through a wide opening entering back stretch, worked his way to leaders and finished full of run. MAKE BELIEVE, kept well placed from start, closed with a rush. FOURTH WARD was made too much use of early and weakened.

G. W. in Easy Session Due to Extreme Heat

The extreme heat yesterday cut down the George Washington practice session considerably. Coach Pixlee and his aids had to forego a planned scrimmage and put the players through only dummy scrimmage and signal drill. Individual drill in fundamentals was handed out to the reserves.

Lee Carlin, Frank Coogler, Frank Blackistone and Bob Galloway, all of whom were on the casualty list, are recovering nicely from injuries which kept them idle last week-end. All should be in shape to participate in the Boston U. game Saturday if called upon.

NAVY, MARYLAND WELL-MATCHED FOR GRID GAME SATURDAY

Break Likely To Decide Issue

Both Teams Appear Stronger Than Last Year.

Kirn and Chalmers Promise a Keen Kicking Duel.

NAVY and Maryland appear well matched in every phase for their gridiron struggle to be staged in Griffith Stadium here at 2:30 o'clock Saturday. The teams will take the field on about a 50-50 basis as to poundage, there is an unusual amount of speed in the ranks of the two squads, and while Maryland's starting eleven may be a little more veteran than the Navy combination, the Midshipmen will fully make up for this, if not overbalance it, by its superior reserve power.

Navy, like Maryland, has much of its athletic material come to it with little or no experience, but where the Annapolis institution has the edge is in numbers, if not in quality. Navy has around 90 men on its football squad. Maryland has just about half that number.

Little Choice Between Teams.

However, as the elevens will take the field at Griffith Stadium here Saturday, there appears little to choose between them and it may be that the slightest break will decide the game. It was a spectacular dash in the first few minutes by Kirn that turned the trick for the Middies last year and just such a feat may tell the tale again.

Both teams should be better than when they met last year and a glance at the statistics shows that they could hardly have been more evenly matched. Navy gained 229 yards by rushing and 55 of that came on Kirn's dash to the lone score, while Maryland reeled off 198 on running plays. Navy got 52 yards by passing and Maryland 51.

Navy, with Browstrom, now an ensign and a member of the present coaching staff, doing the kicking, had a margin in punting that made Old Liners' task more difficult.

Neither team has a punter who could get the distance of the graduated tackle, but Kirn, for Navy, and Chalmers, for Maryland, who doubtless will get the booting job, both are consistent kickers who usually place the ball where it is hard to get hands upon.

Kirn Will Be on Field.

Against Maryland.

Kirn sat among the scribes as Navy hopped on William and Mary last Saturday, but he will be all right, and probably then some, when the Middies stack up with the Old Liners. Maybe Kirn was giving the newspaper boys a close up so that they would know who it was who did something worth writing about in Saturday's tilt.

It will be Kirn's last chance to play a Terrapin as he is a first-class man, commonly known in the colleges as a senior. Incidentally, Kirn is popular with the teams that play against him, as he has a personality that simply radiates sportsmanship.

Plenty of passing, deceptive and hard driving plays doubtless will mark the attack of both teams. Both have sturdy lines made up of rangy men and there is all the assets in both back fields that go to make up a keg of dynamite.

A record crowd for Washington seems assured and a sell-out of Griffith Stadium, that holds close to 36,000 fans, is predicted by some of those in the know.

Middies in Hard Grind For Maryland Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 6.—Head Coach Miller and his staff of assistants put the Tar gridmen through a stiff program today. Besides the usual preliminaries of kicking, passing, signals and formations, and individual instructions to this or that player on the faults that Saturday's game with William and Mary revealed, there was a hard scrimmage session against teams of the B squad and plebes, during which all of the regulars and first-call substitutes were given a chance to show their wares.

Feeling that the Old Liners, who will be met in Washington Saturday, far from displayed the form of which they are capable in the games with Washington College and University of Virginia on the two previous Saturdays, the mentors are bending every effort to further bolster the defense, as well as develop greater smoothness of attack, and, in short, have the team in the best possible shape for the coming struggle. Miller reiterated today that the make up of the regular team would be about the same as that which faced William and Mary with the exception that Kirn, the veteran back field ace, would display either Tschirgi or Konrad.

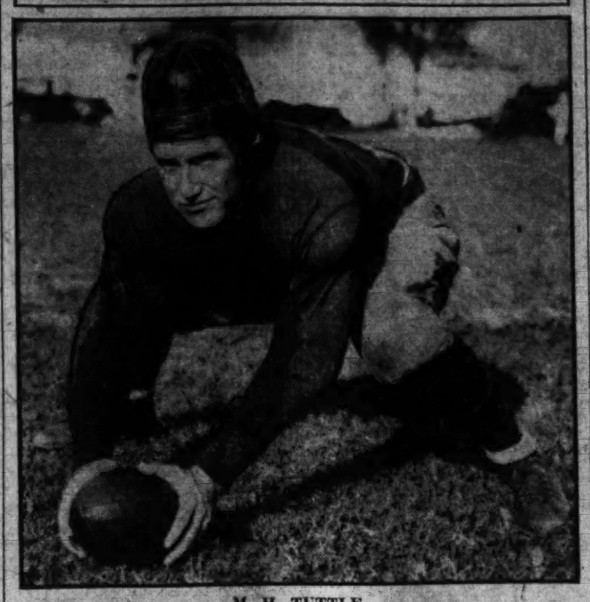
LEADS NAVY AGAINST MARYLAND



M. H. TUTTLE,

veteran center and captain of the Naval Academy eleven which appears in Washington for the first time since 1922 when it engages Maryland University in Griffith Stadium Saturday. Capt. Tuttle participated in Navy's 6-0 defeat of Maryland at Annapolis last year.

JOHN NALLY JOINS TOM AT C. U.

Stage "Brother Act" Against Gallaudet Friday.

BROTHERS and Washington boys, who formerly represented Eastern High School are to play side by side in Catholic University uniforms when the Cardinal eleven engages Gallaudet College Friday afternoon in Brookland Stadium, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Tom Nally, 210-pound sophomore regular, will continue at left tackle. Directly beside him, brother John, an end, will be making his first varsity start.

John Nally's Status Still Unsettled.

Although Tom, like John, is a sophomore, he experienced little difficulty in grabbing off a regular assignment this season. John, the smaller of the two, has been forced to buck hot competition, however, and as yet his status is unsettled.

Big Tom was accorded all-high recognition as a tackle at Eastern. John originally was a center. Impressed by the youngster's rangy make-up, Head Coach Arthur Bergman since has transferred him to the end position.

Unusual snap and energy was expended in a lengthy workout yesterday as Cardinal reserves and regulars teamed up in a scrimmage with Eddie LeFond's freshmen. Both factions flashed aggressiveness aplenty, neither giving ground throughout the mixing.

SHIKAT AND STEELE TO WRESTLE

Match Scheduled at Auditorium on October 16.

DICK SHIKAT and Ray Steele, two of the greatest wrestlers in the history of the mat game, will tangle at the Washington Auditorium October 16, it was announced last night by Matchmaker Joe Turner, who stated he guaranteed the two behemoths $6,000 to bring them together for one of their infrequent meetings.

It promises to be Washington's best wrestling match, and while it may not equal in drama the Londos-Dusek meetings of last summer, it will bring together two much more evenly matched men. Shikat, who held the N. B. A. championship for several months a year and a half ago, by virtue of beating Londos in the final round of an elimination, is generally regarded the best out-and-out wrestler in the game today. Steele, local fans agree, is rightful heir to Londos' crown.

Pair Met in Philly.

The two met last in Philadelphia, in the final round of an elimination to decide on a Londos challenger, and Steele won, but Shikat threw him easily a year ago. The Auditorium tussle will be their third meeting.

The rest of the card has not been made up, but Turner announced that it would be in keeping with the feature. It will be the season's first indoor show and the standard prices of $1, $2 and $3 will prevail. The Auditorium, fixed for wrestling, will seat 6,500 fans. Ladies, this time, will not be admitted free of charge.

Shikat will rate a crack at Londos if he trims the big Californian, a chance he has not been given since the Greek took the title from him a year ago last June.

APACHES' AIR ATTACK IS GROOMED

Murphy Is Master of Passing; to Face Irvington.

THE forward-passing game of the Apaches, which has been prominent in keeping the Little Indians at the top in local independent football circles, promises to be in evidence on Sunday when the District champions open the South Atlantic League season at Griffith Stadium against the Irvington team, of Baltimore.

The Apaches are without Joe Sweeney, who helped them beat the Mohawks with passes or George McCabe, who accomplished the same purpose, or Ty Rauber, who tossed the Apaches to many victories, but the Champions have in Gene Murphy, former C. U. star, a player who is a pastmaster of the art of heaving the leather.

Murphy, recently signed by the Apaches, has been fitting in well with the squad and it is likely that he will be Coach Farrell's choice for the quarter back job on Sunday.

The Apaches are facing a major test at the start of the season as the Irvington Club is reported to be the strongest combination in Baltimore.

Capital City Soccer League Closes Lists

The last date for the posting of registrations and franchise fees for the Capital City Soccer League has been set for next Tuesday night. Sunday two exhibition games will be played on the Monument Lot. Rosedale meets Columbia Heights at 1 o'clock and British United plays Concord at 2 o'clock.

Clarke Rolls 410 Set For Pale Dry Team

The Lucky Strike alleys resounded to some of the brightest bowling of the year last night when the National Pale Dry outfit rolled its way to a decisive victory over the Rinaldi Tailors, in the National Capital League. The game scores were 654 to 555, 603 to 591, and 585 to 552.

Astor Clarke turned in the smoothest set of the night, 129, 150, 131, for a total of just 410 pins, but for one period during the fray all eyes were on Ollie Pacini, of the losing team, who rolled 171 in his second game. A 90 and a 132 were his other scores.

Jolliffe, the ace of the Accounting entry in the Internal Revenue League, rolled 173, 141 and 122 last night for a 436 set, a record for the season to date.

Lannin Memorial Golf Field Led by Sarazen

Salisbury Plains, N. Y., Oct. 6 (A.P.)—With a par-breaking brand of golf, Gene Sarazen today led a field of many of the country's leading players over the first 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play in the J. J. Lannin memorial open.

Sarazen shot the outgoing nine in 35, one under par, and came home in 33, two under perfect figures, for an 18-hole total of 68 and a lead of one stroke. Three other professionals—Harry Cooper, Willie Klein and Mike Turnesa—were only one to the rear while Cyril Walker, of Harrison, N. J., trailed close behind with a 70.

Cody-Toothman Added To Fight Card at Fort

Jack Cody and Benny Toothman will mix it in the main preliminary for six rounds in support of the Sailor Billy Landers-Frankie De Angelo go next Monday night at Fort Washington. Three other four-round preliminaries also have been carded. They bring together Marino Marini vs. Willie Essinger; Frank Vance vs. Billy Messick and Doug Sweatman vs. Harry (Kid) Groves, of Baltimore.

The complete card lists 36 rounds of boxing for the entertainment of the customers.

Negotiations are under way to have Leo Houck as the third man in the ring when Billy Landers and De Angelo mix it. Houck is now training the Penn State Football Team, but it is thought he will be able to make the trip here for the bout.

CAPITAL CITY IN OPENERS SUNDAY

Teams in 3 Classes Battle for Titles, Post Prizes.

THE Washington Post Capital City Grid League drives its way into the headline this Sunday, with opening games scheduled in three divisions. Twenty teams will see service Sunday afternoon, in far-flung sections of the city and suburbs.

One of the many features of Sunday's welter of football is the inception of the first 135-pound league in the history of The Post's league. Two good games are on the books, featuring the Federals against the Apache Preps and the Northeast Trojans against St. Stephen's Preps.

The Centennials begin their long fight to retain their 150-pound city championship, with the Brookland Boys Club standing in line to get first crack at the titleholders. Coach Joe Kheun's boys are in good shape, and, unless the Brookland Boys Club has a couple of triple threat men up its sleeve, it looks like the Cents are going to take a decisive step toward retaining the giant silver trophy presented to it last year by The Post.

The Mercury A. C., unlimited champions, must tackle the Marions Sunday as their first of a long string of opponents. The Dixie Pigs, a tough newcomer, takes on Brookland, and is already being mentioned as the team the Mercs must beat to retain the championship.

With Sunday's battles looming on the grid horizon, the few remaining huskies who have not weighed in are due to jump on the scales today.

Sunday's schedule:

135-pound class—Federals vs. Apache Prep, at Anacostia No. 3, 3 o'clock, referee, Jeffries; St. Stephen's Prep vs. Northeast Trojans, at West Potomac No. 2, 1 o'clock, referee, Byrne.

150-pound class—Palace vs. Brentwood Hawks, at West Potomac No. 1, 3 o'clock, referee, Byrne; Columbia vs. Northern Preps, at Anacostia No. 3, at 3 o'clock, referee, Preston; Petworth Pennants vs. Stanton, at West Potomac No. 3, 1 o'clock, referee, Stevens; Brookland Boys Club vs. Centennials, at West Potomac No. 3, 3 o'clock, referee, Nevins.

Unlimited—Dixie Pigs vs. Brookland, at Seat Pleasant, 3 o'clock, referee, McDonough, and umpire, Cox; Fraters vs. Wolverines, at Baggett's Stadium, 3 o'clock, referee, Sweeney, and umpire, Coban; Mercury vs. Majors, at Gonzaga Field, 1 o'clock, referee, Crandall, and umpire, Mitchell; St. Stephen's vs. Seaman Gunners, at Gonzaga Field, 3 o'clock, referee, Mitchell, and umpire, Crandall.

Charity Game Prices Announced by Navy

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 6.—Having yielded to the request of Owen D. Young, of President Hoover's commission for the relief of unemployment, to charge admission to the four remaining football games to be played by Midshipmen on home grounds this year, Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy, today laid down the scale of prices that will apply.

Three dollars will be the top price for tickets and this will apply only to the Southern Methodist game to be played November 21. That will be the fee for seats in the side stands and end, the regular rate for end stand seats will be $2. Reduced rates of $2 and $1, respectively, also have been adopted. The reduced rate will apply only to tickets purchased by members of the Navy Athletic Association, who will be supplied with two tickets on that basis, and as many as desired at the full rate.

For the games with Delaware October 17, West Virginia Wesleyan October 31, and Wooster College November 28, the top price will be $1, and reduced rates of 50 cents, and the latter will be extended beyond members of the athletic association. In other words, the following may purchase tickets at the lower figure: Commissioned officers of the Army and Coast Guard, guests of midshipmen, Naval Academy enlisted personnel and civilian employes.

MR. SPONGE WINS IN LAUREL FEATURE

Glen Riddle Farm's Man o' War filly, set most of the pace and was the favorite, but the opposition was too strong and she tired in the stretch. The time for the race was 1:43, four-fifths behind the record for a mile and 70 yards.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's 2-year-old filly, Rabbit Skin, taking the lead at the sixteenth post, beat S. W. Labrot's Boscobel by a head in the first race for maiden 2-year-old fillies. The Greentree Stable's Bird Nest closed fast to be third. Luther laid off the early pace with the daughter of Bunting, and just got up in time. She was favorite, paying $3.70. The time for 5½ furlongs was 1:06 1-5. Eleven fillies started. Gloria Maris being withdrawn just before post time, too late to enter an eligible.

C. H. Trotter's Tantalizing proved much the best in the second race, leading all the way, to beat the favorite, Margaret Mc, by a length and a half, and paying $19.20 for $2. Al. Columbia was third and Bubola fourth.

Sapphire Sky was first away from the gate, but Marinelli took the lead with Tantalizing at the clubhouse turn, and was never headed. Margaret Mc was far out of it in the early running, but moved up third in the stretch and was ridden out to land the place money. E. Smith failed to display much skill in piloting the favorite. The winner was timed in 1:46 2-5, a mile and a sixteenth.

G. U. Gridmen Will Drill Against New York U. Plays

Hilltop Frosh to Emulate Violets in Session Today; Power vs. Deception in New York Saturday.

GEORGETOWN'S football hopefuls will obtain their initial glimpse of New York University tactics today when they engage the Hilltop freshmen who have been taught the Violets' plays by Scout Frank Kersjes. Head Coach Tommy Mills seeks to acquaint his men as much as possible with the New Yorker's style before Saturday's big clash in Yankee Stadium.

Power is the keynote of the New York offense, according to Kersjes, who watched the Violets run wild last Saturday against West Virginia Wesleyan. Kersjes reports that sheer strength makes the Violet plays click, and that deception is, by comparison, a minor weapon.

Deceptiveness Keynote of G. U. Attack.

Georgetown employs deceptiveness for all it is worth, much after the Notre Dame system under which Coach Mills and his assistants once worked. Sleight of hand tricks with the ball in the back field plus quickly shifting maneuvers before the ball-runner reaches the line of scrimmage are elemental in the Georgetown style of attack.

Scrimmages both today and tomorrow with the varsity drilling against the freshmen will constitute the hardest part of Georgetown's preparation for this game, the game which may establish the Hilltop's true merits in national ratings. New York University is recognized right now as one of the most formidable elevens in the East, so the Hilltoppers will assure themselves of considerable prestige if they emerge from the clash on top.

The line-up is still undetermined, Mills stated last night. Changes may be made in the back field as well as the forward line, he said. What these will be, however, he did not reveal.

Fred Callahan, 6-foot-4 sophomore center, and Charley Brickman, veteran right guard, who was injured last year, are making strong bids to break into the starting line-up. Callahan was conspicuous with all-around good playing in two appearances as substitute for Charley McManus in Georgetown's previous games. His height gives him an advantage over McManus insofar as defensive play against forward passes is concerned. Brickman, who ranked first as a guard last year before injuries forced him to the sidelines, is the most spirited player in the entire squad of 50. His fighting qualities add much to his effectiveness.

Leroy ("Ox") Bordeau and Wilmer Bradley are waging a keen battle for the assignment at full back. The former contributed noteworthy defensive efforts to Georgetown's two victories thus far, while his rival has been a standout performer on the offense, specializing in long runs.

Tickets for the Georgetown-New York University football game in New York Saturday, are available at the athletic office at the Hilltop. While the sale has been steady thus far many choice seats remain, it is reported. Railroad excursion tickets for the game also may be procured at Georgetown.

Hilltop's N. Y. Alumni To Honor Coach Mills

Rev. Timothy J. Dineen, S. J., new moderator of athletics; Head Coach Tommy Mills and other Georgetown University athletic celebrities will be honored Friday night in New York City at a smoker given by the Society of New York Alumni of Georgetown. The event is to be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania, headquarters of the Georgetown football squad during its stay in New York for the game with New York University.

Violets Work Overtime For Georgetown Clash

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 6.—Chick Meehan sent his big Violet eleven through a two-hour scrimmage against Columbia this afternoon in preparation for his first important struggle of the season against Georgetown here Saturday.

The New York U. mentor concentrated on his first line, giving the regulars a full hour workout before using any substitutions. Columbia started its second string line and proved poor competition for New York's huskies, who ripped through almost at will.

There was no scoring as the ball was brought back to center as soon as a man got loose, but New York U. would have had little trouble rolling up 40 points under the regulation rules.

Joe La Mark, Jack MacDonald, Bob and Bill McNamara and Jim Tanguay, Violet backs, kept up a series of puzzling plays that had Columbia on the run, and it was only after the Lion reinforcements arrived that the tide was stemmed.

Tanguay put in a bit of overtime on punting and drop kicking, while Nat Grossman and Bill Abee attended to the aerial attack with a fine assortment of passes. Tanguay's exhibition of punting establishes him as Meehan's best kicker, which is no mean compliment, with such booters as La Mark and the McNamaras on the squad.

The Violets expect a stiff battle from Georgetown and intend to get in some hard licks before the game. A brisk three-hour workout is on tap for tomorrow, and a scrimmage against Johnny Law's Manhattan College gridders on Thursday.

Gonzaga Eleven to Meet Business Gridmen Today

Stenogs Out to Avenge 1930 Defeat; Tech-Swavely and Eastern-Washington and Lee to Meet on Friday.

HIGH school football warms up for a busy week-end this afternoon at Gonzaga Field, when the Gonzagans meet Business High in a game which is a prelude to the more concentrated action of the coming Friday and Saturday. Gonzaga won last year 7-0, after a prolonged argument among the officials concerning the charge that the Purple had taken five downs.

With Western's scalp dangling from its sliding pads, Gonzaga was slated to go into today's game an odds-on favorite, but Ernie Viau, the young bull of a full back, was shifted to the sidelines yesterday to nurse a cut lip.

He may get in the battle before much of it has ticked away, but Keegan has been designated as his substitute. With Viau out the odds are about even.

Business Boasts Strong Forward Line.

Gonzaga could use a powerhouse in its back field today, for Lynn Woodworth's Stenogs boast of their best frontal wall in years. There's much poundage scattered among McKinley, the Fox boys, Harris and Sherman, kingpin linemen, but nothing in the way of ball toters has shown up in Business' back field.

High school football will lose one of its choicest delicacies of the year, if the powers at Tech shift their Swavely game to Manassas. It 's Tech's turn to take this schoolboy classic, since Hardell's crew visited the big prepmen last year, but the incomplete condition of the Tech field may cause the shift.

Tech won 14-7 last year, at Manassas, in the best high school game a local team participated in, scoring their points in the third quarter after the big Swavely squad had them in retreat.

Eastern has no slouch on its hands in Washington-Lee Friday at Eastern. The hyphenated Generals won 13-7 last year. Western should hold Alexandria even, at Alexandria, and St. Alban's is out to prove its 24-0 victory over Devitt last week was no flash in the pan, by taking on the Shenendoah Military Academy boys, there.

A. U. to Experiment In Game With Tigers

Pleased with the showing of his charges last Saturday against Lynchburg, Coach Walter Young plans little experimenting with his American University line-up before the clash with the Hampden-Sidney Tigers scheduled Saturday on the Virginians' gridiron. The only change likely to be made involves Harry Weekes, 225-pound junior, who may be shifted to guard from tackle, making way for Russ Lambert, 210-pound veteran, who played at the tackle post last year.

Hard scrimmages are due for the Eagles today and tomorrow. They will depart for Hampden-Sidney Friday afternoon. The Tigers, who use Notre Dame's system, are rated a little stronger than the local eleven.

MISS HACKER WINS GOLF TITLE

Leads Chevy Chase Women; Mrs. Haynes Cops.

THE women's club championship at the Chevy Chase Club, 36 holes medal play, was won yesterday by Miss Susan C. Hacker. Although a player at Chevy Chase for some years, Miss Hacker has never before been able to annex the championship title, although she has long been regarded as one of the steadiest of the women players in the club. Last year she tied for second place in the contest for the club title.

Miss Hacker played two consistently good rounds of golf, 85 and 86 for a total of 171. She led the field by three strokes, Mrs. Harrison Brand, the winner last year, finishing as runner-up with 88-86—174. Mrs. Hume Wrong, who also tied for runner-up last year, was third with 88-89—177. The other contestants were outdistanced.

Mrs. Haynes Wins Playoff From Mrs. Meckley.

In the District women's golf championship tournament, there was a tie for low medal in the qualification round between Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, who won the championship, and Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, each with 88. In the playoff on the course of the Chevy Chase Club yesterday, Mrs. Haynes was the winner with a card of 89 against Mrs. Meckley's 93. Although she won by four strokes Mrs. Haynes had five 6s on her card, while Mrs. Meckley, who conducted an involuntary exploration into several ditches around the course, had four 7s. The cards:

Out—
Mrs. Haynes	5	6	6	4	45
Mrs. Meckley	5	6	4	5	48
In—
Mrs. Haynes	3	5	6	6	44—89
Mrs. Meckley	4	7	5	5	45—93

The club championship tournament of the Columbia Club will begin today with 240 entrants. Qualification rounds of eighteen holes will be played today and tomorrow and match play will begin Friday morning, with six divisions, classified according to handicaps, qualifying, sixteen in each division.

Dinner to Follow Tourney Saturday Night.

At the conclusion of the tournament Saturday night there will be a club dinner, with more than 150 members already registered. The entertainment program will be contributed by members of the club.

Training School Host To C. U. Frosh Friday

National Training School's sensational eleven, which only recently registered a complete upset over Eastern High School, will endeavor to follow up on even stouter opposition Friday. On the home field at 2:30 o'clock, Catholic University's husky freshmen are to be entertained.

Training school last season forged into the spotlight by thoroughly extending Eddie LaFond's sensational yearlings. An effort to even outdo that performance will be essayed Friday.

Prominent in the starting line-up that engages National Training will be Eugene Augusterfer, former St. John's High School ace, who is to call signals for the "Little Cardinals."

WHITE SOX TROUNCE CUBS, 7-2, TO WIN CHICAGO CITY TITLE

Six-Run Rally In Sixth Is Decisive

Victory First Series Won by Chisox Since 1926.

Thomas Holds Cubs to Four Scattered Safeties.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 6 (A.P.).—Donie Bush's White Sox, cellar dwellers of the 1931 American League race, are the baseball champions of Chicago. Salvaging their only hope of one of the most disappointing campaigns in years, the Bushmen won the city championship today by crushing the Cubs by 7 to 2 in the seventh and final game of their annual battle. It was their first victory in the series since 1926.

The White Sox artillery boomed loudly in the big sixth inning when six runs were scored, but the big right hand of Al Thomas was the spark that sent Donie's boys on to victory. Thomas held the third place occupants of the National League to four hits.

The noisy sixth inning was started by Lou Fonseca with a double to left. Blue singled. Reynolds scored both with a single. Some comical Cub playing then sent the rally on its big way. Grube sacrificed. Grimm made a futile attempt to catch Reynolds at second and both runners were safe. Kerr beat out a bunt, loading the bases.

Fonseca's Second Hit of Round Scores 6th Run.

Thomas flied to Cuyler, scoring Reynolds after the catch, but Hemsley hurled the return throw into left field and Grube scored easily with the fourth run. Cissell singled, scoring Kerr with the fifth. May relieved Smith on the mound for the Cubs at this juncture, but escaped only after another run. Cissell coming in on Fonseca's second hit of the inning.

The Cubs got their first run in the first inning when Cuyler dropped a double to right and scored on Bell's double. Grimm's triple and Hemsley's long fly accounted for the second run in the ninth.

Today's victory was the eleventh in eighteen series for the White Sox. The Cubs have won six, while one was tied.

A'S DEFEAT MARTIN IN FOURTH GAME

sighted golfers playing midnight golf with a rubber niblick.

The only satisfaction the Cardinals have tonight is that they won't see Earnshaw again on Wednesday.

Behind Earnshaw the Athletics looked as superior to the Cardinals as Twenty Grand looks to Mickey Mouse.

They began the fireworks in the first chukker when Bishop, the first man up, got a hit and scored on Simmons' two bagger. It was any man's game up to the sixth, with the Mackmen always seeming to have a little more fire.

But in the sixth the old ball game was put in the bag when, with two men out, the home town boys started a Glasgow riot. Jimmy The Foxx, put a home run clear out of the park and this so fired his partners in crime that they began knocking Sylvester Johnson right out of there, scoring two more runs.

Sylvester was presently taken out. Mr. Lindsay succeeded him and later Mr. Derringer. Derringer had just come from a hospital, but he looked fresher than the boys who hadn't.

Some day a pinch-hitter is going to make good in a world series. It will be quite a sensation. Again today the Cards used one, a Mr. Collins, with "Pepper" Martin on second, but all he could do was take three terrific swings and go back to the dugout singing "the curse of an aching heart."

The war now begins over again from scratch. They start the argument anew tomorrow. And unless those Cards get into a huddle and decide to give Pepper Martin proper interference when he starts hitting the line, you can lay anything you like that Connie Mack will win his third world series between now and the week-end.

Earnshaw's Pitching Evens Series as Cards Bow, 3-0

given Earnshaw the one run to work on which would have been sufficient.

But the crowning blow of the day was delivered by Jimmy Foxx, he of the apple cheeks and the mighty swing, who increased Earnshaw's working margin with a rollicking home run in the sixth inning, a veritable Ruthian wallop, that climbed high into the stratosphere and descended on the side of the left-field grandstand roof, the while Foxx strutted around the bases amid a tumultuous roar from the tiers of fans.

It was in this sixth inning that the Athletics scored their third run of the game and completed the rout of Sylvester Johnson, who had checked them after the opening outburst in the first. Jim Lindsay, relief star of Street's pitching corps, took up the pitching burden and in the eighth Paul Derringer, victim of the first game of this series, found his way into the battle as a second relief man.

The Philadelphia bat pile started erupting in the first inning against Johnson when Max Bishop opened his team's attack with a smart single to center field. Here Connie Mack stole Street's thunder by calling on Haas to execute a sacrifice bunt, which he did, advancing Bishop to second. Mickey Cochrane could not help the cause with a roller to Bottomley, but Al Simmons responded nobly with a terrific wallop to the left center wall that went as a double and brought Bishop home. Fox later walked, but Johnson quelled the uprising when Miller fouled to Wilson.

Earnshaw Protects Lead.

Earnshaw, propelling his fast ball plateward with the speed of a rocket, protected his one-run lead masterfully. Only one Cardinal reached base for four and a third innings. He faced Pepper Martin in the second and struck him out on a fast ball for the delectation of the fans who came again today to gaze upon this new demon of the diamond. But it was Earnshaw who earned their applause.

But the fifth told a different story. Here, with one out, Martin faced Earnshaw again and Martin won. He rapped a sizzling single into left field to put the tying run on base and the fans were on the edge of their seats to witness the expected steal. Wilson was at bat and Earnshaw threw two strikes by him so rapidly that Martin made no attempt to advance. He struck Wilson out, bringing Gelbert up. Here Martin set sail for second with Earnshaw's pitch. Cochrane's throw was perfect, but Martin reached the bag first in a swirl of dust. It was his fourth stolen base of the series. But Earnshaw terminated the threat by sending the third strike past Gelbert, of that was called.

Frankie Frisch, until this point, had been the only other Cardinal to see base life. He drew a walk with two out in the fourth, and took a long lead on Earnshaw's delivery in a steal of second, which he reached in safety on a headlong dive. But here again Earnshaw rose to the occasion by striking out Bottomley, one of his pet victims today.

Frisch Draws Walk and Steals Second.

But the Cardinals were not through. They had wiped out three-run leads all season in the National League. Martin put in an appearance at the plate to open the eighth. His contribution was the second hit off Earnshaw all day, a screaming wallop to the wall in left that placed him on second, for which Cochrane could rest more easily.

Here Earnshaw faced his most trying situation, but the outcome was the same. Wilson went out on a short fly to Miller, and he forced Gelbert to foul to Cochrane against the screen. Then he sealed his victory by scoring his seventh strike-out of the game against Pinch Hitter Jim Collins.

The tin amplifiers in center field blared out the "Star-Spangled Banner" to interrupt the conference of captains and umpires at the plate and patriotism proved a great leveler, for standing, too, with heads bared were the 2,000 poachers on the Twentieth street roofs, non grata as far as the Shibes were concerned, but still among those counted as present.

In their respective bull pens George Earnshaw had warmed up for the Athletics and Sylvester Johnson, also a right hander, for the Cardinals. Connie Mack was hewing to his orthodox pitching program, but Gabby Street turned from Hallahan, who opposed Earnshaw in the second game at St. Louis, allowing only three hits, in favor of the talented Johnson.

The left-handed hitting George Watkins replaced Roettger in right field for the Cardinals, and Jake Flowers was on third base instead of the limping Sparky Adams. Flowers was hit full in the face by a ball during infield practice and lay prone on the ground as mates worked over him for 10 minutes, but he bravely took his place in the line-up.

Earnshaw breezed through the first inning as Flowers and Frisch flied to the outfield, sandwiching Watkins' pop, which Earnshaw, himself, gathered in, but the Athletics' artillery wheeled into action against Johnson with no delay.

Bishop Makes Single.

Max Bishop made his second hit of the series, a line single to center, and, after one foul effort, Haas sent him to second with a sacrifice bunt to Flowers. Jim Bottomley took Cochrane's bounder and beat him to the bag as Bishop raced to third, but Al Simmons brought a mighty roar as he crashed a double off the center field wall, scoring Bishop. The A.'s appeared to be in the midst of a sustained rally when Johnson walked Foxx, but Bing Miller sent a high foul to Wilson to terminate the threat.

Earnshaw mowed down the concentrated strength in the Cards' batting order in the second. Bottomley continued his weakness at the plate with a high pop foul to Foxx and Hafey swung at two before grounding to Dykes. The throng greeted Martin vociferously as the hero of the series strode to the plate, but after two sharp fouls to left field he went down swinging at a third strike, his first strike-out of the series.

The A's second found Johnson in trouble again, but he escaped unscathed despite the fact that Dykes opened the inning with a single to the favorite center-field territory. There was no sacrifice bunt forthcoming this time and Williams struck out. Earnshaw drove a pitch back at Johnson, who knocked it down in self-defense and threw out the rival pitcher at first while Bishop romped to second. Here the irrepressible Martin stepped into the picture with a nick-of-time catch of Bishop's hoist to center to deliver Johnson from jeopardy.

The lower end of the Cards' batting order was so much chaff to Earnshaw in the third. He disposed of Wilson on a foul to Simmons, forced Gelbert to ground to Foxx and then struck out Johnson to send St. Louis down in order for the third time.

Once more the Athletics opened their half of the inning with a hit—a sharp single to right by Haas, but Johnson's infield rescued him. Frankie Frisch started a double play on Cochrane's grounder and Gelbert's throw beat Cochrane to first, but Bottomley juggled the toss as the runner crossed the bag and the catcher was safe. The situation appeared ominous with Simmons next up, but the play that failed succeeded a moment later when Frisch smothered Simmons' hard smash and tossed to Gelbert, who relayed the ball to Bottomley for the double out.

Earnshaw's orderly disposal of the Cards was interrupted in the fourth after two were out. High, who had replaced the injured Flowers after the first inning, was tossed out by Earnshaw on a smash into the box and Watkins lifted an easy hoist to Miller. But Frisch worked Earnshaw for a pass with the 3 and 2 count to become the first Cardinal to see base life. He tempted Cochrane's arm by stealing on the first pitch but the excellent throw was too late. Bottomly was in a position to drive home the tying run but was made to look ludicrous as a third strike drooped over the plate as he swung.

For the first time today, the Macks went out in one-two-three order, in the fourth. Gelbert made a neat pick-up to toss Foxx out and then went back on the grass for Miller's pop. Jimmy Dykes entertained the stands with six high fouls before he grounded to Adams, who came in fast to take the ball and toss to Bottomly.

Martin Comes Through.

None other than the irrepressible Martin was the first to solve Earnshaw's delivery for a safe hit. After Hafey had sent a hot grounder to Williams and was thrown out, Martin worked Earnshaw to a three and two count before rifling a single past Williams into left field. Mickey Cochrane was on tenterhooks as Martin pranced on first base but Earnshaw quickly threw two strikes past Wilson and then struck him out. The burden was now on Gelbert and with the count on the batter two and one, Martin set sail for second base, arriving there in a cloud of dust on a headlong plunge ahead of Cochrane's low throw as the crowd applauded long and loudly. But to no avail, for Earnshaw curved a slow ball over the plate for the third strike on Gelbert, his second strikeout of the inning.

Their fifth carried a mild Athletic threat when Bishop got a single on a ball that took a bad hop into Bottomley's chest after two were out. Williams had fanned for the second time and Earnshaw popped to Gelbert, who terminated the threat by converting Haas' grasser into a force play at second.

Earnshaw disposed of the Cards with consummate ease in the sixth. He threw a third strike past Johnson, tossed out High on a slow grounder in front of the box and then forced Watkins to lift weakly to Simmons in left center, where Mack had deployed him with uncanny strategy.

Martin set out to make the A's half of the inning a one-man act, as he gathered in hard-hit liners by Cochrane and Simmons. And then the Philadelphia bat pile started erupting. There was one strike on Jimmy Foxx when he intercepted the second pitch, which was last seen winging far over the left field roof in the direction of Jenkintown. A titanic sock that was ticketed for a home run as it left the bat.

Miller Doubles To Right.

Earnshaw had no difficulty protecting his three-run lead in the seventh. Frisch, one of the hitless brigade, attempted a swinging bunt that the pitcher collared on the first bounce and Bottomley fanned for the second time to make the second out. Hafey could only lift a weak fly to Miller.

Like Johnson, Lindsay encountered trouble after two were out in the seventh. Bishop filed to Watkins and he fanned Haas. Cochrane coaxed a walk and Al Simmons singled to center, taking second on the throw from Martin which Cochrane beat on a dashing slide into third. But Foxx could only hoist to Martin.

The stands gasped in the eighth when Martin led off with a vicious double to the wall in left, his second hit of the game and the second hit off Earnshaw. Wilson could not help him along, flying to Miller, and Cochrane relieved the tension by going back to the screen for Gelbert's foul. Jim Collins, first baseman, made his first appearance in the series as a pinch hitter for Lindsay and quickly was victimized by Earnshaw on three straight strikes.

The A's faced Paul Derringer in the eighth. The victim of their triumph in the first game of the series bore a huge plaster over his nose which underwent a minor operation only yesterday. He fanned Miller and then tossed out Dykes. Williams flied to Watkins.

Al Simmons cheated Andy High of the Cards' third hit off Earnshaw when he romped far in for his Texas Leaguer to open the ninth. Watkins' contribution was a fly to Miller and the Athletics won the ball game when Simmons caught Frisch's liner without stirring from his tracks.

NO-HIT HOPE BLASTED BY MARTIN

A's big guns made it more convincing by staging one of their rare hitting drives in the sixth to chase Johnson from the mound.

That first and deciding run was produced in the first inning when Al Simmons hit the left field wall with a rousing two bagger that scored Max Bishop, who had singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Mule Haas.

Johnson, a side-arm right-hander starting his first world series contest, steadied and was highly effective for the next four innings. He retired the first two dangerous men, Cochrane and Simmons, in the sixth before the lid was blown off by Foxx.

The Giant first baseman of the A's rammed a high hard one out of the park, clearing the left field double-decked stands by many feet with what Connie Mack described as the "longest hit I have ever seen in the world series."

Miller Slams Double.

Bing Miller walloped a double against the scoreboard, romped home with the third run on a single to left by Jimmy Dykes. The light-hitting Dib Williams, kid shortstop, also singled and this was the signal to derrick Johnson. Jim Lindsey, big right-hander, stopped the rally by fanning Earnshaw. He pitched one more inning without much damage, but was removed for a pinch hitter and Young Paul Derringer, victim of the Athletics in the first game, retired the side in order in the eighth.

In six of the nine innings Earnshaw retired the side in order. His control, his curve and his "high hard one" had all but Martin fooled. Even Pepper was victimized once, striking out in his first turn at bat in the second inning. Altogether Earnshaw fanned eight Cardinals, including Jim Bottomly twice.

The players now have completed their participation in the big money pool, which is limited to the first four games. The contending clubs, as well as other first division outfits in the two leagues, will "cut" slightly more thatn $320,000.

THE "sea that has no shore," pictured yesterday, is the Sargasso, a vast region between the West Indies and the Azores. Because of its supposedly large quantities of seaweed the Sargasso became famous as a graveyard for ships. Recent investigations have disproved the many legends of "ships being caught in the sea of grass," for the seaweed is found only in small quantities.

• • • •

Chang Woo Gow, the giant Chinaman, was eight feet tall, and could write his name on a ceiling over ten feet from the floor. Yet as big as he was, Chang had a sister, Chen-Yow-Tzu, ten inches taller than himself! Had she lived she would no doubt have become much taller, for she died while still in her teens. Strangely enough, the parents of these two were not exceptionally large. Chang was born in the city of Fychow, and visited England in 1866, exhibiting with a dwarf named Chung.

How snakes detected sound was a long puzzle to scientists. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park, has found that it is the reptile's tongue that is sensitive to sound vibrations. He also states that the tongue serves to trace scents over the ground by taste. However due to the fact that snakes eat so seldom (some of them go for years without food) and swallow all their food whole, the sense of taste in the tongue probably is poorly developed.

CARDS' LOSS BIG HELP TO OWNERS

Assures Magnates of Extra Pot in Title Series Pool.

for, when he bore down in the slight emergencies that beset him, he solved his own troubles personally.

Martin's Slide Imitation of Frisch's Dive.

Martin's slide when he stole second in the fifth was an imitation of Frisch's sprawling dive through the dust, but it must be admitted that now even Frisch has ever comeup out of the soil as dirty as Martin when he emerged from the cloud under Bishop's feet. His bare, sweaty arms were powdered black, his face was grimy, his uniform looked as though he had been rolling in a coal pocket and when he shook his head, clods of soil fell out of his hair.

But though he twice reached second by his own efforts, five hitters who followed him couldn't offer as much as a long fly to promote him and he never got as far as third. Neither did any one else.

The Athletics began to operate on Sylvester Johnson in the first inning when Bishop singled and came in on Al Simmons' double, but there was still some chance of a change in the way of things until Johnson flopped in the sixth. There, with two men out, Jimmy Foxx got his first home run of the series, Miller doubled and the next two hitters singled before Gabby Street sent Lindsey in to stop these liberties. Two more runs were in by now and the Cardinals needed four to win over a man who was good enough to hold them to one more hit after that.

Mack's Score Card Right Every Time But One.

Old Mr. Mack's score-card was performing the customary hocus-pocus down in the dug-out, drawing the outfielders two steps in, a half step to the left or right, a jog to the rear as though he knew precisely where every hitter was going to pop the ball on the next pitch. Old Mr. Mack's solemn, careful placing of his outfield men is the subject of some derision among the more natural, free-style ball players and patrons, but he takes the responsibility and today he had an employe stationed under every fly-ball but one. That was Martin's double. His single was not a fly.

The crowd again filled the park and jammed the windows and roofs of the little brick flats across the street from the right field wall, but there were no showy festivities to ornament the show and but for the presence of the fourth umpire the game might have been a routine transaction between the Athletics and the Yanks in June.

It was a hot p. m., and 32,000 people came and sat and watched a good show for their money and went away.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

SPOILED CHILDREN.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am a mother of two children, a girl 21, and a boy, 19. I was left a widow eighteen years ago with these two children. I remained a widow nine years and earned a living by sewing and taking in boarders for the three of us. I was left an orphan myself at the age of 7 and was deprived of many things in life, especially the chance to become a nurse.

Well, I made up my mind, if possible, to give my children what I missed, mainly two things, an education and a start in life, to the best of my ability. Well, my daughter met a boy while in high school. Try as I would, I could not persuade her to go to a normal school to become a teacher. So as soon as she graduated she was married. Now she has a dear little baby, 18 months old, and, very unfortunately, I must support them both, or rather my husband, who has been very good to both her and her baby. The boy she married simply walked off. Well, now about my boy. He was a freshman in high school, when I was able to send him to a trade school, which was a wonderful place for him. He was there two years and had started his junior year when he quit and walked off and came home last October. Miss McDonald, I was helpless in bed at the time with sciatic neuritis, and he told me that if I forced him back he would run off and I would never hear from him. Within the last week he found a little employment and, because I ask him for a little help, he has been very much peeved, even telling me that he didn't ask me to bring him into the world, and that I have a right to support him, and called me crany, and is constantly nagging at me because I didn't start him a savings account when he was small so he would have something now. God knows, Miss McDonald, I have given him, or, rather, both of them, something money can never buy, a mother's love and devotion," but neither one appreciates it. Really, I keep Anne's baby and let her go out at times because she is young and I pity her. I try so hard to please them and give them a good home, but it is beginning to get the best of me. My mind doesn't seem to be my own at times. Now I read your column every night and you surely do give such good advice and encouragement. Now will you kindly tell me should I keep on working and worrying my life away on them, or is it best to try and live a few years for myself? I am in the early forties and it seems a shame for a mother to be so little appreciated. My friends tell me I am foolish, but, oh, how I do love those kids and I was so proud of them. Can you help me? "MOTHER."

Take a lesson from the mother birds. They push the young out of the nest as soon as they are old enough to fly. No more coddling. Do the same. Tell this impudent young man you have raised that you expect him to pay his own way from now on. And mean it. Give him no money. And engage in no arguments with him. Evidently he has neither pride nor manhood, and in your place I would consult the probation department concerning him. That does not involve arrest or anything of that sort but places the boy in the hands of those who know how to handle such cases. It will bring him to his senses and instill into him a new respect for you. As long as he works this will not be necessary, but if he begins to spend his days in idleness, take action and save him from the next step, which is bad company. The probation department will do that and will put a little fear of the law into him. You have done more than the average woman would have been able to do. The boy would have been better off if he had been forced to earn his way at 14, as thousands of others have.

Stop coddling. Stop taking abuse. Stop supporting an impudent cub who should be a comfort instead of a sorrow. Your duty is done. So stop worrying.

Basis of Capital Trade Described

Business Body Hears Talk on Retail Expenditures by Journalist.

Reasons why Washington is more immune from the effects of business decline than other cities were discussed by Frederick William Wile, capital newspaperman, before the membership committee of the Washington Board of Trade at a luncheon yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

The per capita sales here average $682 a year, Mr. Wile pointed out, a good margin over those of next highest cities of the country, Chicago with $638 and Philadelphia, $575. Sales per retail store have also attained a higher average, the speaker showed, Washington's being $56,088, Chicago's, $49,373 and Philadelphia's, $32,831.

Washington is protected from depression, Mr. Wile pointed out, by the Government pay roll, eleven colleges, 99 scientific societies and 56 embassies and legations. Classified civil service workers numbering 47,374 receive a total of $98,435,119 a year or an average of $2,078 each, while 535 members of Congress receive $5,350,000, exclusive of the salaries of their secretaries and other employes, he observed.

Trade Body Plans Grand Jury Study

Law Committee Session Tomorrow Will Open Betterment Move.

Improved methods of organizing District grand juries are expected to be recommended by the law committee of the Washington Board of Trade as result of a study of existing methods to be instituted this week.

Joseph A. Burkart, chairman, has called an opening meeting for the study tomorrow. Mr. Burkart said his committee has decided to seek better means of forming grand juries because of many loopholes in the present system.

One of these weak spots was demonstrated, Mr. Burkart pointed out, by recent collapse of the grand jury investigating alleged third degree tactics in the Police Department after one of the members was found to be recipient of a Government pension, which made him ineligible. The law committee of the trade organization has 133 members. Paul E. Lesh is vice chairman, Raymond B. Keech, people's counsel before the Public Utilities Commission, is secretary, and Beverly M. Coleman is treasurer.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS
Special Readings $1
This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife, or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.
Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay. Copyright, Apr., 1931.

GANDHI HELD MINOR TO CHRIST FOR INDIA IN METHODIST TALK

Bishop McDowell Speaks at Meeting of Baltimore Mission Group.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS OF BRANCHES IS TODAY

Committee Reports Mark Sixtieth Session, Held at Foundry Church.

Mahatma Gandhi will never bring about the redemption of India, Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, last night told the sixtieth annual meeting of the Baltimore branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, in the Foundry M. E. Church.

"For India, Mr. Gandhi is of secondary importance," said Bishop McDowell, who declared he has much admiration for Gandhi, "whom it is the popular fashion to admire."

"I do not see any chance of the personal spiritual redemption of India in Mr. Gandhi. He is of secondary rather than primary importance. Jesus Christ is of primary importance to India."

Holds New Motive Needed.

Quoting from Wesley that Methodism must have a fresh impulse within 150 years in order to continue a vital force, Bishop McDowell discussed motives for various movements. He said the most important quality of a motive "is just plain size."

"It is a desperate thing when a motive is exhausted," he said. "A man should never catch up with his horizon."

Prayer last night was by the Rev. James S. Montgomery.

Earlier yesterday memorial services were held at the church for members who have died in the last few years. Services were led by Mrs. David W. Lum. Morning worship was conducted by the Rev. Benjamin W. Meeks, superintendent of the Washington district. The Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Church, delivered a sermon and conducted a quiet hour at noon.

Business Session Is Today.

The following made reports: Miss Della Sherman, field secretary; Mrs. Hamilton A. Hooper, mite boxes; Miss Lenore Wagner, extension; Mrs. Elsie Clark Krug, library service; Mrs. James S. Johnson, interdenominational; Mrs. Samuel Alexander Hill, periodicals; Mrs. Fannie D. Tyler, colored conferences; Mrs. Foster B. Davis, young people; Mrs. Nellie Gulick Schuh, juniors; Mrs. Evert L. Harvey, candidates; Mrs. Finley M. Taylor, hospital supplies; Mrs. Don S. Colt, gifts, bequests, annuities; Miss Lulie P. Hooper, publications; Miss Gertrude Nickerson, headquarters; Mrs. Charles H. Evans, Easter thank offering; Mrs. Walter B. Kerr, student.

Principal business session will be held today. Branch officers and delegates to the general executive committee will be elected this morning and officers elected at a meeting of the executive committee in Baltimor last month will be installed this afternoon.

Citizenship Studied By 30 Nationalities

Enrollment 165 in School of Americanization at Webster Building.

Thirty different nationalities of men and women of foreign birth in Washington who have not been naturalized are taking advantage of courses offered at the Americanization evening school at the Webster Building, Tenth and H streets northwest, Miss Maude E. Aiton, principal, announced yesterday.

Enrollment so far is 165. Miss Aiton says this is low for the opening of the school, but expects it to be increased considerably when word spreads among foreigners in the District of the existence of the school.

Courses are offered in reading and writing of English for beginners, intermediate and advanced pupils. The school includes classes in civics and government. It is in close cooperation with the Naturalization Bureau. Of 366 men and women naturalized in the District Supreme Court last year, 336 attended the school.

Former Aid to District Asks $50,000 for Fall

Alleging that he fell into an unguarded hole at Seventh and Monroe streets northeast last May 15, and sustained serious injuries, Daniel A. Kohr, 1906 Jackson street northeast, yesterday filed a suit in the District Supreme Court for $50,000.

John B. Rubino, a contractor, of 2020 Rhode Island avenue northeast, and the District Government, were named as defendants. The charge is that an excavation for a sewer was not properly covered so that the plaintiff fell into the hole. Attorneys Whiteford, Marshall and Hart appear for Mr. Kohr, who is a former employe of the District.

Robber's Bullets Miss Storekeeper

Intruder Fires Two Shots and Flees; Suspect Is Held by Police.

Samuel Weisenberg, 62, of 1431 C street northeast, narrowly escaped injury and possibly death yesterday morning, when he was shot at twice by a colored robber who attempted to hold him up in his delicatessen store at that address.

A colored man was later apprehended by Ninth Precinct police who rushed to the scene after receiving the alarm in their scout car. He gave his name as Ernest Thompson, 19, no address.

Weisenberg told police that the man entered his store shortly before 7 o'clock, and he immediately became suspicious. He said he watched the man closely and when he drew a revolver and fired, he dropped to the floor. The man fired again and then dashed out of the shop, empty handed.

COMMISSION TO SUE GAS PLANT OWNERS

Utilities Body Advises Move as Test Case Under La Follette Act.

The District Commissioners will file suit against the alleged owners of the Washington Gas Light Co. just as soon as the bill can be drafted by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, and People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech. This may be accomplished before the end of the month.

A voluminous transcript of the testimony recorded at the recent ownership hearing was transmitted yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission to the District heads with the recommendation that suit be brought under the La Follette antimerger law by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. The act, which came into force prior to the creation of the utilities body, states that the Commissioners shall bring the suit.

The Commission in its letter of transmittal does not mention the Central Public Service Corporation, the Westfield Trust, nor Col. Albert E. Peirce, but it is obvious that these are the parties alleged to have violated the law.

"There is a possibility that the many transactions set forth in the record constitute a violation of the La Follette antimerger law," the letter states. "This can be determined in no other way than by the decision of a court having jurisdiction."

The letter adds that the record is transmitted "with the recommendation that the corporation counsel be instructed to take the necessary steps to secure, as promptly as possible, a judicial decision which will settle the question at issue."

As the Commissioners have had no part in the hearing or investigation of the gas ownership case, the transmittal of the record is a mere matter of form to conform with the law. It is expected that it will be passed along to Corporation Counsel Bride today.

There is a possibility that the case will never be tried and that its outcome will depend solely on the court opinion as to the validity of the La Follette law.

After the bill is filed in the District Supreme Court, equity division, counsel for the public service corporation will undoubtedly file a motion to dismiss the suit on the ground that the act is unconstitutional and that the commission is without jurisdiction in the matter. If this is overruled, it is possible that the Chicago utility will submit to the authority of the commission and obey its orders without further litigation.

Only one other suit has been filed under the La Follette law in its 13-year history, and that was against the previous owner of the gas companies, the Seaboard Investment Trust. This suit was lost by the District Commissioners on a technicality.

An effort will be made by utility interests to kill the antimerger law in the next Congress if the court upholds it.

Officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will watch the gas suit with considerable interest as Corporation Counsel Bride will withhold suit against them under the same law until the court reaches a decision on the validity of the act.

The Washington telephone company sold $5,000,000 worth of its capital stock to its parent concern and is prepared to make a fight against the La Follette act.

Lieut. Hinton to Be Speaker.

Lieut. Walter Hinton, who was the pilot of the NC-4 when that craft flew across the Atlantic to Europe, will be the speaker at the biweekly meeting of the Women's Guild of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, at 11 o'clock this morning. Herman Fakler will be guest soloist.

Art Mystery Seen in Theft From Gallery

A large painting—valued at $2,500 by its creator, James Waring, Washington artist—depicting "Lindbergh Crossing the Atlantic in the Spirit of St. Louis," has been mysteriously spirited from the second floor gallery of a Connecticut avenue art shop.

Isadore Kune, proprietor of the establishment at 1728 Connecticut avenue, discovered the theft yesterday. Kune said the last time he definitely remembered seeing the painting intact was last Friday.

Considerable puzzlement was expressed as to how the thieves executed their project, inasmuch as the painting was more than 6 feet high, 4 feet in breadth and mounted in a heavy gilt-metal frame.

Waring lives at 1426 M street northwest.

Boy Pleads Guilty To Housebreaking

Alphonzo Frazier, Aid to Slain Youth, Held in $1,500 Bond.

Alphonzo Frazier, Negro youth, companion of Fred Tillman, Negro, 16 years old, who was shot and killed by Policeman J. W. Shimon, of the Third Precinct, after he had entered the home of William H. Lipscomb, 2324 Massachusetts avenue northwest, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of housebreaking. He entered a plea of guilty, and was ordered held in $1,500 bond for the action of the grand jury.

Tillman and Frazier were found by Shimon and Precinct Detective Ruppert McNeill under the M Street Bridge. When the boys were told to halt, one of them made a threatening gesture and Shimon shot at them.

The one bullet struck and killed Tillman. Shimon was absolved by a coroner's jury.

Woman's Leg Is Broken When Hit by Automobile

Emma Pennifield, of 1319 Foxhall road northwest, suffered a fractured leg and severe body bruises yesterday when struck at the intersection of Foxhall and Conduit roads northwest by an automobile, said to have been driven by Harry Stouffer, 38, of Bethesda, Md. Stouffer was arrested by Seventh Precinct police and booked on a charge of reckless driving.

Stouffer took the injured woman, who refused hospital treatment, to her home. Dr. Charles Dugan, 2700 Q street northwest, treated the injured woman and said her condition was not serious.

Young Chinese Is Held In Robbery of Uncle

Frank Wen, 19-year-old Chinese, of 2834 Fourteenth street northwest, was held on investigation charges yesterday by police who arrested him in connection with the robbery of $240 from a safe in a restaurant at Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, which is operated by his uncle, George Wen.

The young Chinese told police that he gave keys to the restaurant to Adam J. Urban, who broke into the safe. Urban was taken into custody by authorities of Columbus, Ohio, and will be returned here to face charges.

TRADE BODY DIRECTS STREET BEGGAR QUIZ

Increase of Mendicants Is Referred to Committee for Special Study.

Disturbed at increase in the number of beggars on the streets of the National Capital, the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce last night directed its committee on charities to study the problem.

Col. William O. Tufts, who brought the matter before the board, said new legislation may be necessary to reduce the number. Local ordinances only provide for arrest of those "interfering with traffic," when articles for sale are carried, it was brought out.

Speakers declared the Community Chest had been consulted and advised the chamber that local charities have made adequate provision for the destitute. Many in the "beggar" class, it was charged, are professionally so, and pursue their calling because it is lucrative.

Following a report by George E. Kneipp, chairman of the transportation committee, the board officially indorsed the new Hoover left-hand turn, reversing its former stand for the "rotary" method.

The board officially went on record against vending of gasoline from trucks on streets, invited Girl Scouts to hold their 1932 national convention in Washington, asked Capital business men to sponsor floats in the Halloween parade, and directed a committee headed by Allan V. DeFord to attend the Public Utility Commission's hearings on the taxicab situation.

Two Men Are Held As Housebreakers

Witness in Third Degree Quiz Is Charged With Furniture Theft.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of housebreaking, Walter Johnson, 28 years old, and Pinkney Henderson, 30 years old, both colored, were ordered held under bonds of $1,000 yesterday by Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court.

Johnson was a complaining witness before the grand jury in its third degree investigation recently. He is now charged with stealing furnishings valued at $39 from the home of James Quick, 109 Four-and-a-half street southwest.

In the third degree quiz Johnson complained he had been threatened by an officer who held in his hand a stick.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SIR THOMAS SAILS HOME.

Up in the yachtsman's heaven,
Sailing a breeze that's fair,
Far from the fog's embraces,
Knowing no fear or care,

Cutting the blue-green waters
Skimming the wondrous seas,
Never to lack the sunshine—
Never to lack a breeze.

Seeing the lee rail under,
Thrilled by the foaming wake,
Sensing the shrouds a-quiver,
Feeling the mainmast shake.

Youthful again, unwrinkled,
Filled with the zest of old;
Sprightly once more and dashing—
Happy again and bold.

Boyish and gay and daring,
Carrying fullest sail;
Scudding atop the breakers,
Fearing no blow or gale.
Scorning the charts and bell buoys,
Needing no marks on land,
Knowing the course is charted
Well by an angel's hand.

Giving no thought to headlands,
Reefs or the hidden bar;
Needing no man-made compass—
Trusting to one great star!

Watch! the sails fill fully,
Making the staysail snug—
Chatting with old-time cronies—
Talking about "the mug."

Peter to trim the mainsheet,
John lending hand, and Paul;
Matthew to help when needed—
Sailorman's buddies, all.

What is that off to leeward?
Look! On the rushing tide—
There in the misty shadows
All the old Shamrocks ride.

Spick as the day you launched them,
Filling your heart with joy;
Hark! On the winds a message—
"Tommy! Ahoy! Ahoy!"

There on the decks are standing,
Wet by the spray far-thrown,
Crews of the old-time Shamrocks
Waving a welcome home!

BOARD OF EDUCATION CHANGES IN SCHOOLS SCORED BY CITIZENS

Resentment Is Expressed by Columbia Heights Body Over Transfer.

NO NOTICE RECEIVED; COLORED GET BUILDING

Additional Traffic Signals to Be Asked for District Under Resolution.

Expressing resentment because the association had not been informed by the Board of Education before it changed a white school to a colored school, the Columbia Heights Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution asking the board to provide such information before making any further change of this character.

The resolution, which was presented by J. Clinton Hiatt, referred to the change of the Monroe School from the white to colored division. The association, according to Mr. Hiatt, had asked the board to notify it before this action was taken, but the board failed to do so. Acting on the strength of a report that the board is considering changing the Hubbard School from white to colored, the resolution stated that there is no need for such a change.

Traffic Signals Asked.

Mr. Hiatt, as chairman of the committee on public safety, presented recommendations of the committee for a stop sign at Holmead place and Spring road northwest, and for traffic signals at Thirteenth and Harvard streets northwest. The association voted to send these recommendations to the Traffic Bureau together with the request that a survey of the Columbia Heights section be made to determine other points where traffic signs are needed.

The traffic director will also be asked by the association to make illegal two and three tone horns on automobiles.

A proposal to make Harvard street a boulevard thoroughfare was referred to the committee on streets and alleys. A resolution, offered by Mrs. Margaret H. Worrell, asking Congress to reestablish the Rent Commission because of "excessive rents in the District" was referred to the committee on law and legislation.

Bicentennial Speaker Heard.

Regret at the deaths of two members in the past few days was expressed in resolutions. These members were: Frederik A. Farnald, book dealer at Thirteenth street and Florida avenue, who died Saturday, and A. J. Henry, editor of the Monthly Weather Review, who died Monday.

Col. John M. Gibbs addressed the association on the George Washington Bicentennial. The meeting was held in the ballroom of the Amsterdam Hotel. Future meetings will be held at this place, it was announced by Albert E. Westrater, president.

Attack on Policeman To Cost Man 60 Days

An attack upon Park Policeman W. E. Riley cost Henry Thomas, colored, 42 years old, 60 days in jail. Sentence was decided in Police Court yesterday when the policeman exhibited two black eyes, two broken teeth and a bruised knee.

Riley had arrested Thomas at Four-and-a-half street and Missouri avenue southwest for being drunk and disorderly. On the way to a patrol box Thomas struck his captor and there was a battle which the policeman eventually won. On the drunk charge Thomas was fined $10 and a $5 fine was given on the disorderly charge.

Police Hold Car Driver Who Felled Boy Skater

Ninth Precinct police last night were holding Earl Parker, colored, 33 years old, 3310 New Hampshire avenue northwest, after 15-year-old Milton Hunter, of 17 Eighth street northeast, suffered severe injuries when run down by Parker's car.

The driver was charged with bad brakes. The Hunter boy was struck while roller skating at the intersection of West Virginia avenue and Neal street northeast, Parker carried him to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated for lacerations to the face and a broken collar bone. His condition is undetermined.

APPEAR IN CHURCH BENEFIT

Appearing in conjunction with a short play, an adult spelling bee and a dance to be held at the St. Paul Rock Creek Parish House at Rock Creek Church road and Webster street Friday and Saturday nights are Catharine Parsons (left) and Barbara Burroughs. The Parish House will also boast of a "Country Store," where a complete line of groceries, vegetables and practically everything known to be on sale in a country store will be sold. The proceeds will go to the benefit of the St. Paul Episcopal Church.

WARDMAN PROPERTY LEASE IS PROPOSED

Guarantee of 4 Per Cent for Three Years Offered to Bondholders.

A plan to lease nine properties of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., now the subject of litigation because of default in the interest payments on bonds totalling over $15,000,000, for a period of three years, with a guarantee that the holders of the mortgage notes shall receive 4 per cent annually on their bonds was broached to attorneys whose clients hold 86 per cent of the notes in the hearing now pending before Justice Jesse C. Adkins to foreclose on the properties and effect a complete reorganization of the financial set-up.

The offer was made in open court and the representative of the group making the offer said that he could satisfy every one as to the financial ability of his clients to meet the terms of the lease. The idea of the three-year lease is to carry the properties over until the real estate market makes possible a sale of them for some figure that would enable the mortgage holders to get back their money.

The reorganization plan would substitute for the present 6½ per cent mortgage notes, new notes of equal face value, which are not callable and which pay interest only out of earnings. A loan of $2,500,000 would be substituted as a first trust and the bonds now outstanding would become junior to the new and smaller loan, which would merely provide the organization with capital to carry on the properties and rehabilitate those that are in need of repairs.

The reorganization plan does not include any provision for holders of notes other than those of the first trust issue. Junior and senior gold debentures totaling almost $4,500,000 are out of the reorganization and the holders of those notes would probably be wiped out.

Justice Adkins has some items about the motion to foreclose upon which he desired further information and for that reason the hearings will not be concluded until late next week. The properties affected are Wardman Park, Carlton Hotel, Chaselton, Department of Justice Building, Stoneleigh Court, 2700 Connecticut avenue, Davenport Terrace, The Boulevard Apartments and North and Center Cathedral Mansions.

Senator King to Address Young Democrats Group

Senator William H. King, of Utah, will address the first meeting of the season of the Young Democrats Club of Washington at the Women's National Democratic Club, 1526 New Hampshire avenue, at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Arthur C. Perry, president, will preside and Miss Elizabeth H. Wheeler, first vice president, will speak.

The organization is made up of young men and women of voting age, most of whom have votes and who represent about half of the States of the Union.

KIN OF WASHINGTON APPEALS APPRAISAL

$11,500 Valuation on Property Desired for Library Held Too Low.

Request for a new condemnation trial, to establish the value of the three-story structure at 216 A street southeast, which houses kin of two early Presidents, yesterday was before Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the District Supreme Court.

Mrs. Lawrence Washington, descendant of President Madison, and widow of the last person born in Mount Vernon, contends that the $11,500 condemnation price fixed on the property, is unjust, and below appraisals placed on other homes of equal value in the vicinity.

Mrs. Washington was visiting at Virginia Beach yesterday, but her daughter, Miss Anne Madison Washington, who recently was hostess at the Colonial Exposition in Paris, was directing her mother's fight to have the property reappraised.

Passed on by Committee.

The $11,500 valuation was placed by appraisal engineers of the Supervising Architect's office of the Treasury, and the office of the Architect of the Capitol. The joint congressional committee named to acquire a site and additional buildings for the Library of Congress, passed upon it, before the property was formally condemned by court action.

It was explained at the Department of Justice yesterday that the period for appealing condemned property values in that neighborhood lapsed yesterday, but Mrs. Washington's request for a new trial was received before the deadline. No other property owners in that section have protested, it was said.

The late Lawrence Washington is a direct line descendant of John Augustine Washington, youngest brother of the first President. Before his death he was in charge of the reading room of the Library of Congress, additions to which will be erected on the site of his home.

$5,000 Spent in Improvements.

Mrs. Washington said that $5,000 had been spent in improving the property. She declared it would be impossible to buy another 12-room house for $11,500.

"Someone said we should be patriotic about it," she added, "but, after all, five of mother's sons went to the World War. That's patriotic enough, I think."

The original charter grant to the site of Mount Vernon hangs framed on the walls of the A street home.

Woman Hurled in River, Is Report; Search Fails

Police last night were still investigating a report that a cab driver had seen two men throw a well-dressed woman into the Potomac River off Hains Point early yesterday morning.

The report was made to the Harbor Precinct by Walter M. Cissel, a taxi driver, of 4415 Ord street northeast. Police said they would continue to inquire into the case.

Reno Divorcee, 19, Bride Of Youth She Met There

Married at 18 and a divorcee at 19, Audrey Yonce, of 2623 Twenty-eighth street northwest, will continue her search for romance on a California honeymoon with a new bridegroom.

Miss Yonce, whose Reno divorce two weeks ago restored her maiden name, will marry Martin Hoyt, son and partner of a Reno hardware dealer next Saturday, it was announced yesterday.

Less than a year ago the girl was married to Theodore Walters, of Washington. She was 18, and he was little older. The match lasted some five months, when she went to Nevada to take advantage of the liberal laws of that State.

While establishing the six weeks' residence that makes Reno what it is, she met Hoyt, who is a graduate of Nevada University. As one marriage was dissolving, another was crystallizing in the city of easy divorces. Walters did not contest the suit and the decree was given a fortnight ago, and now the honeymoon trail is beckoning again.

Cyclist, 11, Canada Bound, Turned Back at Laurel, Md.

"Canada or bust" was the slogan of 11-year-old H. Bruce Clark, jr., of 1343 Clifton street northwest, when he started off for Montreal and points north on a bicycle early yesterday morning.

Young Clark, jr., "busted" before he even got a good start. His escapade came to an abrupt end when he got tangled up in traffic in Laurel, Md., and fell off his bicycle.

He was not hurt and a Laurel policeman sent him, bicycle and all, back to Washington Police Headquarters, where an inventory of his traveling luggage was taken.

The boy had started to Canada with a canteed of water, an Old Testament, two pieces of bread, a change of clothes and his mother's lavaliere, which he said he took to remember her by.

When questioned at headquarters the young globe trotter said he had borrowed the bicycle from Donald Brawner, 12, of Cottage City, Md., after informing him that he was off for Canada. His friend laughed, he said, and let him have the bicycle.

"I was not coming back," young Clark said. When asked what he intended to do for a living, he said he was going to get a job as a newsboy and stay with a friend, Alfred Roy, 12, in Montreal. The boy's father took him home from headquarters.

STRICT PRECAUTIONS BY JUSTICE PROCTOR GUARD JURY CHOICE

Careful Weeding Out Leaves Quiz Body Incomplete at End of Day.

30 ARE LEFT IN PANEL FOR SELECTION OF 23

Questioned 3 Times, Group Finally to Be Asked to Sign Affidavits.

Stringent precautions were taken yesterday by Justice James M. Proctor, associate justice of the District Supreme Court, in picking six petit juries and the grand jury for the fall term. The debacle of the last grand jury, found to have been illegally constituted after ten weeks of work, influenced him in carefully weeding out prospective jurors not eligible for service.

The elimination process was so painstaking that the seven juries had not been officially completed last night when the courthouse was closed.

The grand jury, most important of the groups to be selected, was down to 30 persons, three of whom were women, but the 23 who are eventually to be selected for service remained unknown.

Three More Said Ineligible.

Effort to do away with the possibility of another mishap led last night to rumor that 3 men, of the last 30 who had been tentatively qualified, were not strictly eligible for various reasons. They had been questioned and had apparently been found eligible.

In their second questioning by Charles Coughlin, assistant clerk of the court, two of them said they owned stock in corporations that held Government contracts. No reason was given for the supposed ineligibility of the third man.

Jurors to Sign Answers.

The panels were picked from 550 men and women who crowded the corridors of the courthouse all day. The grand jury is ordinarily picked first, but the process was reversed yesterday.

The grand jury will act on the Bishop James Cannon, jr., case, the third degree cases and many other important matters.
